COVER PICTURE

FELLOW ALUMNI:

SINCE time inevitably goes on and changes take place in the world in general, so at the meeting of the Alumni Association on Alumni Day, June 6, 1941, our good friend and eminently successful President, Pete Chichester, relinquished his office and it has fallen to my lot to attempt to carry on his good work.

He has left an Association which is larger, closer cemented in its ideas and with a smoother working organization than ever before in its history. Good work, hard work and work well done has marked Pete's tenure of office.

In the year to come it will be my aim to continue the smooth running of the Association and, if possible, leave it in as good condition, if I cannot improve it, than when I took over. To continue a successful

Many Old Grads on Hand for 49th Reunion

Portrait Of The Late Willard M. Hillegeist Presented — Woolford, '87, On Hand — Parker, '05, Elected President

THANKS to the Weather Man, we had a most delightful Alumni Day. All week it had rained but on Thursday night, June 5th, it stopped and cleared off for Alumni Day and Commencement Day. This shows that everybody must be living right at College Park.

Alumni from the classes of 1880 to 1941 dotted the campus for the 49th Annual Reunion. Dr. R. S. Griffith, '80, was the oldest Alumnus present. Mr. Cator Woolford, '87, was second in age. Dr. H. B. McDonnell, '88, third and Dr. Fletcher P. Veitch, '91, leader of the Fiftieth Reunion Class, carried top honors for classes.

Festivities began in earnest when Dr. Veitch, with the aid of his son, F. P. Veitch, Jr., '35, and accompanied by Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, and P. W. Chichester, '20, Association President, raised the class flag as the honor class of the day. A good assemblage of Alumni were on hand for the ceremony.

Luncheon

Following the flag-raising the old grads packed the Dining Hall for the annual luncheon at 12.30 P. M. with President P. W. Chichester presiding. At this time honor was paid a deceased graduate who had given generously of his time in the services of his Alma Mater, the late Willard M. Hillegeist, '12. Prof. Charles S. Richardson, retired head of the Public Speaking Department presented a portrait in oil of Willard Hillegeist to the University on behalf of James W. Stevens and James Swartz, both of the class of 1919.

"Most of you here knew Mr. Willard Hillegeist," spoke Professor Richardson. "Some of you knew him intimately and those who knew him intimately will agree with me in saying that he was one of the most faithful servants that the University of Maryland has ever had and when he passed away it could have been truly said of him, 'Well done, thou good and faithful servant.' He was honest, he was energetic, he was always governed by a sense of duty and he was unusually capable and able in the performance of his official duties. Jimmie Stevens and Jimmie Swartz knew 'Hillic' well and if they had no other reason for selecting him as the subject of this portrait that would suffice, but there is another reason. This greatest part of this man who has passed away was his spiritual self. He was kind, understanding, sympathetic, giving all that he had to his business and to his friends. . . . I want to mention one quality that Willard had that I wish more people of the world possessed. He was always cheerful and even in the midst of physical pain he had a pleasant smile and a jolly word for any friend he might chance to meet."

Dr. A. A. Parker, '05, M.D., '09, was elected President of the Alumni Association at the annual meeting. He is a prominent resident of the Eastern Shore and outstanding physician. His interest in the University has been increasing ever since the first day he became a student. The '06 Reveille student year book prints, "Parker as a rooter is better than any ten men."

Dr. Parker has previously served on the Alumni Board and is a past President of the "M" Club. His athletic prowess was manager of football and he was a baseball player of importance.

Dr. A. A. Parker, '05

Dr. H. J. Patterson, retired director of the Experiment Station and Willard Hillegeist's first University employer accepted the portrait in behalf of the University. Mrs. Stevens unveiled the portrait as Mrs. Hillegeist and Willard's brother, Charles E. Hillegeist, looked on.

Excerpts from the remarks of Dr. Patterson:

"In accepting on behalf of the University of Maryland this fine photograph of Willard M. Hillegeist, I know I voice the sentiments and grateful appreciation of all present as well as persons who had the good fortune to know Mr. Hillegeist."

"This portrait is fine and about as real and life-like as the artist's brush can produce. To many of us it is not necessary to have a brush to make us remember and recall his fine appearance, his outstanding personality, character, and qualities. These have been so indelibly impressed upon us that he lives with us continuously, and will live in our memory and hearts for all times. . . .

"On behalf of the University, the Alumni, and the friends, I want to convey to Jimmy Stevens and Jimmy Swartz of the class of 1919 our grateful and sincere appreciation of their noble act and purpose in presenting to the University this fine portrait of Willard M. Hillegeist."

DR. SKINNER

For a quarter of a century Dr. W. W. Skinner, '95, has served well his Alma Mater. In 1916, when the Maryland Agricultural College became the Maryland State College and an institution under full State supervision, Dr. Skinner was appointed by the late Albert C. Ritchie, then Governor of Maryland, to the Board of Regents. He was shortly to be appointed Secretary of the Board, a position he fulfilled for 18 years. In 1935, following the resignation of Mr. George M. Shriver, then Chairman of the Board, Dr. Skinner was elected to that office, in which he served until his resignation.

Dr. Skinner is a graduate in chemistry and at the present is with the United States Department of Agriculture as Associate Chief of Agricultural Chemistry and Engineering. His duties in this department have carried him to South America, the West Indies, Europe and to practically every State in the Union.

Football

Reviewing his college days, Dr. Skinner was a pioneer in the development of football at College Park. He was quarterback on the first team to play and establish the beginning of a long record of outstanding collegiate football history. That was in 1892 and Dr. Skinner was more familiarly known by his teammates as "Sal" Skinner. His interest in Old Line athletics has never waned because he will gleefully reminisce about the early episodes as well as recall the outstanding accomplishments of the teams for the past forty-nine years. Next year his team will be celebrating the first 50th anniversary reunion of a football team at College Park.

Dr. Skinner, the Alumni gratefully appreciates the generous service you have rendered our Alma Mater for these many years. Your endeavor in behalf of the University is a shining example for your fellow Alumni. Your interest in the activities of the Alumni Association and assistance you have given has been far more valuable than anyone can conjecture.

On behalf of the Alumni Association the NEWS takes this occasion to thank you and extend our most sincere wishes for your health and happiness.

Mr. Holzapfel, Chairman

Our eminent Alumnus, the Honorable Henry Holzapfel, Jr., '93, has been elected Chairman of the Board of Regents to succeed Dr. W. W. Skinner, '93, who recently resigned. Mr. Holzapfel was originally appointed to the Board of Trustees of the Maryland Agricultural College in April, 1912, which became the Board of Regents of the University when the consolidation of the Maryland State College and the University of Maryland in Baltimore took place in 1920.

Mr. Holzapfel is a prominent business man of Western Maryland and vice-president of the Potomac Edison Company. He is a past president of the Alumni Association and has always taken an active interest in Alumni affairs. Three sons are also graduates of the University: Henry III, '29, LL.B. '32; William McClave, '29, now a Delegate in the State Legislature, and Norman McC., '41, a graduate of the College of Commerce.

On behalf of the Alumni Association the NEWS extends congratulations and best wishes for a most successful administration to Mr. Holzapfel.

NEW REGENT

As prescribed by law, on June 2, Mr. Phillip C. Turner, a prominent agricultural leader in the State, was appointed by Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, '20, to succeed Mr. H. H. Nuttle, '05, whose term expired this year as a member of the Board of Regents.

Mr. Turner is a resident of Baltimore County, the president of the Maryland Farm Bureau Federation and chairman of the State Fair Board. He is a leading dairyman and crop producer. In 1939 the University conferred upon him a Certificate of Merit for his outstanding contributions to agriculture in the State.

Mr. H. H. Nuttle, '05, retiring member, is a prominent canner and agriculture leader of the Eastern Shore. His son Byron H. was a freshman last year in the College of Agriculture. To Mr. Nuttle the Alumni Association wishes to express thanks for the splendid services rendered as a member of the Board of Regents.

*More Than 800 Received Degrees —
Gov. O'Connor, '20, LL.B., Was Present*

Every seat taken and more desired was the situation at the one hundred and thirty-fourth Commencement Exercises held in the Ritchie Coliseum, Saturday, June seventh. Eight hundred and fifty receivers of degrees heard the Hon. Paul V. McNutt deliver an oratorical Commencement address.

His Excellency, Herbert R. O'Connor, '20, LL.B., Governor of Maryland, accompanied by President Byrd, '08, led the procession of dignitaries, regents and faculty. Governor O'Connor made brief but comprehensive remarks to those seniors who were about to become fellow Alumni.

Honorary degrees were conferred upon Mr. McNutt, Mr. Howard Bruce, prominent public citizen of Baltimore, Dr. George E. Bennett, prominent physician of Baltimore and Dr. Henry A. Brown Dunning, well-known pharmacist of Baltimore. They received the honorary degree of Doctor of Science.

Honorary certificates in Agriculture were awarded Mr. Levin Otis Corkran of Caroline County, Mr. Clay Pennington Whiteford, '05, of Harford County and Mr. Daniel Ewing Wight of Frederick County.

These certificates are awarded each year by the University to those men who have contributed the most for the progress of Agriculture in the state.

More than eight hundred and fifty seniors from the undergraduate colleges at College Park and the professional schools in Baltimore received their diplomas.

MILITARY AT MARYLAND

MILITARY history at the College Park schools of the University began more than seventy-five years ago. It was in 1887 when a cadet company won national recognition by winning second honors in the National Encampment and Drill held in Washington, D. C., which attracted crack drill companies from the entire nation. Several years later our cadets were in the national limelight at the St. Louis World's Fair.

Cadet Leaders

Maryland graduates have made noteworthy contributions to their country in military service. In the World War No. 1 many graduates answered the call and distinguished themselves in the line of duty. Now among the high-ranking officers of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps you can find Maryland graduates carrying the banner of service.

In the early years the college was entirely a military-conducted institution. In 1920 when the College Park school became a part of the University of Maryland, the R. O. T. C. became the new military organization. This requires but two hours of drill a week with one class period. No reveille and no taps.

In 1923, under the new set-up, the R. O. T. C. received an excellent rating, a standard it has maintained ever since.

At the termination of each year Reserve Officers' Commission as second lieutenant are awarded to those seniors who have successfully completed the advanced course. For the past eight years several of Maryland's honor graduates in military have been awarded regular commissions in the Army and Marine Corps. Today Maryland graduates holding reserve commissions are being called to active duty in the National Defense Program. Of the 68 graduates receiving reserve commissions this year 40 were ordered to active duty by July first. The remainder will be called as soon as they reach 21.

For the information of Alumni your University prepares students to become officers when called to active duty. Here are a few of the many phases of instruction given: Military courtesy, command and leadership, military hygiene and first aid, marksmanship, scouting and patrolling, musketry, small arms, machine gun, automatic rifle, trench mortars, tank and combat leadership. The R. O. T. C. in College Park is primarily infantry training.

The instructional staff has been enlarged to care for the increased enrollment which now has more than 1200 boys in the regiment.

No better corps of instructors and no better course in Social Life

Armored Tanks

Military Science and Tactics will be found in another State University. Acting Professor of Military Science and Tactics at Maryland is Lieut.-Col. Robert E. Wysor, Jr., a graduate of Virginia Military Institute in 1915. He entered the Army in 1917 and saw action in the World War with the Army of Occupation. His staff has eight additional officers and four non-commissioned officers. Among the officers five former Marylanders are on duty here. They are Lieut. Robert Beall, '36, Lieut. R. W. Jones, '38, Lieut. Harold L. Kelly, '37, Lieut. Edward Quinn, '33, and Lieut. Ralph Williams, '33.

Fellow Alumni, today the same as for many years past the University of Maryland is offering a splendid opportunity to the youth of our State. In this great hour of National Defense the youth can prepare themselves for duty as citizens and as soldiers to become leaders in this great army of progress at your University.

For more information regarding this military program write your Alumni Office.

Reserve Commission Awarded

A special ceremony for the awarding of Reserve Officers' Commissions to senior members of the R. O. T. C. was held in front of the Library near the flag pole with Col. Robert E. Wysor, acting P. M. T. and S., at the University, presiding. Dr. H. C. Byrd spoke to the senior cadets prior to receiving their Reserve Officers' Commissions. Forty of the men received orders to report for active duty by July first. The others as soon as they become twenty-one. Quite a large gathering attended the exercises.

Following the awarding of commissions special retreat ceremonies were held at the flag pole as the final gesture of those seniors who had completed their military training at Maryland. The band was on hand and the retreat ceremony was quite impressive.

DR. T. H. TALIAFERRO RETIRES

Probably few men have a warmer feeling in their heart for the University than Dr. Thomas Hardy Taliaferro, retiring Dean of the Faculty. He leaves the University after nearly two score years of service with an enviable record of accomplishments as teacher, dean and administrator. Perhaps no other man in the University has exerted such forceful influence on his students as has "Doc. Tolly."

Dr. Taliaferro is a graduate of the West Point of the South, Virginia Military Institute, in the class of 1890. He immediately began his enviable career as a teacher at V. M. I. Soon his services were sought by the University of Florida where he served until 1904 when he came to Maryland as a teacher of mathematics. His influence, knowledge and wisdom were soon recognized and he was destined to become one of the leading figures in the University faculty. He has given generously of his services as head of the Department of Mathematics, Dean of Engineering, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and Dean of the Faculty.

As a gesture to this sterling character, scholar and teacher the faculty tendered Dr. and Mrs. Taliaferro a reception at the Rossborough Inn on Tuesday, May 27, last. At this time a handsome memento as a token of esteem for two eminent characters was presented. Preceding the reception Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, a former pupil of Dr. Taliaferro, gave a buffet supper at his home in honor of Dr. and Mrs. Taliaferro.

Dr. and Mrs. Taliaferro, the Alumni have always felt it a great honor to have your association and even though "Doc. Tolly" has retired from active service, feel assured that we consider you both one of us. The best of wishes for your health and happiness.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Bob Smith Gets Chief Award As 68 Varsity Athletes Are Honored At An Assembly

Sixty-eight Maryland athletes who participated in spring sports were awarded letters and other honors at an assembly just before school closed. It strictly was an informal "home" party, with the ceremonies taking place in the Women's Field House and dancing following.

Robert Herman (Bob) Smith, baseball pitcher and football center, was accorded the highest honor, receiving the Silvester watch, offered by the class of 1908 for the man who typifies the best in college athletics.

Fields Receives Ring

Smith is from Woodlyne, N. J.; Fields from Hyattsville, Md.; Mueller from Baltimore, and England from Washington, D. C.

Only 26 of the 68 will be lost by graduation, but among them are some exceptional athletes, including Fields, Mueller, Joe Murphy of football and track fame, Gene Ochsenreiter, trackman and basketer, Phil Burkom of the tennis team, and many others. Smith is through as a footballer, but has another year as a pitcher.

Lacrosse is the hardest hit, losing five regulars and a leading reserve.

Eighty-three freshmen also got numerals in the various spring pastimes, 30 in lacrosse, 19 in baseball, 15 in track, 10 in tennis and nine in rifle.

Honor Richly Deserved

A moral echo may come from every tick of the glittering watch that Smith received. It reached the right party for Smith's courage, zeal and cheerfulness stood out like a beacon in a year that found Maryland's athletic success far below normal.

Smith veritably held the line together in football by his stellar work at center, although prematurely counted out because of a knee injury that threatened to terminate his career, and then helped rally a wavering diamond squad by some surprisingly good pitching.

His selection as the honor man of the class of athletes for '41 was the most popular Old Line officials could have made and must have been particularly gratifying to Bob who, after stories appeared that he was through because of his game leg, vowed he'd play football if he had to hobble on crutches.

Those To Get Awards

Chance, Dwyer, England, Maisel and Cline will be lost.

LACROSSE — Charles Allen, Joe Coster, Bob Fetters, Jim Forbes, John Garrett, Bill Graham, Ray Grelecki, Frederick Hill, Howard Keller, Jack Mueller, Jordan Sexton, Al Slesinger, Milt vanden Berg, Fred Widener and Donald Murphy, manager.

Allen, Garrett, Graham, Mueller, Sexton and Widener will be lost.

TRACK — Luther Conrad, Louis Chacos, Robert Condon, Randal Cronin, Thomas Devlin, Thomas Fields, John Gilmore, Melvin Leonberger, Vernon Miller, Joe Murphy, Gene Ochsenreiter, Bob Porter, John Prinz, Henry Rockstroh, Dick Shaffer, Willis Smith, Bill Tilley, Daniel Harwood, manager, and William Brendle, freshman manager.

Condon, Fields, Miller, Murphy, Ochsenreiter and Shaffer will be lost.

TENNIS — Elwood Bates, H. Griffith Baugher, Hyman Berg, Phil Burkom, Jim Burnside, Slater Clarke, Jim Hardev, Doyle Royal, Alvin Salganick, manager, and William Brendle, freshman manager.

Burkom, Burnside and Hardev will be lost.

RIFLE — Frank Carpenter, Ulrich Geller, Guy Goodman, Lawrence Haskins, Jr., Raymond Hodgins, Alden Imus, Fletcher Jones, John Marzolf, Paul Newgarden, Robert Rands, William Reith, Robert Ravello, Lacy Hall, manager, and Vernon McKinstry, freshman manager.

Hodgins, Haskins, Imus and Marzolf will be lost.

Minor awards went to the following golfers:

William Cook, Robert Harmon, Gail Holmes and Leonard Liebman.

Liebman will be lost.

Spring Season Is Good, Except On Diamond

WITH the exception of the baseball teams — both varsity and freshman — Maryland combinations in spring sports played fully up to expectations, to capture a majority of their contests.

Despite the fact that the ball team lost 18 of 25 games, the varsity squads registered 29 wins against 27 defeats. With the rookie nine being the only team on the wrong side of the ledger, the yearlings had a total of 19 victories against nine defeats.

These records are for teams in baseball, track, lacrosse and tennis and do not include the golf outfit, which won a large majority of its contests. That pastime still is on a minor basis.

Pitching Is Lacking

Pitching was the big weakness of the varsity and frosh ball teams, as both outfits scored fully as many, if not more runs, than in normal seasons.

In addition to the records below, the tracksters scored heavily in title meets, the varsity being third in the Southern Conference and winning the District A. A. U. team championship with the frosh in second place.

Although losing the national title after holding it for two years, the varsity lacrosse team did all right. It won 8 of 11 games, losing three, as it figured it would, before the season began. It appears certain that the stick outfit will get no worse than a tie for second place in the national rating, probably sharing this spot with Princeton and Army.

An outstanding feat was performed by Heck Horn, who helped the frosh track team to an unbeaten season. He broke all University and Byrd Stadium records by hurling the discus 148 feet 10 inches. This was the only track mark to be broken during the year.

Good Frosh Material

Frosh lacrosse, track and tennis squads will send up more than the usual number of good prospects and the baseball outfit, despite its poor record, will provide three or four players of high caliber.

Here are the records of the teams:

ber of the class of 1887, brought an enlarged picture of the prize-winning M. A. C. cadet company, which won second honors in the National Encampment and Drill, held in Washington, D. C., in 1887. Mr. Woolford was second sergeant in the company and Mr. Melvin C. Hazen was first lieutenant. The National Encampment assembled in Washington nearly a hundred crack drill companies from various sections of the country in the most extensive competitive drill ever held.

Sergeant Woolford presented, on behalf of his fellow collegians, a picture of this company to be placed in the collection of past honors of his Alma Mater. Mr. Woolford is founder and president of the Retail Credit Co., and formerly an Eastern Shoreman. Following his presentation remarks he conferred on President Byrd membership in the Nation's One Hundred Percent Efficiency Club for outstanding accomplishments.

President Byrd received the picture on behalf of the University and expressed grateful appreciation for the honor Mr. Woolford had conferred upon him. He lauded Mr. Woolford for his accomplishments in organizing a great business industry.

Annual Meeting

President Chichester called the annual meeting of the Association to order and asked the secretary for a resumé of the minutes of the previous meeting with a treasurer's report. The President then made a few remarks, introduced the past presidents and the reunion classes.

Committee reports were then heard. The first from Mr. R. M. Watkins, '23, chairman of the Alumni Athletic Committee.

The special committee of the University of Maryland Alumni Board, composed of R. M. Watkins, Chairman; Omar Crothers, Jr., J. M. Lescure and Charles W. Sylvester met with Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University. The committee laid before Dr. Byrd a general proposition whereby the Alumni Association offered its services and pledged its cooperation to the University authorities in improving athletics at the University.

President Byrd concurred in the suggestion and expressed his appreciation for the spirit of the Alumni Board in offering its assistance. President Byrd then gave a comprehensive picture of the whole athletic program and its future policy. From the discussion the following conclusions may be drawn:

1. That the University athletic authorities intend to continue intercollegiate competition in athletics on a high plane and meet those institutions whose standards are comparable to ours.

2. That it appears possible to work out an arrangement through the Alumni whereby definite help may be given to worthy students of high and prep schools through the establishment of Alumni scholarships.

3. That President Byrd considers it desirable to discuss the entire situation with the General Alumni Council, including the special committee from the Alumni Board.

Dr. F. B. Bomberger, '95, chairman of the Alumni Fund Trustees, reported that because of sickness and business pressure little had been done during the past year but inasmuch as next year was to be the Golden Anniversary of our Association the Trustees were focusing their plans to make 1942 the Golden Year.

Parker, '05, President

Chairman Charles W. Sylvester, '08, of the Nominating Committee, presented the following slate: For president, Dr. A. A. Parker, '05, of Pocomoke City, Md.; first vice-president, Mr. R. M. Watkins, '23, of Calvert Hills, Md.; second vice-president, Mr. Austin C. Diggs, policy it is necessary to have whole-hearted support and cooperation from all Alumni — recent graduates and graduates who, though not old, are of an earlier vintage.

I have read somewhere that there are three kinds of Alumni: first, a small group of those who make things happen; second, a larger group consisting of those who watch things happen; third, a much larger group, including an overwhelming majority who have no idea of what is happening.

It is my sincere hope that, during the coming year, the Alumni of the University of Maryland will, more than ever before, realize the importance of their position toward the University, the tremendous influence for good they can have on its future and the fact that their continued indifference make it more difficult for the institution to acquire and maintain its rightful place among the leading Universities in the country.

We all have an added incentive to arouse and stimulate our interest this year. It is the fiftieth year of existence of the Alumni Association, A Golden Anniversary. Surely all the boys, from the fifty-year-old grad to the babe born graduation week of 1941 should, and I feel will, want to contribute from their stores of knowledge, influence and affluence, begun at the University of Maryland, and increased in the University of Life to the grand old Institution on the Hill.

Join those Alumni who are making things happen. Begin living a new college life with your old friends and make new ones. By so doing you will enjoy your return visits to the campus, always feel at home there and in addition increase your service to your old school, your pleasure in living and be a greater benefit to the world in general.

Other messages will be broadcast from time to time. "Tune in on the ALUMNI NEWS."

Sincerely,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

'21, of Baltimore. Four members-at-large — To represent men: Mr. Omar Crothers, Jr., '28, of Elkton, Md., and Mr. C. V. Koons, '29, of Washington, D. C.; to represent women: Miss May Louise Woods, '28, of Silver Spring, Md., and Mrs. Agnes McNutt Krickner, '32, of Towson, Md. All were unanimously elected.

Following the annual meeting the Boards of Representatives met in the Dean's office of the various colleges and selected their new members and appointed the college representatives on the General Alumni Board.

Class Reunions

In addition to 1891, another class in the 90's had a good report. While not many were present, Clifton E. Fuller of Cumberland, said all members had been heard

Prof. W. T. L. Taliaferro [Succumbs

A well-known, loved and admired man with many friends has been called from among the living. Dr. W. T. L. Taliaferro, retired faculty member, died at his home in College Park on June 4. Funeral services were held at 9 A. M. on Alumni Day, June 6. President P. W. Chichester, '20, of the Alumni Association, was a pall-bearer.

Never a more impressive character traversed the campus or served on the faculty of our Alma Mater. For no man has been more a part of every student or faculty in the University of Maryland than Professor Taliaferro.

He was very near to the heart of many Alumni who had had the good fortune to have benefited by his knowledge and wisdom. He had a philanthropic mind and gave unselfishly his services for the people, which is an inspiration to our youth. Many Alumni deeply regret the passing of this noble person, as few others will go from the midst of the living and leave a sense of deeper personal loss than this splendid man, who has been taken by death from the intimate affections of so many friends.

On behalf of the Alumni Association the News takes this occasion to express sincere condolence to the loved ones with whom he lived.

from and he had received a full report on their autobiography.

In the class of 1901 his highness, H. C. "Dick" Whiteford, presented himself as representing 100% of the surviving members.

There were two rivals in class reunions, 1916, celebrating their twenty-fifth anniversary, and 1921, their twentieth anniversary. It is hard to tell which had the best time. The boys of 1921 said they were just tuning up for a real twenty-fifth reunion.

Other five-year reunion classes with representatives were 1911, 1926, 1931, and 1936. Lieut. H. C. Byrd, Jr., '36, U. S. A., came from Camp Jackson, S. C., to be on hand for his first five-year reunion.

Senior Class - Faculty - Alumni Dinner

For the first time in many years the Senior Class and the Alumni joined forces in presenting a Class Day program on Alumni Day. The seniors, several hundred strong, attended the dinner in the University Dining Hall, led by Robert Rice, president, and John G. Reckord, president of the Student Government Association.

Senator Millard E. Tydings, '10, had expected to be present and deliver the principal address on the inaugural occasion of the Alumni and Senior Dinner but unavoidable business duties took him to New York at the last minute. He deeply regretted missing the opportunity to talk to the combined forces of seniors and Alumni for a greater University of Maryland.

Dr. Byrd Spoke

Dr. H. C. Byrd gave a comprehensive outline of the University's program and reviewed rather completely the athletic plan. The following excerpts are from Dr. Byrd's remarks.

"When you as seniors become Alumni after you receive your diplomas tomorrow morning, you accept new responsibilities in your relationship to this Institution.

" . . . Let me say to you that the University is not going to build itself into any greater, any more useful, institution as far as the State and the people of Maryland are concerned, than your work and achievement warrant.

" . . . Two or three rumors have got around in regard to athletics. I do not know how they could have got around unless someone thought I was completely bereft of my senses, but in one way or another it seems that the rumor has gone around that we were going to abolish all our intercollegiate schedules. We are going to do nothing of the kind. We are going to continue to play the kind of schools that will be a credit to the University and we are going to have teams good enough to compete on even terms with such schools.

" . . . I do not see any reason why the Alumni should not establish scholarships at the University. Make them permanent and have them awarded through the scholarship committee and have it understood that no man is to receive one of those scholarships simply because he is a football player.

" . . . We have far-reaching plans. We have plans which would go far into the future and will encompass work of all kinds in the State of Maryland. What we are going to do the next year in regard to new equipment and new buildings will not be a great deal. There will be some. In Baltimore we will have a new addition to the Nurses' Home. Here at College Park we are going to build a new armory that will adequately house the Military Department."

Senior Awards

Following the dinner Class Day exercises by the seniors were presented on the Terrace in front of the Library under a mellow full moon such as you see only on the "Campus on the Hill." Special entertainment preceded the awarding of top honors to the seniors who had performed outstanding accomplishments during their four years at Maryland. Those receiving honors were:

Men's Citizenship Prize, offered by President H. C. Byrd, class of 1908, was awarded to John G. Reckord of Baltimore.

Women's Citizenship Prize, offered by Mrs. Albert F. Woods, was awarded to Carolyn Barnes Gray of Poolesville.

The Mortar Board Cup, offered to the woman having the highest scholastic average went to Mildred Virginia Stubbs of Mount Rainier.

The American Institute of Chemists' Medal for the highest average in chemistry went to Richard Alvan Clark of Alexandria, Va.

Service Award, offered by the staff of the Office of the Dean of Women, went to Lida Esther Sargeant of Silver Spring, Md.

The Honor Key, offered by the class of 1926 of the School of Business Administration of the University of Maryland at Baltimore, was awarded to Norman Harold Silverman of Washington, D. C.

Bernard L. Crozier Award, offered by the Maryland Association of Engineers, was awarded to Lawrence Judson Hodgins, Jr. of College Park.

The American Society of Civil Engineers Award went to Lawrence Judson Hodgins, Jr., of College Park.

Alpha Lambda Delta Sorority Award for the highest scholastic average, was awarded to Mildred Virginia Stubbs of Mount Rainier.

Sigma Alpha Omicron Award in Bacteriology was awarded to Ruth Estelle Evans.

The Hillegeist Memorial Award for Excellence in English, offered by Mrs. W. M. Hillegeist in memory of her husband, the late Williard M. Hillegeist, '12, former Director of Admissions, was awarded to Molly B. Tulin of Hartford, Conn.

The Charles B. Hales Award in Dramatics to the senior man and woman outstanding in dramatics went to Albert Stillman Coleman and Earla Ball Marshal.

Immediately following the Exercises the grand finale of social activities, the Commencement Ball, was held in the Gym-Armory, which was elaborately decorated in summer colors. Seniors, Alumni and faculty danced together in the final social event of the school year, 1940-1941. The next day those seniors of 1941 became infant Alumni at the one hundred and thirty-fourth Commencement Exercises.

Reception At Rossborough

Carrying out the tradition of the Rossborough Inn as a social center, the Alumni Association held a reception for the returning old grads, faculty and members of the senior class.

In the receiving line with President and Mrs. P. W. Chichester were Dr. Byrd, Mr. Robert Rice, president of the senior class; Miss Elizabeth Powers, secretary of the senior class and Miss Jeanne M. Santamarie, president of Mortar Board.

Coeds, dressed in Colonial costumes acting the part of hostesses added much to the atmosphere of welcome and hospitality. In the garden a quartet of negroes dressed as slaves provided music by playing and singing plantation songs and negro spirituals. It was an atmosphere which exists in only one place, the Rossborough Inn, Alumni mecca on Homecoming and Alumni Day.

THE new Administration Building, from a drawing made by O. R. Carrington, '28, for the Terra-pin, yearbook.

This building faces west and is located in the valley on the north campus. It forms the eastern end of a quadrangle which has the new Home Economics, Agriculture, Arts and Sciences on the south side; Anne Arundel Hall, Girls' Dorm on the west, and the Poultry Building, Horticulture, Engineering, and Margaret Brent Hall on the north side. Landscaping of the new campus now is progressing rapidly and will be completed by Homecoming, October 18.

The new Administration Building houses the offices of the President, Controller, Director of Admissions, and Registrar. The Director of Athletics, Dean of Men, and Alumni Office. Also the Student Government and Publication Offices, the Bookstore and Post Office.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Summer time is when a fellow should be allowed to go fishing in peace, especially when he lives in a fisherman's country as I do, Pocomoke City, Maryland, on old Eastern Shore. But the Editor of our publication reminds me that a letter from me is desired. If so, here it is straight from the shoulder.

You read in the last issue of the News what President Byrd said at the Alumni-Senior Class Dinner, but let me repeat it to keep your memory refreshed. "Let me say to you that the University is not going to build itself into any greater, any more useful institution as far as the

Woolford Presents Above Picture To University

In the last issue of the ALUMNI NEWS, it was mentioned that Cator Woolford, '87, founder and president of the Retail Credit Company, presented a picture of a prize cadet company to the University, but space did not permit a great deal of elaboration. Also, the picture of Mr. Woolford making the presentation to President Byrd was spoiled by the photographer in printing, so no picture. But we have a picture of that prize company, one of Mr. Woolford of a few years ago, and a photostatic copy of the publicity about the company as it appeared in the Washington paper in 1887.

This company was commanded by Cadet Capt. J. B. Weems, '87, deceased. Second in command was Cadet First Lieutenant Melvin C. Hazen, '87, deceased. The Cadet Second Sergeant Cator Woolford, '87, donor of the picture in honor of his fellow students.

The National Encampment and Drill held in June, 1887, was and still is the biggest thing of its kind ever held. Crack drill companies, state militia, and military college and organizations from all over the country came to Washington for the competition. The drill was held on the Elipse south of the White House. The companies camped on the Monument Grounds.

Sergeant Woolford, fortunately, was assigned to a rather important post during the drill. He was special attaché to the drill committee and was in charge of having companies ready and on time for their period of drill. Not only did he carry out his duties, but became a good observer for the benefit of his company as well. Consequently, when the Maryland Agricultural College Cadet Company performed, they were nearly perfect and came off with second honors.

The Cadets of the Maryland Agricultural College will go into camp Monday and contest for the cadet prize. The Maryland Agricultural College is located at College Station, Prince George's County, on the B. & O. R. R., eight miles from Washington. The institution was founded in 1848 by a stock company for the advancement of agricultural science, when there was scarcely another college of its class in the United States. A few years later, when Congress had provided for the establishment of a college in every State to pro-more scientific agriculture and the mechanical arts, the State of Maryland bought a controlling interest in this college and made it the beneficiary of the fund accruing to the State for the purpose under the Government grant of lands. In accordance with the law of Congress of 1862, endowing such colleges, regular military drills, together with the study of military tactics, is required of all students. Capt. J. B. Weems commands the selected company which takes part in the National Drill. The uniform of the Cadets is that of the U. S. Military Academy.

Old Grads, Register Your Presence

Many old grads return to the campus at Homecoming and on Alumni Day who fail to register. Registering is the only way for the Alumni Office to know who were here. Many Alumnus think it will be necessary to pay Alumni dues if they register. That is not true. Any Alumnus may register without paying his dues. In fact, they are not called dues, but contributions to a worthy cause.

Register when you come to the campus at Reunion time or any time, in the Alumni Office, as we wish to record your visits and tell fellow Alumni that you were here. It is this esprit de corps that will bring your fellow Alumni back to the campus for reunions and, after all, that is the principal reason why you return, to see those fellows you knew in bygone days. In the future, your cooperation will be appreciated.

Among those present for Alumni Day, June 6, 1941, were the following:

- CLASS OF 1880 — R. S. Griffith, M.D., Park Station, Waynesboro, Va.
- CLASS OF 1891 — F. P. Veitch, College Park, Md.
- CLASS OF 1892 — F. W. Besley, Baltimore, Md.
- CLASS OF 1894 — Chas. W. Cairnes, Washington, D. C.

MARYLAND'S NEW ARMORY

As a part of the Defense Program the construction of the new Armory will be started on the campus this summer. This Armory will be located in rear of the new Administration Building and face the boulevard. The cost will be more than $200,000 and will, for the first time, adequately house the Military Department. The Armory will be approximately 240 feet long and 121 feet wide. Even though there were more than twelve hundred men in the unit last year it is expected that this year will exceed that number. The military course presented at the University has an excellent rating by the War Department. The majority of the R. O. T. C. graduates are now in active duty in the United States Army.

- CLASS OF 1909 — R. M. Ager, Chillum, Md.; Francis H. Dryden, Washington, D. C.; J. O. A. Halloway, Bellerose, N. Y.

The Honorable Melvin C. Hazen, '88, Succumbs

The Alumni Association has a good reason to mourn the death of Melvin C. Hazen, '88. He was our first President. It was he, in 1892, when the college needed the enthusiastic and loyal support of Alumni, who brought them together and organized the Alumni Association. From a mere handful he has seen his Alma Mater and Association grow into its thousands of members.

In his student days Melvin Hazen was a leader. He was First Lieutenant of the prize drill company at the National Encampment and Drill. Also, he was captain of the first athletic team to make history at the University in 1887. It was his team that performed a feat which has never been equaled in the history of Maryland. They played St. John's College and the Navy on the same day and won both games.

Mr. Hazen became a District of Columbia surveyor in 1899 several years after graduating. Since then he has given generously of his services to our Nation's Capital. His rise was steady and continuous until he was given the honored position of chairman of the Board of Commissioners of the District of Columbia, the position he held at the time of his death. He zealously gave his service to improve Washington and community in order to make it a better place in which to live.

Several years ago the citizens of Washington tendered Mr. Hazen a Testimonial Dinner indicating to him their admiration and gratitude for the great part he has played in building a greater Washington.

In 1937 Mr. Hazen performed the honors for his class on Alumni Day by raising the class flag in recognition of their Fiftieth Anniversary. In 1939 he, the captain of Maryland's first baseball team, threw out the ball to open Maryland's collegiate season in honor of the Centennial Celebration for the national pastime, founded in 1839.

Mr. and Mrs. Hazen as they once again sit in a typical carriage of the vintage in which they started their honeymoon. This was in the lobby of the Mayflower Hotel at the time when the Testimonial Dinner was tendered Mr. Hazen.

PHARMACY CENTENNIAL CELEBRATION

A fourth time in the history of the University a professional school held a centennial celebration. In 1907, Medicine; in 1913, Law; in 1940, Dental, and in 1941, Pharmacy.

The celebration just held, during Commencement Week, presented an interesting four-day program, terminating with graduation exercises on Saturday, June 7, at College Park.

The School of Pharmacy of the University was originally the Maryland College of Pharmacy, incorporated under the laws of Maryland, January 27, 1841. At that time there were but seventy-seven drug stores in Baltimore, but the more forward-looking proprietors, realizing that a broader and more thorough education must be given to replace apprenticeship, interested the citizens, and by private subscriptions the school began. From the beginning the school has kept pace and, more often, was in the vanguard of the advancement of pharmaceutical education. Many of the firsts in pharmacy can be attributed to graduates and faculty of the school. Graduates have played an important part in the shaping of pharmaceutical laws for the state.

Everyone, from the leading state official, His Excellency, Herbert R. O'Connor, '20, LL.B., Governor of Maryland, to the humble storekeeper, took part in the celebration. Other prominent state and University leaders were Mayor Howard W. Jackson, Mrs. John L. Whitehurst (Secretary of the Board of Regents), Dr. H. C. Byrd, and Dean Andrew J. DuMez, Dean of Pharmacy.

Alumni were the leading factors in the celebration, but were ably assisted by the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association, the Baltimore Drug Exchange, the Travelers' Auxiliary of the Maryland Pharmaceutical Association, the American Pharmaceutical Association, and many others. President of the Pharmacy Alumni was Dr. T. Ellsworth Ragland, toastmaster at the banquet. General Chairman of the celebration was Dr. Otto W. Muehlhause. Three sessions of clinics were held with several papers given by the most prominent men in American pharmacy.

With more than eighteen hundred graduates located throughout the state, the University of Maryland School of Pharmacy continues to have influential effect on the development of pharmaceutical practices in Maryland. More than five hundred graduates participated in the celebration.

PRESIDENT OF PHARMACY ALUMNI

Dr. Otto W. Muehlhause, '13, Pharmacy Dr., former general chairman of the Pharmacy School Centennial Celebration, has been elected President of the Pharmacy Alumni Association for the ensuing year. Dr. Muehlhause is a prominent druggist in Baltimore and takes an active part in all pharmaceutical affairs. His constant efforts in behalf of Alumni Association activities gained for him the leadership position.

WALTER CLARK, '02, DECEASED

The University of Maryland and the City of Baltimore have lost a most eminent Alumnus and citizen in the death of Walter Clark, '02, LL.B. A Pennsylvanian by birth but a Marylander by adoption, Walter Clark became a most prominent son. He began the practice of law in Baltimore soon after graduation, and his performance in his profession won for him great admiration by his fellowmen. He has served Baltimore on the City Service Commission, has been President of the Maryland Bar Association, President of the Baltimore Bar Association, taught law at the University Law School, a member of the American Law Institute, and the American Bar Association.

His interest in the betterment of the legal profession prompted him to leave a portion of his estate to the University Law School with the hope that it would be used to influence the bar and the public and lead to the establishment of better standards of education than now exist in law. Walter Clark was a greatly admired man by those in his profession, as he was one who acted as to his own character and legal knowledge directed him. The University will revere the memory of this esteemed son.

DIGGS ELECTED VICE-PRESIDENT

Austin C. Diggs, '21

Mr. Austin C. Diggs, '21, prominent business man of Baltimore, was elected second Vice-President at the annual meeting of the Alumni Association. He resides in Towson, Maryland.

Diggs has always been active in Alumni affairs. As a booster for the U. of M. he has no superior. His leadership began in college days, when Diggs, as cheerleader, made the team do what they didn't know they could. He is the dean of cheerleaders.

Other new members on the Alumni Board are Mrs. Agnes McNutt Kricker, '31 (Mrs. W. M. Kricker), and Miss Mary Louise Wood, '28, Representative-at-Large for Women. Mrs. Kricker now resides near Towson, Maryland, and is a member of Kappa Kapa Gamma and a graduate in Home Economics. Miss Woods is a graduate in the College of Education, was active in extra-curricular activities, especially the New Mercer Literary Society. She teaches at the Montgomery Blair Junior High School near Silver Spring, Maryland.

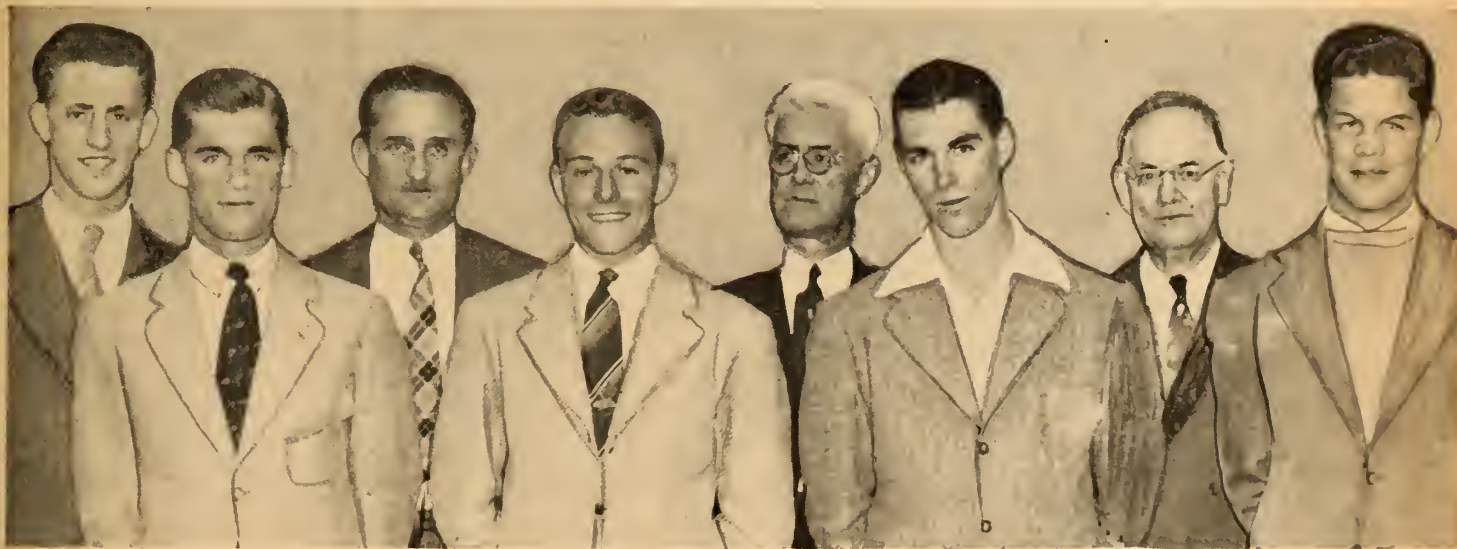

Mr. J. A. Bromley, '17, comes to the Board as a representative of the College of Engineering. He is County Roads Engineer, located in Annapolis. Mrs. Edith Burnside Whiteford, '29, former Representative-at-Large, has been returned to the Board by the College of Arts and Sciences as one of their representatives.

Other members of the Board, in addition to the President, are R. M. Watkins, '23, First Vice-President, who is a real estate operator in Prince George's County, and a member of the Parks and Planning Commission. Edwin Semler, '23, Representative of Arts and Sciences, coaches athletics at Hagerstown High School and has a sporting goods business. J. P. Shaeffer, '28, of Engineering, is a commercial engineer for the P. E. P. Company of Washington, D. C., and resides in Bethesda, Maryland. M. B. Stevens, '28, of Education, is a patent attorney in Washington, D. C. and resides in Chevy Chase, Maryland. J. C. DR. BROUGHTON NAMED ON STATE COMMISSION

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, '20, LL.B., has appointed Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, Dean of the College of Arts and Sciences and State Chemist, a member of the State Department of Geology, Mines, and Water Resources. Dr. Broughton is a chemist by profession and is well acquainted with geology and soil chemistry. This appointment is a result of the general reorganization of the State Natural Resources Commission and requires his part-time attention.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Faber Now Athletic Director

Dr. John E. Faber

Dr. John E. Faber, Jack, to most of us, has been put in charge of intercollegiate athletics at Maryland, to serve until the return of Geary (Swede) Eppley, the regular incumbent, who is in the military service.

His appointment, of course, was made by President H. C. Byrd.

Eppley, who also is dean of men at Maryland, is on duty at Fort Geo.

Mcade, Md. He is a reserve major.

Faber's appointment as pinch-hitter for Eppley definitely assures that he, Al Heagy and Al Woods, the alumni-faculty football coaching staff which was put in charge last fall, will continue on the job. Faber is chairman of the grid group as well as head coach of lacrosse in which he also has gained national prominence.

Faber's main position, though, is associate professor in bacteriology. He has been at Maryland ever since matriculating as a student in the fall of 1922 from Eastern High School of Washington.

During his playing days he was a great basketballer, being an all-time all-Maryland selection; was an outstanding lacrosse player and a football quarterback.

His success in sports was due to brains, not brawn, as he weighed less than 150 pounds when in competition.

Since getting his B.S. in 1926, he continuously has been connected with coaching at College Park, always in some capacity in football. He got his master's degree in 1927 and his Ph.D. in 1937, both at Maryland.

Jack did his first coaching at Maryland when he took charge of the 1927 lacrosse team, of which he was captain, when Prof. R. V. Truitt, the regular mentor, was taken ill and had to go to Florida for a time.

Faber is popular both in faculty circles and among his fellow coaches and the athletes. He is aided by Heagy in lacrosse and these two, with Woods, make a happy family in football tutoring.

Florida Game To Be Homecoming Event

Maryland's homecoming football game this fall will be with Florida, which will be met at College Park on October 18. This will be the fourth game of the campaign.

The Terps' 9-game schedule calls for no contest so far distant that their followers cannot be on hand, the longest trip being to New Brunswick to play Rutgers.

Three games will be played in Baltimore, a like number at College Park and one in nearby Washington.

Here is the card:

- Sept. 27—Hampden-Sydney, College Park
- Oct. 3—Western Maryland, Baltimore Stadium. (Night)
- Oct. 11—Duke, Baltimore Stadium
- Oct. 18—Florida, College Park (Homecoming)
- Oct. 25—Pennsylvania, Philadelphia
- Nov. 1—Rutgers, New Brunswick
- Nov. 8—Georgetown, Washington
- Nov. 15—V. M. I., College Park
- Nov. 20—Washington and Lee (Thanksgiving) Baltimore Stadium.

Jack Mueller Is All-America

Jack Mueller, who played a great game at center for the Old Liners this spring, has been named for the second defense post on the all-America team as selected by the United States Lacrosse Association.

Mueller played consistently fine lacrosse all during the three years he performed for the Terp varsity and fully deserved the national honor.

Jordan Sexton, second attack, and Al Slesinger, out home, were chosen for the second team.

All three were picked for the all-South squad that defeated the all-North team in a thrilling game in Baltimore on July 11 by a 7 to 6 score. Sexton and Slesinger shared in the triumph but Mueller was kept from action by illness.

Slesinger, who will be a senior in the fall, will be the only one of the three Terps to return.

The complete first all-America team is as follows:

Goal — Tyler Campbell, Princeton; Point — John Tolson, Hopkins; Cover Point — Nelson Shawn, Hopkins; First Defense — Augustus Brady, Navy; Second Defense — John Mueller, Maryland; Center — Fred Donnelly, Swarthmore; Second Attack — Joseph Thigpen, Army; First Attack — Charles Thomas, Hopkins; Out Home — Joseph Wilder, Dartmouth; In Home — Herbert Fitch, Hobart.

DUVALL AND WHARTON OUTSTANDING

Merle DuVall and Jim (Pop) Wharton are the only three letter men at Maryland. They hail from Baltimore and both will be seniors this fall. They have played together in the same sports in gaining their triple honors in football, basket ball and baseball. Both are being banked on heavily for the 1941 eleven.

Barnet Broughton, son of Dr. Levin Broughton, dean of the College of Arts and Sciences, played goalie for the freshman lacrosse team last spring. He also is president-elect of the Sophomore Class.

FEW GRIDMEN MAY BE LOST

Maryland, like other schools, is certain to lose some football men to the service, but due to the fact that it has such a fine R. O. T. C. unit, that so many of its athletes are engineering students and that the student body is younger than the average, may not be so hard hit.

Three tackles were lost by scholastic failures, one of them being the ace lineman of the 1940 frosh team. The others were reserve players last fall, one a big back who was shifted to tackle to perform impressively in the spring drills.

It probably will be reporting time on September 1 before it definitely will be known just how the squad will size up.

OCHSENREITER THIRD IN TITLE RACE

Gene Ochsenreiter, Maryland runner, finished third in the half-mile event of the recent junior national A. A. U. championships in Philadelphia. He starred at basket ball last winter and with the tracksters in the spring meets.

CHARLEY KELLER HIGHLY PRAISED

Grantland Rice, probably the best known sports writer in the country, paid Charley Keller of Maryland and the Yankees a high tribute as a ball player and a man in a recent article.

THE PRESIDENT'S LETTER

State and the people of Maryland are concerned, than your work and achievement warrant." Dr. Byrd was talking to you and me. Now that is a definite challenge and there is no better year to answer that challenge than when we are to celebrate the Fiftieth Anniversary of our Association. So I ask you to accept with me the responsibility of making our Association the most indispensable unit in the University of Maryland.

It is with deep regret that I hear of the death of our eminent Alumnus and first President of our Association, Melvin C. Hazen, '88. I am confident each Alumnus joins me in mourning the loss of such a noble character and an inspirational leader to us all.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

PROMINENT SURGEON DIES

Dr. Julius Friedenwald, '90, M.D., died at his home in Baltimore last month. For more than fifty years Dr. Friedenwald was one of Baltimore's leading surgeons. He was one of the University's most eminent Alumnus and has the distinction of being a descendant of one of the founders of the College of Physicians and Surgeons, now a part of the University Medical School. At the time of his death he was Professor Emeritus of Gastro-Enterology in the School.

Dr. Friedenwald had a wide experience in medical circles, having studied in Berlin, Paris, Vienna and London. He belonged to numerous medical organizations of local, national and international standing. He was a Past President of the Baltimore Medical Society.

Two brothers are also prominent physicians and Alumni: Dr. Harry Friedenwald, '00, noted eye specialist and Dr. Edgar B. Friedenwald, '04, Professor of Clinical Pediatrics, both on the Medical School faculty.

EASTERN SHORE PHYSICIAN DIES

A prominent physician of Eastern Shore, Dr. R. R. Norris, '03, M.D., died at his home in Crisfield last month. He was born in Washington, D. C., got his medical education in Baltimore, settled on the Shore in 1905 and began the practice of medicine.

He is a veteran of the First World War, serving as commander of a Field Hospital of the Second Army. He has also served as assistant surgeon in the United States Public Health Service and as examiner for the United States Veterans' Bureau. At the time of his death he was a member of the surgical staff of the McCready Memorial Hospital.

Married—Major Meil D. Burgee, '27, a former diamond star for the Terps, and Miss Olga Grace Bedell of Washington, were married June 28 last. Meil, a member of Alpha Tau Omega, now is Commandant at Charlotte Hall Military Academy. The Burgees will be at home, Charlotte Hall, Md., after August 15.

Army—Lieut. Harry Clifton Byrd, Jr., '36, now is stationed at Fort Jackson, South Carolina. He will soon report to Fort Benning, Ga., for officers' school.

HAZEN

(Continued from Page 5) miss an Alumni gathering. Probably no man has been taken from among the living who was a more loyal and enthusiastic Alumnus. The Alumni of the University sense a deep loss in the passing of this eminent Alumnus. His Alma Mater was very near to his heart, and he gloried in its growth.

In 1942, Mr. Hazen would have been a part of the celebration of the Fiftieth Anniversary of the Association he founded. Plans will go forward in an endeavor to make it the greatest reunion ever held to commemorate the great work he started.

The ALUMNI NEWS feels at liberty to convey sincere condolences to loved ones Mr. Hazen has left behind, and we, too, have lost a true, loyal, and eminent Alumnus.

Note—Because of unavoidable circumstances, the photographer spoiled all pictures taken of Alumni activities. This the NEWS and Alumni regrets very much, as several pictures of historic value, never to be again, were lost. In particular was the one of Dr. Fletcher P. Veitch, '91, class representative for the flag-raising in honor of the Fiftieth Anniversary class. Others were of the Alumni luncheon, the unveiling of the late Willard M. Hillegeist portrait, and also the picture of the prize cadet company in 1887, presented by R. Cator Woolford, '87, of Atlanta, Ga.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Vacation time is here and we are all hunting a cool spot and relaxation from our work and worries. Not so "On the Hill." There everything is hustle and go in preparation for work when the fall term opens. I sometimes wonder if we, who are out and busy with our own affairs, ever give a thought to the amount of work, the numerous details that have to be pushed to a successful conclusion by the various coaches so that we, after enjoying a couple of hours' entertainment at a football, baseball, lacrosse, track meet or other athletic event may come away with smiling faces and proud hearts, because another Maryland team has proved its prowess on the field of athletic conflict. We pat each other on the back and gloat over Maryland's success. On the other hand, when the tide is out and victories flee, how many are around to boost the morale of those same athletes who are giving their all, win or lose, and who need our support and encouragement far more when they are on the short end. Yes, we are out and have our places in the outside world but as true Maryland men, we have a part to play in each year of Maryland's life just as truly as though we were in there carrying the ball or taking our cuts.

Think it over now and prepare to carry your individual share of the burden, determine to put and keep the old school on the crest year after year.

It occurs to me that more interest in each other, Maryland and the world in general, would be engendered by meetings, more frequent meetings, of the various Alumni school groups and of the other groups scattered throughout the State. Interest in each other will stimulate interest in the object which brings us together — Maryland.

There are always to be had for the asking men who know what is going on "On the Hill" — movies of the activities and with both will come a rejuvenation of the old Maryland Spirit.

There is a phase of life which is attracting the attention of all the world at the present time — the Military.

How many old grads know how well the men of Maryland's R. O. T. C. stand among Uncle Sam's boys? Each year a goodly number go into the various branches of service as Commissioned Officers and through all the branches of service we see familiar names with General, Colonel, Major and Captain prefixed. These men are proving the worth of the training received as undergraduates and are impressing the powers so well with their efficiency that even now a beautiful and fully equipped new armory is being started to enable our boys to have an even fuller and more complete training along the military lines.

Already indications are that Maryland will have an increase in its enrollment this fall, thereby putting an even greater number of men under our guidance to be taught the principles of life as practiced by University of Maryland men. Let us each take up our share of the burden so that when they become one of us, after their four years of work, we will all be proud of them and the world will recognize them from their sterling qualities as practiced and lived by men from Maryland University.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

Cavalry—By reason of a recent campus visit we learned that George B. Morse, '13, has been called to duty with the rank of Major in the U. S. Cavalry.

General Silvester

By recent appointment, Lindsay McD. Silvester, '11, now is a Brigadier General in the U. S. Army. He has previously been stationed at Fort Knox, Kentucky, on tank duty. His visit to the University was but for a few minutes while enroute on an inspection trip to Fort Meade, Aberdeen, and Fort Benning.

General Silvester is one of Maryland's outstanding graduates who has distinguished himself in military service. He is a veteran of World War No. 1, where his capable leadership under combat received commendation. He is a Past President of the "M" Club and former general chairman of the University's 130th Charter Day Celebration. His interest in his Alma Mater and Alumni affairs ranks among the ideal.

COL. GILLEM PROMOTED

It will be glad news to many who were in the R. O. T. C. from 1930 to 1934 to know that their Commandant at that time now is Major General Alvan C. Gillem. He has been at Fort Benning Infantry School for some time, but it is understood that he has been transferred to Fort Polk, Louisiana.

General Gillem's genial personality and capable leadership was destined to elevate him to high ranks. He frequently returns to College Park and the campus — a place, he said, that "seems like home to me."

Rabbits His Companions

It is Glenn Wilson, class of 1928, who has become a hermit of Straitsmouth Island, near Rockport, Mass. Wilson has some 500 Belgian hares as his companions, who roam over the island without thought of any human beings.

This is something of a hobby with Glenn whose real job is a writer of economic subjects for the Atlantic Utilities Service Corporation in Manhattan.

As a side line he writes short plays for radio broadcasting, having thus far sold four of these works. Among them were "Circus Comes Tuesday" and "Forever and a Day." His ambition is to make literature a full-time occupation when he finds that what he writes can command a livable wage and, he adds, "if ever."

Sailing

He is nautically minded and for several seasons sailed his 47-foot yawl Saga, a 35-year-old craft, up and down the coast spotting small islands, many of which attracted him. That is how he got the yen to obtain an island home, but he wanted an island which was handy to the mainland so he would not forget the old home ties.

Straitsmouth Island came into view and when he first bid for it a couple of years ago the price was unsatisfactory to Uncle Sam. This time, however, he was high bidder and Uncle Sam decided in his favor. He has no idea of renaming the island because he says he likes the present name as being poetical and descriptive.

Vacation Land

He is amused by the fact that on this barren stretch where only rabbits frolic the house in which he resides boasts steam heat yet has to depend on cistern water. Of course he has to transport his drinking water over to the island. Lanterns and kerosene lamps make up for the loss of the gay White Way of Broadway, his usual stamping grounds.

Wilson has no idea of doing any writing there for he is strictly vacation-minded. He realizes how lonely the place can be when night shuts down, but it was what he wanted, a plot of land all his own, away from the hustle and bustle, with the solace that comes only from solitude.

(Note — This article was sent in by Professor Foley of the Dental School. It appeared in the Gloucester, Mass., Daily Times.)

Married—Miss Florence Elaine Danforth, '40, a member of Kappa Delta, and former cheerleader, and Robert Harmon, '41, were married July 26 in Baltimore. Elaine's sister, Dorothy, is a graduate of the Nurses' School of 1940.

BAUMGARTNER HEADS GARRETT COUNTY GROUP

Under the auspices of a group of Alumni in Oakland, Md., led by Dr. E. I. Baumgartner, '27, M.D., '31, a special University of Maryland program was presented before the Rotary Club.

Dr. Reuben Steinmeyer, professor of Political Science, spoke and Prof. Harlan Randall, professor of Music, rendered vocal selections, among which were several school songs. All Alumni in Garrett County were invited to join with the Rotary for this meeting. Following the Rotary meeting those Alumni present held a short meeting to effect a county organization. Dr. Baumgartner was elected president; Thurl W. Power, '32, was elected vice-president; Miss Katherine Stevenson Helbig, '32, was made secretary. Others present were Wayne Hamilton, '39, Miss Virginia Bolden, '41, E. Ray Jones, '13, Neal Fraley, '16, LL.B., Dr. W. W. Grant, D.D.S., and Dr. Ben S. Selby, D.D.S.

The group plans to sponsor other University programs for service clubs in their county as a means of more closely uniting the Alumni as well as bringing the University closer to the people.

CAPT. CRAPSTER, '96, SUCCUMBS

Capt. Thaddeus Greaves Crapster, '96, until recently commander of the Coast Guard District of Norfolk, Va., died at the Marine Hospital following a short illness. Interment with full honors was held in Arlington National Cemetery.

A native of Frederick County, Captain Crapster entered the service soon after graduation and became an ensign in 1904. He served in the Navy during the World War and had had 17 years of special sea duty when appointed Captain in command of the Norfolk District in 1930. He would have been eligible for retirement this fall with the rank of Rear Admiral.

National Airport

JOHN GROVES
MANAGER

The National Airport, located on the Mount Vernon Memorial Highway, stands on the threshold of the Nation's Capital. It is one of the world's finest commercial airports and is almost within the shadow of the Washington Monument. Manager of this airport is none other than John Groves, '24, one of the Terrapins' outstanding gridiron heroes of bygone days.

John came from Western High School in Washington, D. C., unheralded as a football star but with a desire to be a master at the game. He became great as a punter, quarterback and drop-kicker. It was John who placed the pigskin between the upright in Franklin Field in 1923 when Maryland defeated Penn, 3 to 0. It was John who, in the same year, was the prominent figure in the Yale game when Yale, the mythical collegiate champions, eked out a narrow 16-14 victory over the Terps. A forward-passing combination of McQuade to Groves was the sting for many gridiron elevens in that year.

Marines

Following graduation John entered the U. S. Marine Corp Air Service. After a short term of aviation service he resigned his commission and entered the air service of the Department of Commerce on National Airways. While commercial air service was growing so was John in his knowledge of airports and airways. He procured and issued information regarding obstacles, approaches and facilities of airports for pilots' use.

When the Civil Aeronautics Authority, now the Civil Aeronautic Administration, was organized John became assistant chief in charge of educational institutions. His Alma Mater became one of the first to put in the course. In the last two years 169 students have completed the primary course and received their private pilot licenses.

Merrick, '13, Engineer

In view of his airport and airway experience John Groves was the logical choice to become manager of one of the "world's finest airports." No airport in the world close to a populous center is freer of approach obstruction than is the National Airport. From the end of each runway in eight directions planes can rise as gradually as one foot in 40. The bulk of the proposed landing area was under water. The first task in construction was to throw up dikes, then clear the runway locations of silt in order to get a sand and gravel base. Then more sand and gravel was pumped (Continued on Page 6)

Word from Singapore

Word has been received from Preston L. Peach, '03, who is a school superintendent in the Federated Malaya State in the Far East, near Singapore. He is among the early contributors each year to the Terrapin Party.

He writes briefly of the conditions there last May. "By the time you get this Malaya may be a battlefield. We are living on the edge of something. However, there is no lack of preparation. Whoever tries to enter this land in any but a friendly way will certainly get a hot reception. But we civilians will probably feel the misery of modern air warfare which seems to be the fashionable way nowadays. We are hoping sincerely that this lovely country will not be disturbed.

Mrs. Peach and I expect to be back in the States in 1943 . . . and I am personally looking forward to the 40th anniversary reunion of my class if all goes well here. Best regards to all.

Preston L. Peach, '03."

NATIONAL AIRPORT

(Continued from Page 5) in on top of sand and gravel to eliminate the danger of settling or uneven surfaces on the runways. All this took approximately 13 months and finally the sluices were opened and the entire area soon appeared as dry ground. Every type of earth-moving machinery then went to work to bring the runways down to level, to spread and terrace the grade. Here another Marylander figured prominently in the construction of the airport. Zeke Merrick, '13, was supervising engineer on the project.

Colonial Design

The buildings are of colonial design to conform with the spirit of the classic architecture of the National Capitol and its surroundings. The result is a massive building necessary to house all of the facilities required by a modern airport.

The field side of the waiting room is a huge wall of glass overlooking the field, and outside this window the Mount Vernon motif is repeated in eight more slender columns. These are flanked with curving promenades on two levels, and the whole facade rests upon a wall of architectural concrete in which glass is liberally used. The traveller is impressed by the hugeness of the waiting room, yet the facilities are convenient and comfortable for the air-travelling public. A spacious and modern dining room is located on the second floor accommodating nearly 350 diners.

200 Planes Daily

Approximately 200 planes go and come daily at the airport. These planes are directed by means of a new

JUDGE J. B. GRAY, JR., '14

Governor Herbert R. O'Connor, '20, LL.B., has appointed John B. Gray, Jr., '14, of Prince Frederick, Maryland, Associate Judge of the Seventh Judicial Circuit which is composed of Prince Georges, Charles, Calvert and St. Mary's Counties. Judge Gray succeeds Judge Ogle Marbury, '14, LL.B., who has been made Chief Judge of the Circuit.

Judge Gray is more familiarly known by his classmates as Johnnie and the student yearbook labeled him a "chip off the old block." This is quite appropo as he is the son of the late J. B. Gray, '75, who was one of Southern Maryland's most eminent citizens and his son is certainly stepping along in his father's footsteps.

When Judge Gray finished college he was class orator and valedictorian of his class. He was admitted to the bar in 1916 and since then has been a practicing attorney in Maryland. He has always been active in Alumni affairs and served as president of the "M" Club of the University.

Governor O'Connor in making the appointment said, "Mr. Gray was recommended strongly by the Maryland State Bar Association as eminently qualified to fill the judicial post." Judge Gray has served his State as Assistant Attorney General, was a member of the committee on revision of rules for the Court of Appeals, served on the Water Front Commission, is counsel for the Board of County Commissioners of Calvert County, and is a member of the American and Maryland Bar Association.

Judge Gray was born and raised in Calvert County and it might well be said that the home town boy makes good at home.

Married—Miss Tempe Curry, '40, a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma, and Mr. James Grant, '39, a member of Phi Delta Theta, were married July 12 last. Mrs. Grant is a former "Miss Maryland" which is sponsored by the student yearbook, the Terrapin. The newlyweds reside in Washington.

automatic flight progress board, thus giving the men who direct and control sky traffic a complete picture of the traffic every second along the airways in the Washington Control Area.

The National Airport, lying as it does along the beautiful Mount Vernon Boulevard, assumes the character of a beauty spot.

It can well be said that John Groves is number one manager of the world's number one airport.

For Inter-American Understanding

by HAROLD BENJAMIN
Dean, College of Education

The teaching of international good will, friendship, and understanding is a very hard job. It is a task at which many peoples have failed in the past. Certainly the present drumming of the guns and crash of the bombs in Europe, Asia, and Africa tell us quite precisely how difficult is the teaching of sanity in a world of madmen. In the Western Hemisphere, however, we are still determined to perform this difficult task for our American peoples. These Americans, from Nome to La Plata, from Point Barrow to Punta Arenas, in the four centuries since white men first occupied the New World, have done a good many hard jobs against tremendous obstacles. They believe that they can do the same thing again and again. They maintain that they can develop an inter-American understanding which will weather the storms of international violence better than anything Europe has thus far produced.

Mutual Help

Success in this enterprise will have very practical effects. The American peoples will have more and better food to eat if they can carry this hard job to completion. They will be able to wear better clothes and to live in better houses. They will be cursed by fewer days of sickness and idleness. Most impressive of all, they will be able to enjoy their freedom from hunger and cold, from poverty and disease, without being haunted by the specter of war.

These are very definite and concrete results. They are as real as the whine of a steel-jacketed bullet, the weakness of starvation, or the deadly flame of yellow fever. Definite, concrete, practical as they are, however, they are produced more effectively by impractical-seeming measures than by those which at first glance would appear to be common-sense devices for attaining obvious goals.

Education

This is the one chief impression I have gained from my observations of our American countries. It has grown on me from my first contact with American nations outside the United States almost thirty years ago to my last visit to South America during the late winter and spring of the present year. A Latin-American revolution is something much more than rifles and planes and gunboats. It is also a vision of new ways for a people.

Chemists Will Meet In Atlantic City

When the American Chemical Society meets in Atlantic City September 7th to the 12th Maryland faculty and Alumni will hold a luncheon meeting at the Marlborough-Blenheim Hotel on Tuesday, September 8th. Campus representatives will be Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08; Dr. C. E. White, '23; Dr. W. J. Svirbely; Dr. M. M. Herring; Dr. M. L. Drake, and Dr. E. W. Reeve. Approximately fifty others are expected to be present.

Visitors—Lieut. and Mrs. John Simpson, '35 and '36, and their 8 month-old son, Robert Barnesley, visited the campus last month. John, the former stellar guard for the Terp eleven, now is in the U. S. Army Air Corps. He has been stationed in Hawaii and has been transferred to Barksdale, La. Mrs. Simpson, formerly June Barnesley, was one of Maryland's outstanding girl cheerleaders. That's why John played so well.

o o o

Visitor—Dr. John F. Moore, '23, a former gridiron star, visited the campus. Dr. Moore is with the U. S. Veterans Bureau in St. Louis, Mo.

o o o

Married—Miss Ruth Richmond, '40, and Lieut. James K. Chenault were married June 21 last. Mrs. Chenault is a member of Kappa Kappa Gamma. Lieut. Chenault is in the Army and stationed at Fort Sam Houston, Texas.

An international conflict of economic interests is not merely a matter of money, credit, beef, cotton, or coffee. It is always tied to some dream of a better life for certain groups of men, women, and children. The greatest war which our nations or any nations can ever be involved is neither military nor economic; it is the war for the control of men's minds and hearts. That war can be won only by the right kind of purposeful education.

Progressing

The time may soon come when the Western Hemisphere will have to be defended with arms of steel and high explosive, but in the long run those arms will be useless unless they are supported by as great and as unselfish an education of school, press, radio, pictures, and all the other modern instruments for learning to know and feel what a people need as our intelligence and imagination can devise.

In country after country of the Western Hemisphere, some of the most impressive educational advances the world has ever seen are now taking place. Give the peoples of the three Americas a little more time and they will win the greatest of all wars by developing the educational means for achieving truly civilized purposes.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Football Outlook Is Much Brighter Than Last Year With Sophomores Playing Important Roles

Forty-five Maryland football aspirants were asked to report at College Park September 2d for the start of practice, with the outlook fairly bright if there aren't too many additional losses.

Dr. John E. (Jack) Faber, acting Athletic Director and head of the Alumni coaching group that includes Al Heagy and Al Woods, issued the call and he and his associates were to be on the job when the Terps gathered.

Maryland's squad appears potentially stronger than the one that got off on the wrong foot in the opener last season. There are 15 letter men among the 22 left-overs and some unusually fine material in the ranks of the 25 sophs who have been invited to don suits.

13 In All Are Lost

Nine letter men were lost by graduation but with the exception of Bob Smith, the great center, and Joe Murphy, the fleet-running back and kicker, the losses should not be keenly felt.

There also were four other losses after Spring practice with Don Shockey, who had been shifted to tackle from halfback, as the only letter man among the quartet. Others were Warren O'Neill, a reserve tackle; Lohr Dunlap, a fine guard who also was an ace shotputter, and Austin Frey, rated as the best Frosh lineman last Fall. Shockey, who apparently had found the right spot at tackle, will be missed the most.

With the exception of ends, Maryland has a good nucleus of letter men for all positions, and the soph wing material should provide gridders who'll better the performance of the vets last year.

Ends Are Tall Timber

Jack Gilmore, shifted to end from the backfield, is the only letter wingman, but Sophs Bob James, George Simler, Lou Hesson, Kenneth Daniels, Dick Alexander and John Clayland offer unusual talent. They have the height and weight, with Gilmore being the shortest and lightest at 6 feet 1 and 172 pounds. Daniels, 6 feet 5, and around 200, is the biggest.

Ralph Burlin, Maryland's best lineman last season; Reggy Vincent and Luther Conrad give three letterman tackles, although the latter two are under 190. Jack Dittmar, a 187-pound Soph, appears as the only promising recruit.

Four letter men are available for the guard jobs, Jack Morton, Frank Heyer and Max Hunt, Seniors, and Harold Berry, Junior, who was shifted to the line after winning his letter as a blocking back last Fall. They will have to carry the load as the Soph material is far from developed.

George Jarmoska, letter reserve to Smith last Fall, and Pop Wharton, who won his insignia in 1939 but was kept out last Fall by illness, are the vet centers. They have a promising supporter in Bill Taylor, a spirited Soph. All are light, none reaching 180 and Wharton hitting around 160.

Plenty Of Backfield Talent

Mearle DuVall, triple-threat general; Elmer Rigby, fleet runner and southpaw passer; Bernie Ulman, a clever ball handler; John Cordyack, light but effective blocking and defensive back, and Joe Hoopengardner, a sturdy little fellow, are the letter-wearing ball toters, and they will get the most promising Soph company that has come up in years.

Included in the rookie array are Jack Wright, a 205-pound Baltimorean, who is crashing fullback, can pass a ball like a bullet; Tommy Mont, a triple-threat youngster from Cumberland; Jack Brenner, an adept passer and runner; George Barnes, a fast, husky and slippery ball totter from the Nation's Capital; Ed Chovanes, blocker and line backer-up, and Bill Helboch, versatile but particularly able on defense.

Jack Mier, ineligible last year, and Lou Chacos, a junior who was a sprinter on the track team last Spring, also should help.

Kicker Is Greatest Need

There are a few others who may develop and prove bulwarks but those mentioned—if all of them get back—doubtless will play most of the football. They seem to provide better than usual Maryland talent with the development of a kicker looming as the biggest job for the mentors. Mont may be the main booter.

Maryland's schedule, as usual, is tough, with Duke, Penn and Georgetown as the powerhouses to be opposed. Here is the complete list:

September 27—Hampden-Sydney.
October 3 (Friday Night)—Western Maryland in Baltimore Stadium.
October 11—Duke in Baltimore Stadium.
October 18 (Homecoming)—Florida.
October 25—Pennsylvania at Philadelphia.
November 1—Rutgers at New Brunswick.
November 8—Georgetown at Washington.
November 15—V. M. I.
November 20 (Thanksgiving)—Washington and Lee in Baltimore Stadium.

RULE CHANGES ARE LIKED BY TERP COACHES

Maryland's coaches like the 1941 football rule changes. They believe allowing the ball to be passed forward from directly behind the line will help the Terp offense, a mixture of the single and double wing back.

Free substitution of players also will aid such squads as Maryland's which have a limited supply of gridders.

In fact, the offense was heavily emphasized in the three main changes made by the National Collegiate Football Rules Committee.

Most radical departure is the statute allowing the ball to be handed forward at any point behind the line of scrimmage to any player; it will be treated as though it were a backward pass (this rule makes every player a potential ball carrier, and makes possibilities for deception almost unlimited).

The substitution rule provides that players may be substituted as many times as desired during a game. It eliminated the provision which previously prohibited a substitute from communicating with his team until the ball had been put in play.

In the third big change, fourth down passes which become incomplete in the opponent's end-zone will be treated as though they became incomplete on the field of play instead of being ruled as touchbacks. On such plays, the ball will go to the defending team at the point where the ball was put into play instead of the 20-yard line, as in the past.

Congressman William P. Cole, Jr., president of the class, will make the presentation remarks and President H. C. Byrd, '08, has been asked to accept on behalf of the University. The exercises will be held just prior to the football game.

This is a most outstanding gesture by a class and should be an inspiration to all other classes in making contributions to their Alma Mater. As time rolls on the spirit of our University will be engendered by the memories surrounding the mementoes placed on the campus by class spirit. Daily many students will pass through this gate and few will realize that following members of this class included men high in national life contributed to an inspiring gesture for others to follow.

COVER PICTURE

A snapshot of a forward drive with the favorite pigskin under the arm of a Terp. The boys of this year's team have potential possibilities and will produce some good football. A slogan should be "Follow the Terps." No Alumnus should miss seeing these boys in action, especially on Homecoming Day, when they meet the 'Gators from the University of Florida.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

September, and the leaves are turning — a little frosty in the mornings — and on every side we hear of this and that boy and girl going away to school. Does it not bring back memories of the first time we climbed the hills?

How many realize the difference in the Hill of the old days and the present time? Away back there we found five or six buildings and three hundred or so students. Now the Hill and more is covered with buildings, with between three and four thousand students. This year, I understand, Maryland is keeping up her record and there will be an even larger enrollment in the Freshman Class than last year. Among this year's enrollment are more than six hundred graduate students. Surely recent graduates who are returning for post-graduate work and the world at large, as exemplified by the size of the student body, think well of our Alma Mater. Why should not we renew and continue our associations?

This year Homecoming Day on October 18th will afford a splendid opportunity for that purpose. Our

Homecoming Colorful

For the nineteenth time in as many years the Annual Homecoming of old grads will be the Head Liner Day of the Fall season. Saturday, October 18, is the time when every Alumni of the University should return to the campus and make the day a success for his fellow Alumnus.

The student body takes an active part in the day's program. Fraternity and sorority houses will decorate in gay festival color exhibiting a spirit of hospitality to our Alumni and visitors.

Activities actually begin in a big way on Friday night when a Student-Alumni Pep Rally is held on the campus, with a bonfire snake dance, band parade, torch-lights and many other colorful exhibits which only students can put on. At noon on Homecoming Day the Freshmen and Sophomores stage their annual tug-o-war over the banks of the historic Paint Branch.

1910 Gateway

Class spirit will be presented in its top form when the Class of 1910 dedicates a new campus gateway as a gift from the class. The class boasts of many outstanding members in national and military circles, plus scientists and engineers.

The exercises will be held just preceding the football game. the gateway is adjacent to the Rossborough Inn, the historic and traditional campus landmark, well known to every Alumnus.

Rossborough Inn

Headquarters, registration and a rendezvous for all Alumni will be the Rossborough Inn. The hospitable setting and surroundings makes this well-known landmark an adaptable place for old grads to assemble.

Everything naturally is subordinate to the one outstanding attraction, the football classic between the 'Gators from the University of Florida and our own snapping Terps. This has always been a colorful and interesting game and is about the eighth time the two have been Homecoming opponents at College Park and in Florida.

"M" Club Meeting

Immediately following the game the annual meeting of the "M" Club will be held in the assembly room on the second floor of the New Administration Building. J. W. Stevens, '19, president and former gridiron star, will preside. Officers for the ensuing year will be elected and the important project of the Club, the Scholarship Fund, will be discussed. Every former winner of the varsity "M" is eligible to become a member and attend the meeting, in fact every former athlete should attend the meeting.

The finale is the Homecoming Dance in the Gym

Armory when Alumni, students and faculty assemble in a wind up frolic. Gaily decorated and a snappy orchestra will make for a most pleasant conclusion of an eventful day.

No Alumnus who can possibly make Homecoming should miss this day — Saturday, October 18. Write for your reservations at once, as orders are coming in rapidly.

MISS MARYLAND HOMECOMING QUEEN

The Student Executive Council have decided that Miss Maryland, chosen by the 1941 Terrapin shall be Homecoming Queen. The young lady who will have the honor is Miss Elmira Pearson. The queen's court will consist of other coeds from which Miss Maryland was chosen.

As a part of the day's program special coronation exercises for so honoring Miss Maryland will take place at half-time of the football game.

The young ladies of the queen's court will also be on hand as hostesses to the old grads when they register at the Rossborough Inn. What a charming spot for charming ladies!

All Alumni should go to the Rossborough Inn Dining Room and register their presence on Homecoming Day. Let your fellow Alumni know you are present, which makes for all concerned a better day. It will not be necessary to pay your dues in order to register.

CLASS OF 1908 PLANS HOMECOMING REUNION

This class never fails to have a class meeting twice a year, at Homecoming and on Alumni Day. Reuben Brigham, secretary, sent out a two-page letter as a resumé of the June meeting and what he had heard from classmates since then. At each class meeting the one and only woman member, and incidentally I believe the first woman student, sends a letter from Glendale, Calif., Mrs. J. P. Frey (nee Flora Darling).

The class has but three deceased members and but two unknown addresses out of 32 class members. The majority of the surviving members are always present.

Dr. Younger For Aviation Research Laboratories

Dr. John E. Younger, chairman of the Mechanical Engineering Department at the University of Maryland and winner of the Spirit of St. Louis gold medal for the advancement of aviation, believes that the Government or private industry should sponsor research laboratories in the Nation's universities to develop new ways to build aircraft.

For the past two years, Dr. Younger has been engaged, under the National Advisory Committee for Aeronautics, in the study of highspeed aircraft design. He has concluded that the aluminum alloy used in the so-called "all metal" planes will have to be replaced by a stronger material, possibly steel, to withstand the stress of higher speed flying.

"But we are doing too little research in attempts to find new ways to build planes," Dr. Younger said yesterday. "I am convinced that the present all-metal plane, of aluminum alloy construction, is not the ultimate in aircraft designs.

"Plastics, magnesium, alloys, steel — all are adaptable to aircraft construction. I believe now is the time for establishment of privately endowed or Government-financed laboratories at universities for conducting research in this important phase of aeronautics."

The first all-metal type plane construction in this country was developed at Wright Field, Dayton, Ohio, in 1927-28. Dr. Younger was in charge of the technical research for this project.

In 1935-36 Dr. Younger was associated with Army aircraft engineers at Wright Field in the development of the "pressure cabin" for stratosphere flying. This development is now in commercial use.

It was Dr. Younger's research on the technical aspect of the pressure cabin that won for him the Spirit of St. Louis Gold Medal awarded this year. The award is given every three years by the American Society of Mechanical Engineers for "meritorious service in the advancement of aeronautics."

schedule provides one of the most colorful opponents played by Maryland — Florida — a fine bunch of men who always put up a good game and all true sportsmen.

There is not only a good game between two good teams in the offing, but entertainment from the time of registration throughout the whole day — one of the most interesting features will be the dedication of a new gate near the Rossborough Inn. This gate is being presented by the Class of 1910.

This is only one of many things classes may do and "more power to 1910." On the side I might say this class is filled with prominent men—men participating in the affairs of world and state.

It occurs to me that it would be very interesting to have a roster of Maryland men in their various activities of life. I am sure that we would learn that Maryland plays a large part in national, state and civic life. Just a short time ago I learned that one of our most loyal and hard-working Alumni had been promoted to be a Brigadier General in the U. S. Army. Congratulations, Genl. Lindsay McD. Silvester, Class '11.

Since having been informed that one of my duties as President of the Alumni Association is writing this letter for each edition of the News, I have wondered why we could not have a letter from any Alumnus concerning his work or some other Alumni activities. We would all be glad to have the reaction of those fellows who are so situated they cannot get back except at very infrequent times.

The News is for us and letters of commendation and condemnation will be welcomed by the Editor and published whenever possible (I do not always get mine in).

Along with that, send a news item about yourself or any Alumnus that might be interesting to their friends.

Try to be on hand October 18th for the Maryland Homecoming Day Game. Get the habit early this Fall and keep it up throughout all the year. This is the one year in a lifetime for a great many of us. The Grand Reunion in 1942 for all classes — the 50th Anniversary!

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

A Challenge To Leisure

by CLARENCE LEWIS HODGE
Department of Sociology

Regardless of who you are, where you live, or what you do to earn a living, you are a wise individual if you set aside each day a certain amount of time for play and relaxation. Play and recreational activities of some sort satisfy fundamental human needs. They contribute to physical vigor and mental health, afford opportunities for individual self-expression, aid in creating and maintaining a cheerful disposition, and help the individual to derive more personal happiness from life. All of us need to develop absorbing and creative hobbies which will take our minds off our work, and relax and stimulate us mentally and physically.

Hobbies Defined

For the purposes of this discussion, hobbies may be defined as those recreational interests to which an individual devotes a portion of his leisure time, and from which he derives personal satisfaction. The term is generally applied to a wide range of recreational activities, but "a true hobby is a personal, intimate matter, capable of enjoyment by one's self, to be shared with only a few kindred souls."¹ Hobbies may be classified into three broad types: (a) the creation of things, (b) the collecting of things, (c) and the learning of things.² The range of hobbies found under each of these general headings is limitless. About all that can be done in this brief article is to indicate the various kinds of hobbies found under each heading, and give illustrations of each, so that if you have not yet found a hobby you may soon acquire one.

Suggestions For Hobbies

Hobbies cover almost the entire field of recreational interests. Before choosing a hobby an individual should first take stock of himself. What are your recreational interests? Along what lines do you have certain aptitudes? How much time and money can you afford to spend on your hobby? Your age, sex, physical health, and mental disposition should all be taken into consideration before finally selecting your hobby. After you have thought through these questions the following suggestions may prove helpful in the event you care to develop a hobby.

The National Recreation Association lists as one of its cardinal recreation principles that every individual "should learn how to make something of beauty in line, form, color, sound, or graceful use of his body."³ All of us enjoy and derive pleasure from creating or making something with our hands and minds. It is almost a universal urge and one which opens up all sorts of possibilities for hobbies, for both old and young. The arts and crafts provide a rich field to tap for those in search of creative hobbies. A suggestive list of creative hobbies might include among others the following:⁴

Basketry, china painting, etching, leather craft, painting, photography, pottery, quilting, sketching, weaving, wood carving and many others.

One of the most absorbing hobbies engaged in by countless people is collecting things. We are all collectors at heart. Our rooms and homes are cluttered with odds and ends, things we have diligently garnered up through the years. And, incidentally, we wouldn't part with them for anything, in spite at times of the protest of our wives (or husbands). Pipes, old shoes, china, marbles, books, wild flowers, shells, ties, bottles, firearms, coins, mugs, litter many of our homes from one end to the other. Each has its own peculiar value and charm. At one time or another, practically every article and item of human use has been collected by some curious and acquisitive individual. Among the more significant items for possible collectors might be mentioned such things as these:

Albums, antiques, autographs, barber mugs, beads, china, coins, clocks, combs, decanters, dime novels, dolls, embroidery, etchings, fans, firearms, folk lore, glassware, Indian arrowheads, jade, lace, lamps, locks and keys, medals, paintings, post cards, postage stamps, pottery, ship models, silver, songs and ballads, snuff boxes, steins and mugs and tapestry.

Still a third field of exploration for hobby hunters is that of learning things, acquiring knowledge and skill in a particular field. The age-old adage, "We are never too old to learn," is applicable to all of us. The arts and sciences with all their broad ramifications offer vast and multitudinous opportunities for those in search of a hobby involving the learning of things. Here we have the opportunity of putting into use again, for pleasure and profit, the special skills, techniques, and interests acquired during college days. This challenging field is so broad in scope and content, touching as it does almost every aspect of culture studied by man, that one can do little more than briefly catalogue a few of the major subjects in the arts and sciences which might elicit the attention of the hobby seeker. Among others, these include:

Aeronautics, anthropology, archaeology, chemistry, dancing, dramatics, ethics, folk lore, geology, history, music, speech, sports and games, travel, zoology.

Thus it appears we have the choice of many fields for hobbies ranging all the way from aeronautics to zoology. These, together with the other suggestive hobbies we have mentioned, offer each of us innumerable opportunities for rest and relaxation, for mental and physical growth during our leisure time. You need not be an expert or necessarily have special aptitudes to develop a certain hobby. All that is needed is the urge, the desire to explore a particular branch of knowledge, to pit yourself against the known or unknown as the case may be. As you work along with the hobby you will develop the necessary skill and technique. And this is part of the pleasure and fun you will derive from it. Since all of us have latent leisure-time skills developed in college or later life, why not put them to work again? They will give new meaning, zest, and variety to what is ordinarily for most of us a dull, drab, and commonplace day. All of us need to find and develop one or several hobbies. They're good for body and soul!

Big Battle With Duke Also In Mind Of Coaches As They Face Western Maryland, Ancient Foe

Jack Faber, Al Heagy and Al Woods had a lot of trouble on their minds when this was written with the game with Western Maryland Terrors coming up and the meeting with Duke coming just eight days later.

Maryland was to engage the Terrors in the Baltimore Stadium on the night of October 3 and to take on the powerful Blue Devils from Durham on the afternoon of the 11th at the same place.

Duke, as all football followers know, is one of the Nation's outstanding teams and, as usual, is picked to be in the running for the mythical crown and a post-season bowl game. The Blue Devils are odds-on choices to win the title in the Southern Conference, of which Maryland also is a member.

Terrors Offer Formidable Task

But before Duke is reached, there is that scuffle with Western Maryland to think about. The Terrors are reported to be considerably better than last year when Maryland had its hands full to eke out a 6-to-0 victory on an early touchdown that resulted on a pass from Mearle Duvall to Joe Murphy. Murphy, who kicked and ran for the Terps to most of their points last year, is not around but Duvall is on hand and in stronger company.

Maryland's attack, particularly, has been bolstered by the addition of sophs and the line also has been helped greatly. In all nine sophs are running on the first two teams which line-up as follows:

Second Combination

Hesson, Dittmar, Chovanes and Mier are the only rookies, the others having won their letter last year.

Jack Brenner and Bill Helboch, backs; Bill Taylor, center; Dick Alexander, end, and Tony Nardo, guard, are other sophs who are highly valuable.

These 26 men doubtless will be about the only ones to get their names in the line-ups this season but some others on the squad are working hard and should develop for the future.

Maryland holds an 18-12 edge on Western Maryland in its series begun back in 1892 but was licked by fairly sizable scores in both of the games it has played with Duke.

Schedule For 1942 Announced

While Maryland is battling through its 1941 schedule, the card for 1942 already is set. As announced by Jack Faber, acting Athletic Director, it shows only two changes as far as the teams are concerned. Georgetown and Penn are not on the 1942 list, with Virginia, an old rival, returning after a lapse of one season, and Connecticut being added.

Virginia and Maryland would have kept their rivalry unbroken had they been able to have found a mutually suitable date this year. They are now booked through 1943.

Maryland will continue to play Georgetown in basketball and baseball and Penn will return to the gridiron list in 1944.

Connecticut will offer the opening game next Fall with Hampden-Sydney being moved down to fifth place on the card, in between the V. M. I. trip and the encounter with Western Maryland in Baltimore.

Florida Coming Back Next Fall

Florida will return to College Park for the second straight year and Rutgers will be the opponent in the fourth home game. Washington and Lee has been listed for the closing tilt on Thanksgiving Day in Baltimore.

The complete card:

September 26—Connecticut at College Park.

October 3—Florida at College Park; 10—Rutgers at College Park; 17—V. M. I. at Lexington; 24—Hampden-Sydney at College Park; 31—Western Maryland at Baltimore.

November 7—Duke at Durham; 14—Virginia at Charlottesville; 26—Washington and Lee at Baltimore.

Chemical Alumni Meet

When the American Chemical Society held their annual meeting in Atlantic City this month a large group of Maryland Alumni gathered at the Marlboro-Blenheim Hotel for a luncheon.

Dr. L. B. Broughton, '08, former head of the Chemistry Department and now Dean of the College of Arts and Science, led the campus representatives. Several other faculty members attended and the gathering was a good fellowship get-together.

Among those present were Harry Duvall, '32, now a research chemist with duPont; Ronald F. Brown, '32, now instructor at Purdue; William P. Campbell, '36, Hercules Powder Co.; Joseph R. Spies, '34, U. Homecoming Guests of Honor

Football Team of 1916

PENN - MD. ALUMNI LUNCHEON

Last year prior to the Penn-Maryland football game in Philadelphia the Alumni Association of the University of Pennsylvania sponsored a joint Penn-Maryland Alumni Luncheon.

Again the U. of Penn Alumni have proposed another luncheon to be held from 11:30 A. M. to 1:30 P. M. in Houston Hall, West Lounge, on Saturday, October 25, the day of the Penn-Maryland game. Houston Hall is located at 3417 Spruce Street, which is near Franklin Field, and one parking will do for both the luncheon and game. It will be of great help if those who plan to attend will make their reservations in advance by sending one dollar per person to your Alumni Secretary or direct to the Penn Alumni Association, 34th and Spruce Streets.

Local arrangements are being carried forward by A. Moulton McNutt, '06, and John P. Mudd, '07, president and secretary of the Philadelphia Old Line Alumni Group. Dr. A. A. Parker, '04, president of the Alumni Association, will lead a large delegation of Marylanders to Philadelphia which he hopes will outdo the group of last year. This is a splendid idea and deserves the loyal support of every Alumnus who can possibly attend.

See you in Philadelphia!

Dr. Insley, '30, Honored

Among one of the coveted honors a young surgeon desires to attain is a fellowship in the American College of Surgeons. Dr. Philip A. Insley, '30, M.D. '34, was notified to be present for his first meeting November 3 to 7, the annual clinical Congress of the College to be held in Boston. The American College of Surgeons is an eminent organization composed of the outstanding surgeons of the United States and to become a member most rigid standards have to be met. Following graduation he interned under the late Dr. Robert P. Bay, '05, and in 1936 became a member of the staff at the Peninsula General Hospital in Salisbury. He is a member of the American Medical Association, the Southern Medical Association and the Rotary Club of Salisbury. He is also a member of Sigma Phi Sigma Fraternity. He married Miss Elinor V. Nichols and they have two children. His secretarial work is cared for by Betty Harcum, '39.

Md. Grads Killed in Plane Crash

One of eight Army fliers killed in a series of recent crashes was Donald Bierer, who was graduated last June from the University of Maryland, which he attended four years.

Bierer, 21, a flying cadet, was killed at Fort Worth, Texas, while practicing acrobatics. Witnesses said a wing came off the plane.

In his senior year at M. U. Bierer was sports editor of the year book, The Terrapin, and a member of the College of Agriculture livestock judging team which was sent to the National Livestock Exposition in Chicago, where the team took a prize.

He was a member of the Rossborough Club, a social organization which sponsors dances at the University and of Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternity. He played baseball on the freshman team. He took a degree in Agriculture.

Others to meet death in aeroplane crashes are Lieut. George Meeks, '38, in Iceland and Lieut. John Mears, '39, in Florida.

ACCIDENTS

Last Spring Ed Daly, '37, was in an aeroplane crash and unfortunately sustained a broken leg. After months of anxious waiting for proper knitting and healing, which was in vain, amputation became necessary. Being a true Old Liner gridman he gritted his teeth and took it with his chin up. He now is doing nicely.

Coleman Headley, '38, former athletic luminary at College Park, received a bullet wound in his lung and

ALUMNI RALLY RUTGERS GAME

On November 1 the New York Alumni Group will sponsor another Alumni Rally and Cocktail Party in New Brunswick, N. J., following the Rutgers-Maryland football game. The rally will be held at the Roger Smith Hotel on the third floor. It will be a get-acquainted meeting with good fellowship the only program.

All Maryland Alumni and their friends are invited to come and participate. There will be no per capita cost; your expenses will only be what you desire to make them.

The committee on arrangements is Malcolm Rich, '17, Fred Rakeman, '18, Miss Sarah Morris, '25, and Don Kieffer, '30. The committee has arranged with Rutgers authorities to reserve a block of tickets for Marylanders.

Go to the south stands and look for Maryland section sign. Get with your fellow Alumni and help cheer the boys on. It is desired, however, that you get your tickets in advance by writing your Alumni Office at College Park. The price is $1.65.

Your fellow Alumnus expects to see you at Rutgers.

Dr. Taliaferro, Dean Emeritus, Succumbs

We regret to learn of the death of Dr. Thomas Hardy Taliaferro, recently retired Dean of the Faculty.

Dr. Taliaferro was a graduate of the famous Virginia Military Institute in the Class of 1890. He taught for a few years at his Alma Mater and followed with several years at the University of Florida. In 1904 he came to University of Maryland as a teacher in Mathematics. His career at Maryland was a steady rise as he became head of the Department of Mathematics, Dean of Engineering, Dean of the College of Arts and Science, and Dean of the Faculty, the position he held at retirement in March. The faculty tendered Dr. and Mrs. Taliaferro a departing reception at the historic Rossborough Inn near the close of the last school year.

Probably few men have gone from among the living with a warmer feeling for the University of Maryland than Thomas Hardy Taliaferro, a sterling character and eminent scholar.

Every Alumnus joins the Editor in expressing condolence to Mrs. Taliaferro.

stomach this summer while innocently trying to protect others. He has been quite ill but following a long battle his spirit, physical attributes and determination seem to be winning. Coleman is in the University Hospital in Baltimore.

OCTOBER, 1941

Mr. George W. Fogg,
College Park, Md.

ON THE WHARVES of Liverpool and Singapore, in a freighter's hold halfway across the Atlantic, in a truck on the Burma Road, you will find them—three words stencilled on a thousand boxes and bales: "Made in U.S.A."

Yesterday, three big words to look for. But today they stand for more than the unequalled engineering and production that have made them familiar on every dock and pier in the world. They stand for the productive strength of a free people—a productive strength that cannot be matched; they stand for a determination to "deliver the goods"—a determination that will not be thwarted. And in the ports of the world's embattled democracies, where men are hourly risking their lives to take delivery, they stand for freedom itself!

To keep this great flood of goods moving is the most important job in the world today. Wherever it moves, General Electric helps to provide motors and propulsion equipment to keep it moving. In trains hauling ore to America's factories; in factories building guns and tanks and planes; in ships carrying oil to Britain and food to China; in destroyers and cruisers and battleships patrolling two oceans—the words "General Electric" stand beside "Made in U.S.A." General Electric Co., Schenectady, New York, U.S.A.

One of the most familiar campus pathways. This is a scene early in the Fall and such will be the daily sight until the close of school. The winding walk leads from the main campus gateway at College Avenue and the Boulevard to the top of the Hill going by the Chemistry, Agriculture and Arts and Science buildings. There is a branch from this walk that goes through the underpass with which many are familiar, especially those on an evening stroll.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

WOW! — what a Homecoming Day the boys put on for us. You fellows who failed to show up missed a whale of a good time; as good a football game as you will ever see on anybody's field, along with any number of your old friends, for they were there from the oldest on down to last year's graduates.

Everybody present paid tribute to a great bunch of football players who came up as the under dogs and, by their spirit and gameness, outplayed a great Florida team, led by one Harrison, who was as hard to hold as the proverbial greased pig.

Whether we like the idea of the Three Musketeers, or whether we are sold on the idea of a Dictator for coach, congratulations are in order and herewith extended to Faber, Heagy and Woods for the splendid work they did with the team in one week, after being steam-rolled by one of the great football machines of the year — Duke.

A most interesting and inspiring feature of the day was the presentation

HOMECOMING HIGHLIGHTS

Terrabin Girl Cheerleaders Greet the Florida Sponsors and Mr. Gator — Congressman Cole, president of the Class of 1910, cuts the ribbon opening the new campus Gateway, presented to the University by that class — The Sophomore Class wins the annual Tug-o-War at Paint Branch — Dr. H. C. Byrd crowns Miss Elira Pearson, "Miss Maryland of 1941" as Homecoming Queen — Pershing Riflers present massed colors opening the half-time parade at the Homecoming Game.

Students Present Colorful Program for Homecoming

The 1941 Homecoming was probably the most colorful and spectacular program ever put on at College Park. First on the eventful day's activities was the Freshman-Sophomore tug-o-war, which the Sophs won. Now their name will be engraved upon the sacred Terrapin statue for the second time, as the same class won last year as Freshmen. What'a class'

Alumni filtered in all during the morning, swapped yarns around the Rossborough Inn and took strolls about the new part of the campus. At noon the Class of 1910, which held the limelight in honors for the day, gathered for lunch in the University Dining Hall. So did the Class of '08.

Gateway

One of the most outstanding gestures in Alumni records was the presentation of a new campus gateway near the Rossborough Inn by the Class of 1910. This gateway, shown elsewhere in this issue, is built of brick and of colonial architecture to blend in with that of the Rossborough Inn. Here the class and a group of Alumni, students and friends gathered to see Congressman W. P. Cole, Jr., president of the class, cut the ribbon and open the gateway for the presentation. Mr. Henry Holzapfel, '93, chairman of the Board of Regents, received in behalf of the University. Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, made a few remarks congratulating the class.

Dr. A. A. Parker, '05, president of the Alumni Association, acted as master of ceremonies. Mr. William Holbrook, president of the Student Government Association; Miss Doris McFarland, president of Mortar Board, and Mr. Orville C. Shirey, president of Omicron Delta Kappa, presented letters to the Class of 1910 on behalf of their respective organizations. Mr. Larry MacKenzie, vice-president of the S. G. A., and Miss Mary Ann Griffith, secretary of S. G. A., accompanied Mr. Holbrook in the presentation of the letter.

Football Game

The rumble of the drum and the plunk of the pigskin called the attention of everyone to Byrd Stadium where the 'Gators of Florida and the Terps of Maryland were to have an interesting afternoon and it was interesting! Maryland was the first to score and took the lead over the favored 'Gators. In the second half Florida came back and scored twice to take the lead. They threatened twice again but a stout Maryland line was equal to the occasion and gained possession of the ball. In the fourth period the Terps launched a drive with passes and runs which took them to midfield. With two minutes left to play Jack Wright flipped a neat pass to Mearle DuVall who fingered it, juggled and then pulled in the pigskin to his arm and was away to the coveted goal line. A Florida man took a desperate dive at the goal line but too late and it was Maryland leading, 13-12. Soon the final whistle and Maryland was victorious in a brilliant Homecoming game. The campus and town then began a jubilant evening of frolic and fun.

Student Spirit

All Fraternities and Sororities were the meccas for many boys and girls of yesteryears. The houses were ablaze with attractive Homecoming decorations which said welcome to our grads. Up on the Hill the Homecoming Victory Dance in the Gym-Armory attracted a large throng of Alumni, faculty and students.

The show put on by the students for the returning Alumni was probably the most enthusiastic and hospitable exhibit ever presented. Prizes were given for the best decorated Fraternity or Sorority house and Sigma Phi Sigma got first honors. For the first time all dormitories on the campus were dressed with flying colors as a gesture of welcome to the boys and girls of yesteryears.

Float Parade

At half-time of the football game a most attractive and colorful Homecoming parade was presented by the students. The outstanding feature of this part of the show was the crowning of Miss Maryland (Miss Elmore Pearson) as the Homecoming Queen by President H. C. Byrd. The parade began with the massing of colors by the Pershing Rifle unit of the R. O. T. C. and the playing of The Star-Spangled Banner. Then the parade began, led by a mounted color guard on four black horses from Fort Myer. The color guard was composed of members of the riding club. Miss Maryland and her court followed with the other fifteen floats passing in review. The Class of 1943 took first place with the theme "A Terrapin Hurricane Wrecks Florida" and so it did in the fourth quarter.

"M" Club Meeting

On Homecoming Day the annual meeting of the "M" Club is held. This year it was held immediately following the game with a very good attendance. The outstanding feature of this meeting was the presentation of a compiled "M" Club directory of which Ed Powell, '13, was the editor. Officers for the ensuing year were then elected and J. W. Stevens, '19, was re-elected pres-

Class of 1910 Dedicates Gateway

The Class of 1910 gathered on Homecoming Day and presented a new campus gateway to the University. Prior to the presentation the class had lunch in the University Dining Hall. Immediately after lunch they went to the Rossborough Inn for the presentation exercises. Congressman W. P. Cole, Jr., president, made the presentation remarks and Hon. Henry Holzapfel, '93, chairman of the Board of Regents, accepted. Col. O. H. Saunders, secretary of the class and a wheel-horse in the class activities, gave brief remarks on class interest. Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University, made a brief talk congratulating the class for their splendid gesture.

Cole's Remarks

Mr. Cole, in his presentation remarks to Chairman Holzapfel, said, "The Class of 1910 is enjoying a reunion primarily for the purpose of presenting to our Alma Mater this gate. It is a token of the ever increasing regard we have for the University of Maryland. It is not big in value or pretentious in appearance, but it is as you see it, concrete evidence of our love, first for old M. A. C. and now for her parent University.

"In making this contribution to the campus of the University, we have deliberately dictated its design so that the figure '10' will appear prominently both day and night and we have done so with the hope that the students of today will coin the familiar phrase, 'Meet us at the Gate 10', and when they do that it will continually echo through the future life of this great University.

"Finally, as we present this gate to the University through you we want to acknowledge the feeling of satisfaction we have in the enviable position the University occupies today in the educational institutions of the country. We hope that this little contribution from us will act as an incentive for others to tie their affections more closely to this institution which has meant so much to all of us."

The following are excerpts from the letters and resolutions presented the Class of 1910 by the student organizations:

"WHEREAS, on Homecoming Day, October 18, 1941, the Class of 1910 of the University of Maryland is presenting a memorial gateway and, whereas, the gateway represents a beautiful structure on the campus, and reflects the loyalty and allegiance of the Class of 1910 to the interests of the University, be it therefore

"M" Club Re-elects Stevens, '19, President

At the annual meeting of the "M" Club, held on Homecoming Day, James W. Stevens, '19, was re-elected president for the ensuing year. M. B. Stevens, '27, a former football luminary, was re-elected vice-president, and Dr. E. N. Cory, '09, another former footballer, was re-elected secretary-treasurer. E. E. Powell, '13, the father of lacrosse at Maryland, was elected historian. The other members of the Board of Representatives were elected as follows:

For football, W. M. Kishpaugh, '17, Hershey, Pa.; baseball, Eddie Semler, '23, Hagerstown, Md.; lacrosse, Tilgman B. Marden, '25, Baltimore, Md.; basket ball, H. B. Shipley, '14, College Park, Md.; track, Seymour W. Ruff, '17, Randallstown, Md.; tennis, Egbert Tingley, '27, Hyattsville, Md.; cross country, Talbot T. Members-at-large are Bucky Clemson D.D.S., '21, Baltimore, Md.; James M. Swartz, '19, Baltimore, Md.; Jerre H. Sullivan, '21, New York City; A. W. Valentine, M.D., '04, Washington, D. C.; Lee Pennington, '15, Washington, D. C., and G. F. Pollock, '23, College Park, Md.

An attractive directory of "M" Club members who answered Roll Call was presented at the meeting by E. E. Powell, originator of the idea and editor. It represented a splendid idea and lots of work by Ed Powell. The directory, bound in a black paper cover with the M in gold, made a most attractive appearance. The information contained therein about many former Old Line athletes is interesting and valuable.

The scholarship fund was another very interesting and important subject discussed with several ideas presented for installing new effort into raising more funds.

FOOTBALLERS OF 1916 WERE GUESTS OF HONOR

The boys of the 1916 team, celebrating their 25th anniversary, saw an Old Line team perform and gain a victory which brought back memories of the great season they had in 1916. One of the greatest games ever to be played at College Park was in 1916 with the Virginia Military Institute. The scoring see-sawed with each team desperately taking the offensive but with the aid of the brilliant drop-kicking by "Untz" Brewer, Maryland won, 15-9. Kishpaugh, one of the greatest guards the State has ever known, led his team in a great game.

Here are some of the boys who were on hand: "Untz"

O.P.M. Want Industry Specialist

The Division of Civilian Supply of the Office of Production Management urgently needs men to assist in operating its important industry branches. These branches are: Pulp and Paper, Printing and Publishing, Lumber and Building Materials, Plumbing and Heating, Automotive Farm Equipment and Transportation, Rubber and Rubber Products, Electrical Appliances and Consumers' Durable Goods, Industrial Machinery, and State and Local Government Requirements.

We need graduate engineers and economists between the ages of 30 and 55 who have had substantial experience in the production and sales of commodities, machinery, etc., and who have had public contact and can carry on liaison work in connection with national defense problems as they affect civilian supply. Present employment need not be a deterrent to applicants.

Above all, we want men who will go all-out with us in the gigantic defense task before us — patriotic men who will work hard and long, knowing that with each ounce of effort they put forth, the security of the United States will be that much strengthened. Salaries will be paid according to United States Civil Service Commission grading. The general range, according to the ability and experience of the individual and the importance of the position for which he is chosen, is from $3,200 to $5,600.

Communications should be addressed to Norris B. Gaddess, Acting Executive Officer, Division of Civilian Supply, Office of Production Management, Washington, D. C.

Cadets And Generals Are Last Home Foes

Maryland has two more home football games — with V. M. I. at College Park on November 15 and with Washington and Lee five days later on Thanksgiving Day in the Baltimore Stadium.

The Terps hold an edge in both series but that with V. M. I. is close and the Cadets could even it up by winning this year.

V. M. I. is said to have the best back-field trio in the South in Joe Muha, Bosh Pritchard and the team scored 11 touchdowns in its first five games, although winning only one.

The Generals have one of the most powerful lines in the country but their attack does not appear to be near as potent as Maryland's. This should just about even up the fracas.

Here are the past records:

Boxing Work Started Under New Coach

Boxing preparation has just started at College Park under the new coach, Bobby Goldstein, former Virginia fistic great. He replaces Mike Lombardo, Maryland '38, who was called into the Marine Corps as a second lieutenant.

Lombardo had a 50-50 season in 1941 with a green team, winning three matches, losing three and tying one, and Goldstein inherits all of the material Mike had.

Jan. 10—South Carolina at Columbia.
Jan. 17—Coast Guard Academy.
Jan. 31—University of Virginia.
Feb. 7—Catholic U. at Washington.
Feb. 11—Western Maryland.
Feb. 14—Virginia Tech (All-U Night).
Feb. 21—North Carolina at Chapel Hill.
Feb. 27-28—Southern Conference Tourney.

Smith, Frosh Mentor, Has Some Good Boys

Bob Smith, one of Maryland's greatest centers of all time, is coaching the Terp frosh football squad while continuing his studies. He's had his allotted time with the Terps on the gridiron but is a lieutenant-colonel in the R. O. T. C. Unit, commanding one of the battalions.

He has some pretty good material but most of it is green, with the linemen being generally stronger than the backs. The young Terps lost to the V. M. I. yearlings in their opener, but tied George Washington frosh, a much bigger outfit, 6-6, and were underdogs in their three remaining games with the following:

Nov. 1—Navy Plebes at Annapolis.
Nov. 7—Georgetown Frosh.
Nov. 15—Washington and Lee Frosh (10 A. M.).

FIELDS TUTORS HARRIERS

Maryland's cross-country team is being coached by Tommy Fields, mile and 2-mile ace of the past three years. Tommy is rather shy on talent and has lost Conference meets to Virginia and North Carolina.

Travel Will Toughen Soph Basket Squad

Varsity basket ball for players who are not in football has been started by Coach Burton Shipley for a heavy season that will get under way on December 13 with a visit to Richmond U.

There will be eight games away from home before Washington College is met in Ritchie Coliseum on January 16. Traveling will be featured by a trip to New York to battle three topnotch teams. Shipley's tossers will be mainly sophs this season and the tough siege of early tilts was arranged to develop them.

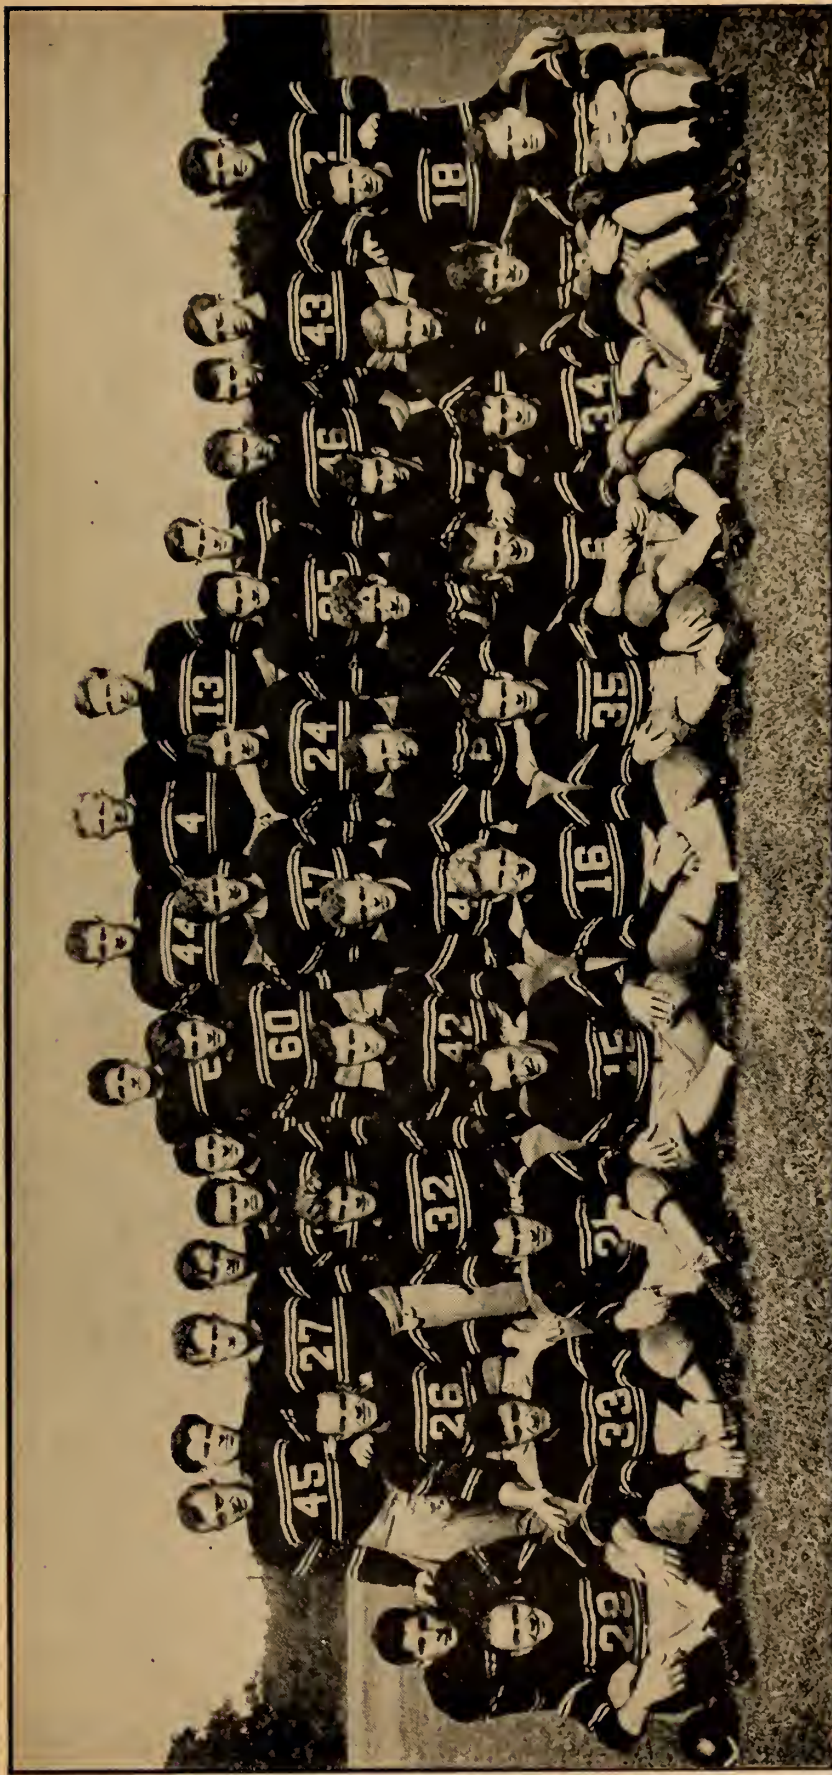

Dec. 13—Richmond U. at Richmond.
Dec. 15—William and Mary at Williamsburg.
Dec. 19—West Virginia at Cumberland.
Dec. 30—Seton Hall at South Orange, N. J.
Dec. 31—City College of New York at N. Y.
Jan. 2—St. John's at Brooklyn.
Jan. 8—Virginia at Charlottesville.
Jan. 9—Duke at Durham.

Feb. 14—West Virginia (All-U Night).
Feb. 18—Army at West Point.
Feb. 20—North Carolina.
Feb. 23—Duke.
Feb. 27—V. M. I.
March 5, 6 and 7—Southern Conference tourney at Raleigh.

TERPS SHY ON WEIGHT

Lack of weight in the line is the big trouble with the Maryland varsity football team. The Terps have used a total of 25 men, forwards and backs, in games this year and their average is only 180 pounds. This means that the team has been outweighed 15 or more pounds to the man in all its big games. That's a terrific handicap.

SOCCER TEAM BEST EVER

The Terp soccer team doubtless is the best in the history of the school. It scored shutouts in its first three games and then tied powerful Temple at 1-all. Temple last year rated second in the East.

SECOND ROW — Luther Conrad, George Jarnoska, Bill Taylor, Max Hlmt, John Morton, Frank Heyer, Bernie Uhnau, Elmer Rigby, Jim Dunn and Bob James.

Maryland's footballers had played five of their nine games when this was written and had won two, lost two and tied one. The Terps beat Hampden Sydney, outplayed Western Maryland greatly in a 6-6 deadlock, scored a stunning 13-12 upset over Florida on Homecoming Day, and lost, as expected, by big margins to powerful Duke and Penn, two of the nation's outstanding teams.

Rutgers, Georgetown, V. M. I. and Washington and Lee were the games coming up, with the Terps apparently holding an even chance with all, except Georgetown, which has a double set of powerful linemen which Maryland cannot come close to matching. Rutgers, V. M. I. and Washington and Lee also have it on the Terps in their forward wall talent but not to such an extent as the Hoyas.

ident. While the "M" Club boys were meeting their wives and friends were being entertained at tea in the Rossborough Inn. Mrs. E. N. Cory was chairman and head hostess for the affair.

The final function of the day was the Homecoming Dance and naturally a victorious team and a general spirit of "mardi gras" gaiety made the Victory Ball a colorful close for a great day long to be remembered by those who were fortunate enough to return.

tion of a gate, alongside the Rossborough Inn, by the Class of 1910. The Hon. W. P. Cole who, notwithstanding his success in his chosen field and the honors which are his, is still "Bill" to all the boys, and represented his Class in the presentation ceremonies with a very appropriate speech.

Let us hope that the action of the Class of 1910 will stimulate the interest of other classes, if not to material things, at least to the point of a personal appearance at some of our various reunions.

That calls to my mind that the next opportunity we will have for a real get-together will be Charter Day, in January, in Baltimore. This has now become an annual affair and brings together what is probably a better cross-section of the Alumni than any other gathering of the whole year. Alumni from every school of the University are present. See to it, when the notices go out for that meeting, you get your reservations in early for a great Maryland Reunion.

Maryland men are everywhere, so why wait for an annual affair for a reunion? Why not arrange for a weekly or monthly gathering of the Alumni in your various communities — get acquainted with those you do not know and rekindle the old fire? All Maryland men have a fund of good stories and recollections of time spent on the Hill which will be of interest to any who have spent time there themselves. Organize now and enjoy the spirit of friendship you will find present at such times.

There are still a number of counties in the State where there are not County Maryland Groups (my own county is one). There should be such an organization in every county and surely there is someone in each county with interest sufficient to get the boys, and girls now, together.

Do this now and when we gather in June for that Fiftieth Anniversary of the Alumni Association — that only happens once in a lifetime — let a roll of County Groups be called with a 100 per cent. response. Keep this in mind and prepare to be present in June.

Sincerely yours,

MORTAR BOARD

"Our University is growing rapidly, and this has been made possible only through the combined efforts of the administration, the Alumni and the students. The Class of 1910 has left not only a beautiful memorial, but an inspiration to the Maryland Campus. It will stand as one of the bonds that tie the Alumni and the student body into one University of Maryland."

MISS DORIS McFARLAND, President.

OMICRON DELTA KAPPA

"RESOLVED, That Sigma Circle of Omicron Delta Kappa hereby tenders its deep appreciation of the generosity of the Class of 1910 in presenting to the University this gateway, a permanent symbol of the feeling that exists among the Alumni for their University. Further, be it resolved that this society recognizes the leadership of the Hon. Wm. P. Cole, Jr., and of the Class of 1910 in this undertaking, and takes pride in the realization of that leadership."

ORVILLE SMREY, President.

Members of the class present were Herschel H. Allen, Baltimore; W. P. Cole, Towson, Md.; John L. Donaldson, Washington, D. C. W. J. Frere, Lemoine, Pa.; S. D. Gray, Washington, D. C.; F. J. Maxwell, Towson, Md.; O. H. Saunders, Fort Leavenworth, Kansas; S. S. Stabler, University Park; T. R. Stanton, Riverdale, Md.; Frank R. Ward, Roselle, N. Y.

JIM MEADE JOINS ARROWS

The Richmond Arrows of the Dixie Professional Football League signed John (Jarrin' Jim) Meade, 195 pound All-Southern Conference back for the Terps in 1938 and for the past two years a member of the Washington Redskins' squad.

Meade, drafted several months ago, is stationed at Camp Lee, assigned to the medical detachment.

"We have been dickering with Jarrin' Jim for several weeks," said Linwood Jones, the Arrows' business manager, "and the ink is still wet on his contract. Meade is the man we have been looking for to round out the backfield."

Coach George Magill said Meade "should help solve our backfield problem."

The New Administration Building, located at the East end of the new campus. Few would know this new part of the campus until they stop and think that it is the valley which was in rear of the Agriculture, Chemistry and Engineering Buildings. Along one side ran the old Riggs Road, now removed, and the new road comes through the campus north of Guerneaux Hall.

The Administration Building has three groups of columns which make a stately scene. In front of this building the Pershing Rifle Company, crack drill unit of the R. O. T. C., met Lord Halifax.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Maryland's 1941 football history is made — probably none of us are very well satisfied but what is past cannot be changed. This one thing is certain — credit must be given unstintingly to a courageous squad of football players, who gave their all. At times they rose to heights much above their normal and at other times, by sheer force of power they were pushed into the depths by their opponents. But, whether the sailing was fair or their ship sunk by the storm, they were in there fighting until the last shot was fired, with not a thought of surrender.

I feel that we, all Alumni, can take an extremely good lesson from the way these boys carried on in the face of adversity. From all sides I have had these types of questions and remarks handed to me: "What's the matter with Maryland?" "Why don't we get a team?" "Why not get a big-time coach and have a real (Continued on page 5)

O. D. K. Tapped Lord Halifax

Lord Halifax, British Ambassador to the United States, was tapped for honorary membership by Omicron Delta Kappa last week at College Park. The Ambassador was presented by Gov. Herbert R. O'Connor, also an honorary member of O. D. K., then tapped by Orville Shirley, president of the fraternity. The R. O. T. C. band played "God Save the King" as a packed coliseum stood in honor of the British Ambassador.

Upon his arrival at the campus the British statesman was greeted by a 19-gun salute and the Pershing Rifles, crack drill unit of the R. O. T. C., which served as escort from the Administration Building to the Coliseum.

In his remarks the Ambassador said, "American and British universities stand shoulder to shoulder to preserve free learning and the unfettered search for truth."

Dr. H. C. Byrd, president, described the British Ambassador as "one of the world's greatest leaders." Also tapped for honorary member was Lieut.-Col. Robert E. Wysor, Jr., professor of military science and tactics at the University. Nine students were tapped for membership. Those honored were Douglas D. Wallop, son of Douglas Wallop, '19, Samuel Moore, Robert Russell, Robert Searles, Norman Rosenfield, Harold Smelser, Harry Spicer, Oliver Guyther, and Edward Price.

Alumni At Macon, Ga.

Several Alumni have written in to this office requesting the names of those who are on active duty with the army at the various camps throughout the country. It is difficult to keep up with the army transfers but if those who read this would just drop a card to the Alumni Office giving the name, rank and camp of any Maryland Alumnus now on active duty it would help a lot.

Private T. Nelson Haase, '41, now at Camp Wheeler, Ga., writes for the names of Marylanders in that camp. He knows about some of them but there must be others and he is anxious to contact them. He is with Company D, Third Training Battalion.

Those in active service should drop the Alumni Office a card and we may be able to tell you that a fellow Alumnus is in the same camp and you not know it. Get the fellows together and we can have Maryland Alumni Clubs in every camp.

Chisolm Wins In Photography

Two series of pictures by Julian J. Chisolm, Washington photographer, which appeared originally in the rotogravure section of the Sunday Star were chosen for the gold and silver medal awards by the International Salon of Nature Photography.

Chisolm has received official notification that his pictures were chosen as the best entered in one of the four sections of the salon, which was opened at the convention of the Photographic Society of America last month.

The awards were in the class for series of pictures telling a story. There were three prizes awarded in the class, with Jack's pictures taking first and second medals.

The first series of pictures showed the development of a wasp being used in the fight to control the Japanese beetle. These pictures were made in a laboratory at the University and published in The Star's rotogravure section July 14, 1940.

The second prize went to a series of pictures showing the stages in the shedding of a hard crab's shell. These pictures were made in the Chesapeake Bay Biological Laboratory at Solomon's Island and appeared in the rotogravure section of November 3, 1940.

Jack is a specialist in plant materials and, because of his success in making photographs of the type which won the prizes, is now employed professionally as a record photographer.

Mause, '38, Royal Air Force

John David Mause, '38, visited his home in Myersville, Maryland, en route from training school at San Diego, Calif., to Canada from where he will fly in a bomber to Scotland. He stated that he expected to undergo six weeks of training in Scotland before being assigned to a bomber escort patrol in the London area. Mause was one of four men who successfully completed the course begun by fifteen men. Mause said his rank of pilot officer compared with that of first lieutenant in the United States Army and added that if America actively entered the war he would automatically be transferred to the United States Corps with the rank of Captain.

Deceased—Frederick C. Burton, Class of '32, died November 4th, after an illness of one week. He had been a member of the Fort Hill High School faculty since the opening of the school in 1936.

The faculty of Fort Hill High School attended the funeral in a body, accompanied by student representatives from classes and homerooms. An outstanding teacher, Mr. Burton was characterized by Victor D. Heisey, principal of the school, as one who excelled for teaching theory and putting it into practice.

team?" "Go ahead and start something and I will back you up." "How do you expect us to get up any enthusiasm when we can never see our team win?" "I'm ashamed to let it be known I'm a Maryland man when I read the scores in the Sunday papers."

To my mind every question and remark of such type was an indictment against the one who made it. How many Alumni who feel as those who put forth such remarks are trying to do anything about it? If you are not satisfied with your business, your car, your home or your clothes, what do you do about it? You get down and dig until you are in a position to improve one or all — you do it on your own because they are all personal belongings. Did it ever occur to you that, as Alumni, Maryland and its representative teams are your teams and it's your obligation to help them? They are fighting for the glory of your Alma Mater and it behooves you to give them your material as well as spiritual help that they may be strengthened and you made to feel proud of Maryland teams and a glorious self-satisfaction in seeing some protege of yours "carrying the ball."

Maryland gets her football representatives principally from our own State. How many good athletes go out of our State to other schools? What did you do about your star high school athlete who went to Virginia, Carolina, Pennsylvania or elsewhere? How many high schools in Maryland play football? That is where we should be drawing our material from — have you tried to interest your high school in football, the most popular game in America? You can do so because every Maryland Alumnus is influential in his community affairs — and if he isn't, he should be. There are enough Alumni throughout the State to create the interest and desire for high school football and when such a condition becomes a fact, there would be no dearth of material.

A big-time coach and a big-time team we would all like to have; but there is big-time work for every individual Alumnus to do in order that we may have it. There are ways and means and if you do not know them, attend your "M" Club meetings, your Alumni Association meetings, your other Maryland gatherings and become enlightened. Do not expect because you attended school for four years, and have your sheepskins, you are privileged to sit back with your thumbs in the armholes of your vest and have a few hard workers carry you on the crest of the wave for the next fifty years. You have your part to play — get busy now for your share in 1942.

Holy smokes! After reading this, I do not know whether to send it in or not. This harangue sounds like I might have a D.D. after my name instead of an M.D. Anyway, it goes!

Dean Robinson, President-elect American Dental Asso.

Dr. J. Ben Robinson, '14, D.D.S., Dean of the Baltimore College of Dental Surgery, Dental School, University of Maryland, was elected President elect of the American Dental Association at the annual election of the Association on October 30 in Houston, Texas. Dr. Robinson, who has been Dean of the Dental School since 1924, was born in Clarksburg, West Virginia. He received his collegiate training at Marshall College and at the University of West Virginia, and spent six years as a teacher in the public schools of West Virginia before beginning the study of dentistry at Maryland in 1911. He graduated from the University in 1914 with Magna Cum Laude honors and was immediately appointed to a teaching position on the staff of the Dental School, rising to the professorship of Operative Dentistry in 1919. Dr. Robinson served as a member of the Maryland State Board of Dental Examiners from 1922 to 1924, is a past president of the Maryland State Dental Association, of the American Association of Dental Schools, and of the American College of Dentists. He served in 1935 as a member of the Dental Advisory Committee to the Technical Staff Studying Compulsory Health Insurance, and is at present serving on the Council on Education, on the Committee on History and the Committee on Preparedness of the American Dental Association. He is a member of the Dental Advisory Committee to Selective Service in Washington. He has written extensively on various subjects including education, socio-economics, history and operative dentistry.

Dr. Robinson is a member of the Maryland Historical Society, the International Association for Dental Research, the New York Academy of Dentistry and is an honorary member of the Society of Surgeons of Guadalajara, Mexico. He is Supreme Grand Master of Psi Omega Fraternity, is a member of Omicron Kappa Upsilon, of Sigma Xi, and Phi Sigma Kappa Fraternities.

Some of you have said "Start something." Maybe I have said enough to make some think they are sitting on a pin and others will pull their fingers around their collar. All I want is to stir your interest and get you in the swim with us — attend your local Maryland gatherings and come to the general ones — the next one is Charter Day, on January 17, in Baltimore, and to the Grand Reunion on Friday, June 5, 1942, at College Park. I'll be there with you, with a body guard, so do not try to make me eat my words.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

'SMEAR' POLITICS

An Analysis Of 1940 Campaign Literature

by HUGH A. BONE

Professor of Political Science

This article is a condensation of Dr. Bone's recent book "Smear" Politics (American Council on Public Affairs, Washington, D. C., $1.00). The study created so much interest that it had news and editorial comment from newspapers all over the United States. Dr. Bone is an Assistant Professor of Political Science at the University of Maryland.

The character of campaign literature has been too long neglected by those charged with the enforcement of corrupt practices laws. Malicious propaganda has been on the increase and the American people can no longer afford to ignore some of the obnoxious doctrines circulated during political campaigns. Publicity played an especially unsavory role in the 1940 presidential campaign in spite of the Hatch Act and other Congressional measures to promote "cleaner politics."

Campaign literature may be divided into three categories according to authorization:

1. Issuance by the political parties
2. Authorization by temporary non-party organizations
3. Unidentified "wildcat" publications carrying either a bogus signature or is completely uncredited.

Party Publicity

Campaign materials emanating from the publicity divisions of the Democratic and Republican headquarters do not create as serious a problem as those issued from other sources. Party organizations can be held responsible for their utterings and hence do not indulge in excesses which might react as a boomerang upon them. However, several pieces were released which were not a credit to the party. For instance, one Republican tabloid carried the inflammatory headline "WALLACE PRAISES DICTATORS, SLAMS PRIESTS IN BOOK MS", followed by a story that his volume was of such a nature as "to horrify many good Christian Americans." By taking a few passages (an old propaganda device) from a study made by Wallace of sixteenth century leaders, the article attempted to show he was in favor of present-day dictators and was anti-clerical.

One of the Colored Divisions of the Democratic Party issued an offensive pamphlet playing up Willkie's German ancestry and quoted from Hitler's Mein Kampf that "Negroes are lower than apes."

Party leaders should exercise stricter supervision over materials distributed in the name of the party. Moreover, they should promptly and clearly repudiate all incitations based upon race, religion and class.

Non-Party Campaign Materials

Since political parties were limited by the Hatch Act to a total expenditure of $3,000,000 it is not surprising that many temporary organizations were created to bear the costs of publicity incident to the campaign. The following names show how far some of these groups were prepared to go in devising names calculated to impress the public: American Coalition, American Women Against Communism, Anti-Triple Threat League, Clearing House for National Interests, First Voters' League, Hollywood for Roosevelt, Insurance Club for Willkie, Men of America, National Committee for Agriculture, Mission Willkie Volunteers, National Gentile League, and the National Committee of Physicians for Willkie for President, the Loyal American League of Rhode Island. The last mentioned published a sensational leaflet which compelled immediate attention because of its outright assertion that THE NAZIS ENDORSED WILLKIE. No address of the group was listed. It is believed that the name is entirely counterfeit.

Similarly a group calling itself the Mothers of Pennsylvania distributed a handbill grossly misrepresenting the conscription program and alleging that a law was in the offing to draft women and young girls "to be on duty with the armed forces." It closed with these words —

"DO YOU THINK that the morals of your daughters can be safeguarded under such conditions?

"YOU HAVE ONLY THIS ONE ELECTION to save the lives of your sons and daughters!"

Every "political committee" seeking the election of a candidate is required by Federal law to file a report of their expenditures. Yet out of 133 groups who published literature over their names, only 6 sent reports to the authorities! This offers a shocking example of how a law may be honored more in the breach than in the observance.

Anonymous Literature

Plenty of objectionable materials came from the foregoing groups, but the most abundant as well as the most scurrilous and vicious specimens of campaign journalism came from anonymous and undisclosed sources. Literature possessing no identification as to author, sponsor, printer, distributor was of every conceivable size, shape, form, color, and left no appeal untouched. It varied from this billboard sign in Philadelphia:

SAVE YOUR CHURCH!
DICTATORS HATE RELIGION
VOTE STRAIGHT REPUBLICAN

to obscene verse printed on calling cards, and to stickers on the backs of envelopes, which read:

3rd Term
3rd Reich
3rd Internationale

Anti-Semitism provided the theme for an appallingly large amount of publicity. This material blamed the war, "communistic influences," and the "fifth column" onto the Jews and claimed that the Roosevelt Administration was largely dominated by the Jews. Under cover of anonymity the Democrats were alleged to be the "Catholic Party" while the Republicans were represented as the "Protestant Party."

Italians were urged to vote against the President because he had stirred the people against the Italo-Americans by stating that "Mussolini stabbed France in the back." An attempt likewise was made to arouse the hatred of the Poles for Roosevelt by asserting that he "let Poland down."

Class distinctions were inflamed and fears raised by unsupported charges that if the New Deal were continued life insurance policies would become worthless and wealth and property confiscated. Other rabble-raising appeals were used to pit labor against capital, to stir up suspicions among professional men, and to undermine morale of those who were going to enlist in the armed forces.

Space forbids inclusion of samples of crude appeals to voters upon the basis of nationality and race or of religious differences or of economic class. Suffice it to say that many unAmerican groups seized the "free for all" of the campaign to disseminate inflammatory and objectionable ideas with little check but their own financial resources.

Other highly objectionable campaign propaganda was centered around personal attacks upon the nominees and their families. Willkie was characterized among many other things as a "Nazi" or "Nazi sympathizer," a "tool of Wall Street," an "amateur," a "labor-baiter," a "vulgarian," a "rapacious capitalist," an "inhumanist" and "a barefoot Wall Street lawyer"; Mrs. Willkie was alleged to be "half-Polish." In his turn, Roosevelt was labelled a "communist," a "warmonger," a "tool of the fifth column," a "pampered, petted, spoiled Little Lord Fauntleroy," and was accused of having an insatiable desire to become a dictator.

No single theme of this personal type recurred with greater frequency than the army commission given to Elliott Roosevelt. Even phonograph records, entitled, "Elliott, I Wanna Be a Cap'n Too" were distributed in large numbers. Typical of the song is the following verse:

A Captain's bars are burnished
And they glitter in the sun.
Their wearers are the wise ones
Who have all their errands run.
I haven't passed the courses,
I haven't done "Squads Right,"
But I guess I'd be a Captain
If my Dad had so much might.

Mrs. Roosevelt was bitterly taken to task in campaign literature for her radio broadcasts, "associations with Communist youth," and her alleged attitude toward the Negro. No member of the President's family escaped criticism for using his "official connections to rake in the shekels." Almost all of this type of publicity was anonymously printed and clandestinely circulated.

Methods Of Control

Many groups seized the last campaign as an opportunity to spread doctrines designed to foster class, religious, and racial hatreds at a time when national unity is needed. It is difficult to regulate campaign literature for care must be taken not to violate freedom of press. The states and the national Government share in the electoral process and this results in division of responsibility. Our melting-pot population and need for representation of various occupational groupings make it necessary for nominees to appeal to special interests. Certain appeals to minorities are thoroughly justified and therefore it is difficult to draw the line between ethical and unethical appeals.

Nevertheless, a few suggestions may be made to improve the situation. Legislative remedies might include:

1. Federal and state laws making it unlawful to circulate campaign material which fails to clearly disclose the name, identity and address of the sponsor or printer.
2. Printing at public expense a publicity pamphlet containing a biography and statements about each candidate.
3. A few well-timed libel and slander suits against gross offenders.
4. A study of campaign literature by a Congressional Committee, especially during the campaign. Several groups might be more careful of their literature if they knew in advance that their products would be scrutinized by such a body.

In the final analysis, however, the most powerful curb lies in the use of public opinion; opinion which will exact higher standards from publicists than the law demands. Cleansing of political literature is possible if the press, newspaper columnists, radio commentators, the party leaders, the civic spokesmen, and the electorate unite in a demand that this ugly situation be reformed. Accurate exposure, just denunciation, widespread demand or good taste in campaign argument, and insistence that the election laws be justly enforced is needed.

Maryland's '41 Football Team Just About Plays Up To Its Assets; Eight In Last Game As Washington And Lee Is Beaten, 6 To 0

Maryland's football season is over and now speculation runs rampant as to 1942. We'll pass up that until something official is done and try to stick to concrete facts. The Terps played consistently good all-around football in beating Washington and Lee in the last tilt, 6 to 0.

The Terps won only three games, tied one and lost five but even that was an improvement over the previous three years and, except for one small slip, was just about as well as they could reasonably have been expected to do.

In the pre-season figuring, it appeared safe to count triumphs over Hampden-Sydney and Western Maryland, chalk up defeats at the hands of Duke, Penn and Georgetown, all vastly superior in manpower, and to grab off a couple of other victories out of the meetings with Florida, Rutgers, V. M. I. and Washington and Lee, even though all of these four, except the last named, were better supplied with high-caliber material.

Tie With Terrors Hurts

Maryland took care of Hampden-Sydney easily, its only real failure being against Western Maryland, which it soundly outplayed in getting a 6-6 tie. Florida and Washington and Lee were beaten among those rated within reach of the Terps and the only fair complaints about any of the losing games, to V. M. I. and Rutgers in addition to Duke, Penn and Georgetown, were that the scores were too high.

The Terps, like any squad with a small amount of usable material, were badly hampered by injuries. Lou Hesson, a promising soph end, was put out before the season started with an injury in scrimmage against George Washington; Jack Gilmore, a letter-man wingman, was eliminated with a broken bone in his left foot in the Duke tilt, the third of the season, and in the finale against Washington and Lee, George Jarmoska, center; Max Hunt and Jack Dittmar, tackles, and Jack Wright, fullback, were sitting on the bench in civilian clothes. All other games, while not so bad as the last one, found the team minus dependables.

Eight Dependables Lost

Eight of those who played large roles this year will be missing next Fall, five linemen and three backs. They are Ralph Burlin and Max Hunt, tackles; John Morton and Frank Heyer, guards; Jim Wharton, center, and John Cordyack, Mearle DuVall and Bernie Ulman backs. All, except Hunt, rated as regulars.

Burlin was outstanding and all the others were consistently good performers, Wharton, who played the entire final game with a bad leg, being particularly impressive for his 163 pounds. Cordyack, scaling five pounds more, stood out as a blocker and defensive player and caught two passes for scores.

Of other players who figured, Maryland is to retain Bob James, Duke Alexander, Luther Conrad, and Jack Gilmore, ends; Reggy Vincent and Jack Dittmar, tackles; Hal Berry and Eddie Chovanes, guards; George Jarmoska, center, and Elmer Rigby, Jack Mier, Tom Mont, Jack Wright, George Barnes, Lou Chacos, Joe Hoopen-gardner and Jack Brenner, backs.

Bill Taylor, center, and Bill Helbock, blocking back, who did not see action, also may be rated in the assets, and Hesson also will resume at end.

Needed Weight Coming Up

This is a pleasing array, except for the fact that it lacks the line poundage that told so heavily against the Terps this year. In fact, this was the main reason for most of the big scores run up against them.

If all goes well some badly needed weight for the forward wall will come up from the 1941 frosh, who should provide a half-dozen or so able linemen and three highly promising backs. Four yearling line products go above 200 and three others scale over 190.

Of course, there is the question of defense service for some of the upper classmen and some of the rookies doubtless will fall by the wayside scholastically.

All things considered, though, the outlook for 1942 appears brighter than this season, especially if at least three or four of the big frosh linemen produce. In fact, with the revamped schedule that leaves off Penn and Georgetown and contains Duke as the only powerhouse, five victories should be counted upon as a minimum with six as a possibility.

Not "Big-Time" Array

But the squad is far from "big-time," for, as in big business, if you want "big-time" stuff, you have to make "big-time" investments.

In fact, as we see it, after having our nose in Maryland football for nigh on to 30 years, the only fellow who might have had greater success with the grid material at hand this year in lieu of the schedule, happens to be the prexy of the University. He's the fellow, too, who'll have to decide the future of football at College Park and we don't envy him his task.

It's very difficult, in fact, just about impossible, to have consistently winning football teams without some lowering of the scholastic standards or investing around $40,000 for talent in addition to the coaching. That is the deduction made many times in the past and only recently by a big Dixie school old grad who was telling fellow alumni "wolves" where to get off. And to get a "big-time" coach at "big-time" pay you have to assure him "big-time" materials before you can get his autograph.

Cordyack Is Honor Man

"Student" football is well exemplified at Maryland in the case of Cordyack. He worked two years after finishing high

Smith Does Good Job With Frosh Gridmen

Although winning only one game in five, Bob Smith did a good job of coaching the rather green freshman football squad. The team improved greatly toward the finish and defeated the Washington and Lee yearlings in the final, 6 to 0.

Previously George Washington frosh had been outplayed and tied and defeats were suffered at the hands of the V. M. I. and Georgetown rookies and the powerhouse Navy Plebes.

Paul Flick, 202-pound center, and Hubey Werner, 165-pound back, were the leading Terp yearlings, but there were others of much promise.

Among these, with weights, are: Jack Huffman (175), end; John Lookabaugh (208), Ralph Higgins (208) and Douglas Fields (215), tackles; Howard Smedley (193), Bob Perilla (194) and Oscar DuBois (190), guards; Lloyd Mallonce (177), who played center but who probably will be shifted to blocking back next Fall; George Hill (189) and Jim Wissinger (178), backs.

Fields, who is 6 feet 3 in addition to his bulk, is a brother of Tommy, the great runner, who stands 5 feet 10 and scales 145. He is from Hyattsville and never played football before this Fall.

Maryland Soccer Team Shares Top In Nation

Maryland's soccer team shared the honor of being one of two unbeaten outfits in the country during the past season with eight triumphs and two ties. Springfield College is the other institution with a clean slate.

The Terps played deadlocks with Navy and Temple, the first being scoreless and the other ending 1-1. Only two points were scored against Maryland, Western Maryland getting the other in a 3-1 Terp victory.

Bob Fetters, Maryland goalie, is rated all-America.

Coincidentally, Floyd Werner, Maryland's coach, who was on the job for the first season, is a Springfield product.

school to get money enough to enter the University and has toiled each Summer and during the school term to keep going, yet he's an honor student in the College of Engineering, the toughest of them all.

As someone said, "They'll be hearing of Cordyack as an engineer long after most of the all-America football players are forgotten."

So football offers its many-sided problems for a collegiate institution and we doubt if anyone is more familiar with them than Dr. Curley Byrd. He's welcome to the job of handling the situation.

Really A Tough Task

As for football coaching, unless a fellow is a "big-timer" with a "big-time" salary and is able to make a comfortable living in any other way, he's just plumb crazy for fooling with it, in our humble opinion. It's mostly all knocks and surely few get much fun out of it.

Some of the gridders realize the worth and pleasure of the game without being "big-time." During the last week of the Maryland season one of the leading junior players remarked: "I don't think I'll play next year if there is a new coach. I'd hate to go from the 'Student Bowl' to the Rose Bowl in such a quick jump."

As for the average critical Alumnus, he

by W. M. GLENN, Professor of History

It has been my firm conviction for some time that sooner or later involvement of the United States in the present world conflict would be inevitable. I have been among those who have approved unstintingly the policy of the Administration in giving all-out aid to Britain and her allies. The sudden attack by Japan is full vindication for the President's policy. I could never understand how one could rationalize himself into being an isolationist in the face of the rising tide of totalitarianism with its avowed challenge to the free way of life. Again and again Hitler and Mussolini have hurled their challenges our way, linking us with "the Jewish-capitalist world" which was temporarily blocking the way of the "young nations and systems" to whom the future inevitably belonged. As Hitler put it: "Every power that dines off these democracies will die with them. When Churchill and his international democratic comrades declare that they are defending their world and that their world cannot exist beside ours then that is only their misfortune. The German world, the same as the Italian world, has overcome the era of privilege of a few plutocratic capitalists and placed the era of the people in its stead. . . . In the battle of plutocratic privilege against the national socialist people's rights, the latter will be victorious."

So, too, when Mussolini entered the war against France he stated that "proletarian fascist Italy" was taking the field against the plutocratic and reactionary democracies in a "conflict of fruitful, useful peoples against peoples who are in a decline. It is the conflict between two ages, two ideas." That Mussolini included us as one of those decadent peoples who still clung to "the stinking corpse of democracy" is revealed in the avidity with which he mimicked Hitler in declaring war against the United States.

I never have had any confidence that we could insulate ourselves against these sinister forces of totalitarianism in Europe or that the appeasement of Japan would bring us anything but regret. A year ago last summer I was on a committee to urge the State Department to place a complete embargo of war materials to Japan. The only justification I could ever see for aiding the Japanese to conquer China was that we were not ready and feared a war with that nation. But why we should have gone to such lengths in preparing Japan in the event of a war against ourselves was clear only to our diplomats. At the same time they cannot feel so complacently smug about their program now.

In support of my statement that sooner or later we must become involved in war either against Japan or Germany I point to certain fundamental conditions of America's past security.

In the first place, the United States has never been really isolationist when the grand strategy of defense has become involved. Even the oft-quoted Washington in his Farewell Address, while referring to the fact that Europe has a primary set of interests foreign to us, also said: "Hence therefore it must be unwise in us to implicate ourselves by artificial ties in the ordinary vicissitudes of her politics or the ordinary combinations and collisions of her friendships or enmities." At this very time the United States was an ally of France. Would Washington regard the present-day phenomenon of totalitarianism as one of the "ordinary vicissitudes" of Europe's politics? Jefferson, too, is often quoted as a consistent advocate of isolation. In 1822 when Monroe was undecided as to whether we should go it alone or invite England as a partner in announcing the Monroe Doctrine, Jefferson advised that "we should most sedulously cherish a cordial friendship with Britain because with her on our side we need not fear the whole world." He was even ready to risk a war in order to gain Anglo-American solidarity.

While it is true that the United States by reason of its location and its republican institutions has cherished the ideal of isolation, our statesmen have always realized that a fundamental factor in our security was the balance of power in Europe, that system of alliances and alignments among the powers of Europe by which no one power or group of powers should be allowed to become strong enough to wield unquestioned domination of the continent and the adjacent seas. In 1802 when Napoleon, beginning his phenomenal career of conquest in Europe, was contemplating restoration of the French Empire in Louisiana, Jefferson wrote: "The day that France takes possession of New Orleans . . . we must marry ourselves to the British fleet and nation." It is true that Spain, which had just sold Louisiana to Napoleon, was a great world power controlling even most of the western hemisphere, yet it was no military danger to our security as it was a decadent power. Jefferson later expressed such fear of Napoleon that he stated that even our military intervention might be preferable to a Napoleonic victory by which he might conquer Russia "and lay thus at his feet the whole continent of Europe. This done England would be but a breakfast . . . No it cannot be to our interest that all Europe should be reduced to a single monarchy."

Throughout our history we have profited from the strife in Europe over the balance of power. Indeed it is impossible to conceive that we could otherwise have become a world power in the nineteenth century or ever have successfully maintained our Monroe Doctrine. Great Britain, the one power which could have thwarted us by reason of her sea power, has, since 1815, always found it to be to her advantage and interest to remain on peaceable if not always friendly terms with the United States because of her much greater concern to maintain the balance of power in Europe. Without this factor it is inconceivable that we should have become a great World Power without having a great military and naval establishment in the nineteenth century. And yet we had accumulated our empire by 1900!

Along with the strife of Europe and the benevolent attitude of Britain there have been two other factors in our security. One of these was geographical isolation. Flanked by two oceans we might well feel secure as long as the friendly British navy took care of the Atlantic, and there was no sea power on the Pacific to challenge us. It is perfectly clear to all of us that in our grand strategy of defense we did not consider it necessary to develop a two-ocean navy until the destruction of Britain by Hitler seemed imminent. It was the realization of the consequence to us of the possible destruction of British sea power, rather than any particular love of England, that led to the lend-lease program and the abandonment of neutrality.

The other bulwark essential to our security was the universal acceptance of certain principles of international law and decency such as the recognition of the sanctity of treaties and the acceptance of the principles of the Kellogg-Briand pact which might serve to ordain an international order based upon law rather than upon force.

To bring our discussion to a conclusion, it is perfectly clear that with the rise of the totalitarian Rome-Berlin axis in Europe and its blatant, swaggering oriental ally, Japan, all the bulwarks of our security and all the vital factors in our grand strategy of defense were suddenly undermined. The balance of power on the continent of Europe (but, thanks to the British navy, not on the adjacent seas) was decisively overthrown by Hitler. British sea power itself was threatened with annihilation by Hitler's all-out aerial offensive. The utterly unscrupulous (Continued on Page 5)

THE PRESENT CONFLICT

(Continued from Page 3) disregard for treaties and international decency and the complete reliance upon brute force have become normal aspects of totalitarianism. So the United States found the foundations of its security being undermined and faced the prospect of being challenged, as it has now been challenged by Japan, upon its own territory. Perhaps it is well for our future that the Japanese have united our people in the determination to see this horrible mess through to a victorious ending both for us and the other freedom-loving people in the world. And when the job is done America must realize that we have a stake in the future — a responsibility in the preservation of peace. Europe has never yet been involved in a general war without our being dragged in. Three times it has happened, in 1812, in 1914, in 1940, and we should guarantee that it will not happen again. Each time we thought we could stay out and tried to do so but without success. If we are to profit from the past we will realize that isolation has been a national ideal, but it has never worked. And so we are doing the job over again. This time must be the last and, if the Congress heeds the words of the President's war message and if our people will profit from the lessons of history, it will be the last. But to do this we must be willing to help preserve the peace in combination with others of like mind rather than to encourage the war mongers and then have to fight them to restore the peace.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Baltimore and D. C. Provide Scrappers

Baltimore and Washington boys will carry the burden for the Maryland boxing team, which was to open its season by entertaining South Carolina in Ritchie Coliseum at College Park January 10.

Scrappers to get first call are about evenly divided between the two cities.

120 pounds—John Cicala of Tech High of Washington.
127 pounds—Judson Lincoln of St. John's High of Washington.
135 pounds—Tom Jones of Roosevelt High of Washington or Matthew Beccio of Forest Park High of Baltimore.
145 pounds—Hotsy Alperstein of City College of Baltimore.
155 pounds—Pat Quinn of Towson Catholic High or Alex Bobenko of City College, Baltimore.
165 pounds—Jack Gilmore of Tech High of Washington. Also football end and Southern Conference high jump champion.
175 pounds—Herb Gunther of Baltimore Poly, Southern Conference champion.
Heavyweight—Len Rodman (195), of City College of Baltimore.

Others very much in the running for starting berths are Dunbar McNemar, 125, of Annapolis High; Bill Mattingly, 145, of St. John's High of Washington, and Lloyd Page, 165, of Roosevelt High, Washington.

There are others of promise and, all told, it is about the best Terp squad in a number of years.

FRESHMAN BECOMES FLYER

Doubleheader Is Slated To Open Winter List

Maryland's varsity boxers and the freshman basketballers will team up for a double bill January 10 for the first winter sports event in Ritchie Coliseum.

The young Terp tossers will play West-ern High before the scrappers battle South Carolina, a Southern Conference rival.

FUTURE BASKET TILTS

March 5, 6, and 7—Southern Conference Tourney at Raleigh.

Terp Quint Is Tuned By Tests On Road

Maryland's sophomore basketball team, which finished a three-game New York trip January 2 for its sixth game on the road this season, had little rest and tuning before taking another jaunt.

The tossers resumed studies January 5 and played at Virginia January 8 and Duke the next night.

Then they had a week to prime for their first home game against Washington College, January 16.

Maryland lost all its three games in Gotham to powerful foes — Seton Hall of South Orange, N. J., City College of New York and St. John's University of Brooklyn. This was expected as the trip was arranged to give experience to a green squad.

Prior to the New York jaunt, the Terps had won one of three games, beating Richmond U., but bowing to William and Mary and West Virginia.

When the Terps start their home stand on January 16, the tossers should be set to play a brand of basketball that should bring them an even break to the finish.

The games with Richmond and William and Mary gave a 50-50 rating in Southern Conference games but the battle January 9 with Duke may toss the balance the wrong way. Duke, Conference champ, appears likely to keep its title.

Ernie Travis, soph center, has set a sensational pace, scoring 94 points in 6 games.

"SHIP" ON JOB 18 YEARS

Burton Shipley, Maryland '14, has been coaching the Terp tossers since the 1923-24 campaign, this season marking his 18th at the helm. He has won 60 percent of his games against consistently tough opposition.

DOESN'T RUN AS FIGHTER

There is no significance to the fact that Judson Lincoln, Maryland's 127-pound boxer, got in trim for the ring sport by running on the cross country team. He likes to trade toe to toe punches. Mentally, he scored well as a harrier.

FROSH BASKETBALL

January 7	—Tech High, 7:00.
January 10	—Western High, 8:00.
January 14	—Ordinance School, 7:00.
January 16	—Bethesda, Chevy Chase, 7:00.

February 18	—Army War College, 7:00.
February 21	—Navy Piebes at Annapolis.

Terp Harriers Compile Gratifying Record

Maryland's cross country team did well with only a fair squad during the past season, winning two of four dual meets and running third in the Southern Conference title race.

Coached by Tommy Fields, former Maryland middle distance star and 1940 Conference harrier champ, the hill-and-dalers lost to North Carolina, winner of the title meet, and Virginia in dual affairs and scored over Duke and Georgetown.

Gene Ochsenreiter, who finished sixth, was the first Terp to get home in the Conference meet that was staged at College Park, Wendell Lockwood of Duke taking the individual crown. Duke also was runner-up to North Carolina for the team honors.

Trackmen Are Toiling For Indoor Campaign

Paul Pfeiffer, Maryland '37, and acting Terp track coach, has called his talent to start working for the indoor season.

He is being aided by Capt. Eddie Quinn, another former Terp, who is attached to the R. O. T. C. staff.

So far only three meets have been entered, the Millrose in New York on February 7, the Southern Conference games at Chapel Hill two weeks later, and the Catholic U. affair in Washington on March 14.

Pfeiffer's hopes for a strong relay team have been hard hit as Gene Ochsenreiter, his best runner, has applied for admission to the Army Air Corps and already has taken his physical examination.

1942 Grid Schedule Is Well Balanced

Although there has been no change in the football teams that will be met next season, there have been some adjustments in the 1942 dates that make the list better balanced.

Florida, for instance, which was on the original schedule on October 3, now is down for the last Saturday in that month. That puts Hampden-Sydney on October 3 and gives the Terps two warm up battles before swinging into the tougher struggles.

Here is the revised list:

Sept. 26	—Connecticut.
Oct. 3	—Hampden-Sydney.
Oct. 10	—Rutgers.
Oct. 17	—V. M. I. at Lexington.
Oct. 24	—Western Maryland at Baltimore Stadium.
Oct. 31	—Florida.
Nov. 7	—Duke at Durham.
Nov. 14	—Virginia at Charlottesville.
Nov. 19	—Washington and Lee at Baltimore Stadium.

Nine Tilts, Title Meet Listed For Grapplers

Maryland's wrestling team with Joe McDaniel, new coach, at the helm has listed nine matches and also will take part in the Southern Conference tourney.

McDaniel, national collegiate 115 pound champ while at Oklahoma A. and M. and present A. A. U. titleholder, has a fairly capable squad, led by Paul McNeil, Conference 175 pound titleholder and undefeated in all his 41 bouts.

Maryland's schedule:

January 10, Hopkins; 17, Gallaudet; 21, Davidson at Davidson.

February 2, Virginia Tech at Blacksburg; 7, Haverford; 14, Duke at Durham; 18, Gettysburg at Gettysburg; 21, Muhlenberg; 28, Rutgers at New Brunswick.

March 5, 6, and 7, Conference tourney.

GILMORE IS AMBITIOUS

Jack Gilmore, Maryland's Southern Conference high jump champion, is after his third varsity letter as a 165 pound boxer. He now holds "M's" in track and football.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

A couple of months ago I wrote some "sassy" remarks to you fellows concerning football. I did so in the hope some of you would come back at me either in the News or personally with some worthwhile suggestions and had a plan of my own to propose. However, I'm having nothing more to say about that now, with the present disturbed conditions in education from primary schools to the University, it is hard to tell what place athletics will have, if any, outside of intramural activities. A four-year curriculum cut to three years will leave little time for interruption of a schedule for extended play.

I do not mean that I feel athletics will be cut off but certainly no accentuation of an athletic program can be inaugurated or even continued during the emergency.

Let us take what we may have for the period and be thankful for

University Schedule Being Reorganized

For some time the University has been adjusting some of its departments in order to meet the demands of the Federal Government in national defense measures. Especially the College of Engineering under Dean S. S. Steinberg has been giving extra courses in certain phases of engineering in an endeavor to supply the tremendous demand. Every night courses have been given since last year in this field. The industrial vocational department of the College of Education has also been giving extra courses to supply more teachers as well as skilled workers for the manufacturing plants in Maryland. In addition to all this the University is going still further in stepping up its program for an all-out effort for present emergency.

In order that students now in school might finish their college education before going into active service the University will, this summer and next summer, give an extra semester's work. That is, all subjects that would have been given next fall will be given this summer and next fall will be like the second semester of next year. This procedure will enable those who would ordinarily finish in June, 1943, to finish in February, 1943. A student will have an opportunity to complete his college education in approximately three years. All faculty will go on a twelve-month-a-year basis.

Many other Federal Government departments are coming to the University to install additional courses or to procure space and facilities for Government Departments to put in courses they desire by furnishing their own instructors. The R. O. T. C. will, in the next semester, increase and intensify the military training.

Every department in the University has been asked to arrange their schedules in order to efficiently meet the extra demands for a total assistance to the Government in this national emergency.

ALUMNI PRESIDENTS, BOARDS MEET DR. BYRD, GUEST OF HONOR

With two customs, both now traditional, in mind, the presidents of the various Alumni Associations called a combined meeting of their Boards on January 20th in Baltimore. The first reason was to keep alive the combined efforts of the Alumni Associations whose endeavors are to work with concerted unity for a greater University of Maryland. The second was to keep the sequence of annually observing the University of Maryland Charter Day Celebration. Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, president of the University, was the guest of honor and only speaker of the evening. Charles W. Sylvester, '08, General Chairman of the 1942 Charter Day Celebration, presided over the meeting. Fifty Alumni leaders assembled for the occasion, exhibiting their genuine enthusiasm and loyalty for the advancement and continued good services of their Alma Mater for the State and Nation in these days of emergency.

The annual Charter Day Celebration was omitted this year because of the National Emergency which has called on a large number of Alumni, faculty and friends of the University to certain duties with the civilian defense leaders. The University was also called upon to make arrangements to accelerate its schedule of education for the benefit of those boys who will be called for active duty. Another reason was the thought of economy when so much is needed in adequately preparing the Nation for the tremendous financial burden of a war.

Dr. Byrd spoke on the general plans of the University endeavoring to meet the situation. He also touched on the athletic program and naturally football was in the limelight. Because of the emergency the program for next year will have some curtailment but the football schedule, in all probability, will have no change for 1942. The coaching situation is, however, a problem when the University has to consider the fact that the draft age limit might be lowered to 18 years of age. The age of 20 will have a big effect on the squad but 18 would practically wipe it out. Therefore, economy is a real consideration when reorganizing the general athletic set-up. The Alumni are definitely needed in any reorganization the University will undertake. A more closely united Alumni organization in the State is to be perfected whereby the twelve thousand Alumni can be called upon for concerted efforts in behalf of the University's program.

It is reported that Allan Miller, '40, former Terp star trackster and a Lieutenant in the U. S. Marine Corps was at Wake Island and now is a prisoner of war. Lieut. Mason Chronister, '40, U. S. Marines, a running mate of Miller's, was in Shanghai, China, and it now is believed he is in the Philippines. Jim Kehoe, the other member of that star trio of tracksters, is with the Army at Camp Meade, Md.

Preston L. Peach, '03, principal of a high school in Kuala Lumpur, has been heard from he is in Singapore at the present time, as reported by S. M. Peach. Mrs. Anita Peters Burleigh, '29, went to Honolulu last fall to meet her husband, William Burleigh, '29, and it is possible they were there during the raid in December. Also Jean Dulin, '38, now Mrs. Grant Heston, was in Honolulu during the raid.

They are Sylvan Phillip Einbinder of Baltimore, Class of 1937; Leonard Carter Cranford of Washington, D. C., Class of 1941; Marron Clark Hudson of Delmar, Del.; Robert Clyde Porter of Washington, D. C., and George Edward Martin of Baltimore.

The men entered the Replacement Center here early in November to undergo military processing before being sent out to one of the Training Center's primary flight schools for their first training in the air.

Upon the completion of the rigid 30-week course, they will be awarded commissions as second lieutenants in the Air Corps and will be assigned to tactical or training units as flying officers. One of them, Cranford, owned a private pilot's license earned under the C. A. A. program.

Cranford was a member of the University Band, the Flying Club and the junior chapter of the American Society of Civil Engineers. He was a civil engineer at the Washington National Airport before entering the Army.

Einbinder, a pharmacist, is a member of Phi Alpha fraternity. Hudson is a Delta Sigma Phi, while Porter, a Kappa Alpha, was chairman of the 1941 Homecoming. Martin belongs to Theta Chi.

Alumni Meet at Rutgers

Despite the rain, and it was sufficient to make it a very damp day, it did not stop the loyalists from getting together. Following the Rutgers game in New Brunswick, N. J., an Alumni gathering was held at the Roger Smith Hotel, sponsored by the New York group.

Among those present were Dr. H. C. Byrd, '08, Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Kinnamon, '30 (nee Miss Christine Simmonds, '31), Mrs. Howard Moreau (nee Miss Dale Simmonds, '24), Miss Helen Simmonds, '27, Mr. and Mrs. Hamilton Howard, '26, Mr. and Mrs. Denzel Davis, '35 (nee Miss Nancy Brice, '35), Mrs. Charles V. Hale (Miss Grace Coe, '25), Jim Forrester, '39, George Fogg, '26, Major Geary Eppley, '18, and G. F. Pollock, '23.

The gathering was arranged and directed by Fred Rakerman, '18, and Don Keiffer, '31, officers of the New York group. It was a nice social get-together and every one seemed to enjoy the "Terrapin" talk. There should be more of this.

Ensign Booth, '36, Killed At Pearl Harbor

The first District of Columbia boy to be killed in the Pearl Harbor attack was Ensign Robert Sinclair Booth, Jr., a member of the Class of 1936. After leaving Maryland he worked for the Western Electric Co., in New Jersey. A year later he joined the U. S. Reserve Midshipmen School. Booth was a sea-going enthusiast, having worked his way to Germany and India during summer vacations.

When notified of his death, his mother's reply was: "He died the way we know he would have wanted to die — in the service of his country and in the Navy."

Robert Sinclair Booth, '36, Ensign, U. S. Navy, the first ex-Marylander to make the supreme sacrifice in the service of our country.

ALLEGANY COUNTY GROUP TO REORGANIZE

When the basket ball team journeyed to Cumberland for a game with the University of West Virginia in the Fort Hill High School Gym December 19th, many Alumni in the Western Maryland counties attended the game. Prior to the game the Allegany County Alumni Reorganization Committee held a meeting at the Y. M. C. A. President E. Brooke Whiting appointed Fred Hetzel, '30, acting secretary in the absence of Major Joe Franklin. Dr. Albert C. Cook, '33, D.D.S., presided as chairman of the committee.

Plans for reorganization of the county group was quickly discussed and those present pledged their efforts toward a general county meeting later in the winter for effecting a more active and permanent organization. The committee then went to the basket ball game. Fred Hetzel, a member of the Chamber of Commerce, was active in making plans and arrangements for the game.

Among those present for the committee meeting were Miss Rose Alice Laughlin, A.&S. '30, Miss Helen McFerran, H.E. '34, A. G. Wallis, Engr. '23, K. P. Heintz, D.D.S. '05, Miss Margaret Loar, H.E. '41, Miss Mary E. Murray, Ed. '30, Chas. Beamer, D.D.S. '32, Samuel M. Jacobson, M.D. '31, Samuel McFarlane, A.&S. '39, Forrest Brown, LL.B. '25, Dan R. Staley, A.B. '25, Miss Ruth E. Somerville, A.&S. '37, William R. Carscaden, LL.B. '37, Harold E. Naughton, LL.B. '36, '34, Miss Janet Anderson, A.B. '37, Harry Beggs, B.S. '28, John E. McDonald, A.&S. '30.

Birth—Mr. and Mrs. C. Lyle Bock have a son, Peter, born August 22, 1941. Mrs. Bock was formerly Miss Eleanor Nordeen, '37.

that much, but at the same time try to formulate some scheme, workable scheme, of interest and applicable to all, so when the emergency is over we can place our Maryland teams where each and all of us want them to be.

Insofar as possible, I am sure nothing will be curtailed in any of the work of the University, either On the Hill or in Baltimore. However, with times as they are at present, we may expect a lot of things to change we never thought would be disturbed. If such changes are necessary, it behooves us to accept them with equanimity and give them our loyal support.

Another year is well on its way and has brought tremendously perilous times for us and our Nation, as well. So great is the emergency that I fear we have not, as a whole, realized the seriousness of the situation in its entirety. Sooner or later it will touch all of us, not alone in the form of contributions, taxes and business affairs, but it is going to enter even our homes and personal lives as well, before we can again enjoy the period of uninterrupted work of our own choosing and take our pleasure and recreation at will, as of yore.

I have no fear but that every Maryland man and woman will be found ready and willing to perform their allotted service in whatever station called, whether to their liking or not just as Maryland's citizenry have done in the past — even to the point of the "Supreme Sacrifice" as some of our Alumni already have done. Those who are associated with the training and teaching of the students at the University of Maryland may well feel proud of the long list of Maryland men who already are occupying places of importance in the military set-up for the defense of our country with the Army, Navy and Marines.

Those proud principles of patriotism and unselfish service for others, first learned at our mothers' knee have been enlarged upon and so deeply impressed upon the boys and girls at Maryland as to make them stand-outs in emergencies.

All this goes not only for those in the military service but in the civilian defense and business world as well. Everywhere we look we find the names of Maryland men working and doing their work well in the way they should and in the way that makes us proud to call them fellow Alumni.

Let us all see to it that nothing is left undone to carry through the work of the present emergency in every way to as early a successful conclusion as possible, that at the end we may enjoy the happy reflection of a job well done.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,

President.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Gridmen And Harriers Dined, Given Letters

Maryland's varsity football players and harriers recently were feted at a dinner at the Raleigh Hotel in Washington at which time 21 gridmen and seven cross-country men received the "M".

It strictly was a "family" party, with only President H. C. Byrd and others closely associated with athletics at the University being present. Dr. R. G. Steinmeyer of the faculty served as an entertaining toastmaster and Charles R. Fenwick, one-time Virginia star and later coach of the line for his Alma Mater and for Maryland from 1928-1932, gave a pleasing address. Dr. Byrd also spoke briefly.

Later the athletes were taken to a show and the informal affair was thoroughly enjoyed by the entire group.

Gridders to get the "M" were: Dick Alexander, Luther Conrad and Bob James, ends; Reginald Vincent, Ralph Burlin and Jack Dittmar, tackles; Harold Berry, Eddie Chovanes, Frank Heyer and John Morton, guards; George Jarmoska and Jim Wharton, centers, and John Brenner, George Barnes, John Cordyack, Mearle DuVall, Jack Mier, Tom Mont, Elmer Rigby, Bernie Ulman, and Jack Wright, backs

Burlin, Cordyack, DuVall, Heyer, Morton, Ulman and Max Hunt, tackle, all of whom have completed their grid careers, received gold footballs for three years' service. Hunt was prevented by an injury from getting his letter the past season and Wharton was kept idle in 1940 by illness, so missed out on a gold award.

Harriers to be rewarded were Bob Condon, Stuart Cooley, Stirling Kehoe, Stanley Kihn, Judson Lincoln, Gene Ochsenreiter, Roy Skipton and Wylie Hopkins, manager.

TRAVIS MUCH IMPROVED

Ernie Travis, Maryland sophomore who has scored 139 points in his first nine games for the varsity, registered only 126 in 14 contests for the 1941 freshman quint.

All-University Night Program Called Off

All-University Night, slated for February 14, which in recent years has been a feature of the winter program, has been called off this year on account of war conditions. Those who usually do the work on the big program are too busy with matters of a more serious nature.

Of course, the double bill carded that night will be carried out. West Virginia will be met in basket ball and Virginia Tech in boxing.

Good Gridders Modest Wright, Burlin Show

Jack Wright, soph back, and Ralph Burlin, senior tackle, of the Terp football team are timid souls off the gridiron. Burlin was too bashful to attend the Washington Touchdown Club banquet to receive the award as Maryland's most valuable 1941 griddier and Wright, who received the WJSV trophy as the leading player of 1941 in the District of Columbia area, wouldn't go until he was assured he wouldn't have to make a speech.

Wright is from Baltimore; Burlin is a farm boy from Port Deposit, Md., who is studying engineering.

DuVALL MAY PLAY SOON

Mearle DuVall, veteran basket ball ace who had a knee operation during the holidays, may return to action shortly after February 1. He's practicing lightly now. He'd be a great asset.

PORTS IS ALL-EASTERN

Kenny Ports, Maryland soccer star who recently was picked as left halfback on the official collegiate All-Eastern team, is from Walkersville, Md. He's a junior in the College of Agriculture, so has another year of competition.

Basketers And Mittmen Having Rough Voyages

Maryland's sophomoric basket ball team was just developing after winning three of its first 9 games and the Terp boxing squad had hardly lived up to expectations in being tied by South Carolina, 4-all, and losing to the U. S. Coast Guard Academy, 3-5, when this was written.

The tossers, who took a 3-game trip to Gotham to get experience during the holidays and dropped all contests — as was expected — to Seton Hall, City College of New York, and St. John's of Brooklyn, has been improving but still is far from a developed outfit. The Terps in their last three battles, that included a victory over Washington College on January 16, had taken two out of their last three tilts, beating Virginia 35-34, and losing to Duke, 33-37, on a trip just previous to trimming the Shoremen, 28-25.

However, Maryland will have to generate more scoring strength to do as well as break even in its remaining games and faces a terrific uphill fight to qualify for the Southern Conference tourney. It must be in the first eight of the 16-team loop to make the grade and its standing in the first three circuit tilts was 1-2.

The boxing team, with the exception of Hotsy Alperstein, is all juniors and sophs, and should get better as the season advances. It has been doing all right in the lighter weights but has been failing in the classes starting with the 155-pound division. Herb Gunther, light-heavy champ of the Conference, lost the second bout of his career in the Coast Guard engagement, being shaded, according to the referee, by a single point.

Tough going was ahead when this was written — with Western Maryland, Virginia, Catholic U., Virginia Tech and North Carolina remaining on the schedule. All the matches were at home, except the final with the Tar Heels.

Maryland also will compete in the Conference tourney.

Football Next Season Is Uncertain Quantity

Football at Maryland, as well as all other institutions, is an uncertain quantity for the 1942 season and maybe one or two to follow. This situation has served to put the quietus on talk of changes in the Terp coaching staff and speculation centers upon what kind of a team can be put on the field next fall.

Under ordinary circumstances there would be 22 players left from last Fall's Maryland varsity squad, 10 of whom would be seniors and 12 of whom would be juniors. However, all of them will come within the 20-year minimum draft age. In fact, all that would be left for a squad, leaving out those who will be 20 next Fall, would be 15 from last season's freshman outfit, 10 of whom will be 19 and five of whom will be only 18 when the next grid campaign arrives. Thirteen other 1941 yearlings also then will be within the draft range.

Small Squad In Prospect

Excluding a number who doubtless will fail to pass the physical test and some exemptions for various reasons, Maryland probably could get together a squad of 25 or a few more without the use of freshmen, which is being advocated by many schools for the duration of the war.

Some consideration likely will be given Maryland on account of its highly-rated Reserve Officers Training Corps Unit and its Engineering College. Both give very valuable men to the service. But football, at best, strictly will be a secondary matter everywhere next Fall, it again taking war to place it where it really belongs at many institutions.

Back in 1918 — it was Maryland State then — the football squad at College Park functioned as a representative of the Student Army Training Corps and played six games, five of which it won. That season, though, was not counted against the future eligibility of the gridmen as some of them were from other institutions. Something like this may be expected again.

Maryland, with athletes always conspicuous among the leaders in the R. O. T.

C. Unit, has given many officers direct to the service and qualified a wealth of others for the reserves. It is noteworthy that five stalwarts of Maryland's great 1923 eleven are majors in the U. S. Marine Corps. They are Joe Burger, John Hough, Jack McQuade, Ed Pugh and Ralph Lanigan.

Right now there hardly is a Marine or Army post that does not contain a Maryland man as an officer, and the chances are, too, that he was an athlete.

This year's Maryland R. O. T. C. Unit is commanded by athletes. Jimmy Dunn, football halfback and wrestler, is the colonel; the ranking officers and three of the four lieutenant-colonels also are sports stars. They are Jim Wharton, letterman in football, baseball and basket ball; Paul McNeill, grinder and Southern Conference 175-pound wrestling champion, and Bob Smith, great football center and baseball pitcher.

Soccer Players, Frosh Athletes Rewarded

Eighteen members of Maryland's undefeated soccer team, which won eight games and tied Navy and Temple, recently were awarded minor letters.

At the same time numerals went to 21 freshmen gridders and four yearling cross-country runners.

Frosh gridders honored were: Marshall Brandt, Carlton Compher, Jr., Charley Dove, Oscar DuBois, Arthur Ferris, Douglas Fields, Bob Filippelli, Paul Flick, Ralph Higgins, George Hill, Jack Huffman, Edward Johnson, John Lookabaugh, Lloyd Mallonce, Dick Metzler, Walter Nechey, Bob Perilla, Howard Smedley, Jim Thomas, Hubert Werner, and Jim Wissinger.

Yearling harriers were: Roland Nordeen, Henry Elliott, Albert Williams and Charley Rice.

Trackmen Are Toiling For Indoor Campaign

A sizable Terp track squad is toiling daily in preparation for indoor meets in New York and other places.

Stress now is being laid upon a prospective 2 mile team. Bob Condon, Randall Cronin and Stirling Kehoe provide three fleet men and a topnotch four would have been certain had not Gene Ochsenreiter, ace of the squad, gone into the Army Air Corps. Ochsenreiter won the Conference 880 crown last spring and was second in the 440.

Stanley Kilm, Ted Stell, Bill Stellhorn and Bob Montgomery are contenders for the fourth spot. These seven also will do most of the Terps' running from the 440 through the two miles.

Including Ochsenreiter, Maryland has given four outstanding tracksters to the service: Tom Devlin, leading quarter-miler; Willis Smith, hurdler, and Bob Porter, high jumper. Vernon Miller, another star 440 man, is ready to take the step and has not reported for training.

Among others working out are Duke Alexander, clever soph high jumper and hurdler, and Howard Gugel and Pat Carolan, sprinters. Carolan is a New Yorker who came to Maryland last fall from Perkinson Junior College of Mississippi.

Heckert Horn, sensational sophomore shot and discus hurler, will not be available for the indoor season. He's an important cog in the varsity basketball team. Horn threw the discus 164 feet in practice last summer.

Jack Gilmore, Southern Conference outdoor high jump champ, is on the boxing squad.

COLONEL ON MAT SQUAD

Col. Jimmy Dunn wrestles in the 165-pound class for the Maryland mat team. He's the ranking officer of the highly-rated R. O. T. C. Unit. Dunn is a Washington, D. C., boy who prepped at Stanton Military Academy. He's also vice president of the Senior Class.

VETERAN

HE IS independent and proud, yet democratic and friendly. He is the envy of the rest of the world, and its hope. He is generous and tolerant and peace-loving and withal the most powerful man in the world. He is the American workman.

His hands, accustomed to the feel of wrench and lever and gauge, may never have held a gun; his mind, trained to think in terms of tolerances as fine as 1/10,000 of an inch, may never have wrestled with a problem of military strategy; and yet he is the veteran of a thousand campaigns.

His campaigns began in the laboratories, and his prowess was proved in the test pits of American industry. His battles were waged on the factory floor and in the field. His victories have helped to make the citizens of the United States the most fortunate people in the world, and the U. S. the greatest nation on earth.

In the plants of the General Electric Company, working with General Electric scientists and engineers, this man, the American workman, has made giant generators to light whole cities, X-ray tubes to penetrate the mysteries of human flesh and metal castings, radio and television apparatus to project man's voice and image through space over the mysterious waves of the ether.

Today, in the gravest hour of world history, he is engaged in the greatest campaign of all. But there is serenity and confidence in his face, and the experience of a thousand campaigns behind him. He is sure of his own abilities, certain of his country's future. General Electric Company, Schenectady, N. Y.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Even though it's February, Spring is not far off and the Spring sports will be attracting our attention. I understand our Alma Mater will carry on the Spring schedule as planned. While I am a large rural town doctor and kept rather busy with my normal practice plus war-time requirements, I expect to be in College Park for several games and would like to see many more of my fellow Alumni there.

Just as soon as possible I will send a letter to each leader of the County Groups asking them to hold meetings this Spring. In the meantime this note will inform all Alumni that they are to take an active interest in the activities of the County Group. Some will ask, What can we do? First we need scholarships, next you can contact prospective students and sell them the advantages of your University, then your fellow Alumni and urge them to make plans for attending the Grand Reunion on May 29. The Fiftieth Anniversary of our Alumni Association.

Ad Club Sponsors Program

The Advertising Club of Baltimore sponsored a University of Maryland program at their weekly luncheon February 11. Dr. H. C. Byrd was to be the guest of honor and principal speaker, but due to a call from the Federal Government in Washington he was unable to be present. In his place, Dr. Gewehr, Chairman of the Department of History, gave a talk on the historical developments of the present world conflict. It was a very enlightening and stirring talk.

Mr. A. N. Childs, President of the Club, presided. Dr. Bunning, President of Loyola College, introduced the speaker. Mr. Benes, brother of the former President of Czechoslovakia, gave a few remarks.

Members of the Alumni were invited to attend the luncheon and among those present were Charles W. Sylvester, '08; D. W. Glass, '11; L. M. Kantner, '09; Walter P. Dent, Jr., '32; H. C. Hearn, '97; Gerald F. Brandon, '16; Timothy Heatwole, '95; C. G. Branner, '24; James Stevens, '17; James M. Swartz, '19; Leonard I. Davis, '21; W. Buckey Clemson, '21; Austin C. Diggs, '21; Charles Moylan, '24; Dr. E. W. Swinchart, '12; Dr. J. Ben Robinson, '14; Dr. Berton Ide, '02; Dr. A. G. DuMez, Dean, School of Pharmacy. At the tables reserved for Alumni there were also "Jake" Embry of Station WBAL; Mr. J. E. Vachh, Superintendent of Western Union Telegraph Co., and Mr. William G. Smith, sales manager for the same company.

COMMENCEMENT, May 30

DEATH OF ROY MACKERT IS GREAT LOSS TO UNIVERSITY

Maryland lost one of its ablest assets and a genuine friend when Charles Leroy (Mac) Mackert, '21, succumbed after a long illness on February 12. His home was in College Heights, adjacent to the University, but he was in Garfield Hospital in Washington at the time of his death. His loss will be felt and mourned indefinitely. He was a native of Sunbury, Pa., where he was buried.

Mac, who was associated with the University for more than twenty years as an able student, athlete and teacher, leaves a widow, Hazel Tenney Mackert, also a graduate of the University, and a 10-year-old son, Charles Leroy, Jr. They have the great consolation of knowing they have the supreme sympathy and friendship of the entire University community.

After going from Lebanon Valley College into the Army as a Lieutenant in the field artillery and serving until World War I ended, Mackert came to Maryland in the Fall of 1919 and for the next two years was the outstanding player on the football team, being the only one ever to make the all-State eleven as both tackle and fullback.

He also was conspicuous in student publication work, being editor of the weekly paper in his senior year. He remained at Maryland after his graduation in 1921 and continued his studies while helping to coach football and scout. He earned his Master's Degree in 1924 and in 1927 was granted a leave of absence to take up advanced physical education work at Columbia University in New York. He came back to Maryland in 1931 as director of physical education and was untiring in putting that department on its high plane. He also continued to help with football, his keen ability as a scout being a big contribution.

He was a member of Kappa Alpha Social Fraternity and an honorary member of Pi Delta Epsilon, national journalistic honorary organization.

The 1921 yearbook, then the Terra Mariae, spoke some salient truths about Mac when it said:

"Mac is the personification of real college spirit. When he joined the football team, Maryland immediately became the terror of the South. Inspired by the same spirit of loyalty, his counsel and sacrifice and knowledge of student psychology has helped to put student activities upon the highest plane. As editor of the Review, he has displayed rare genius."

At the funeral service in St. Andrew's Church in College Park on February 14, Dr. H. C. (Curly) Byrd, President of the University and Mac's football coach, paid a tribute to his pal and fellow-worker that belongs to few persons. His words testified fully that Mac had carried with him into his life's work the same qualities that had endeared him to his fellow students in his undergraduate days.

You have only to talk with the boys who worked under him and the students whom he taught to find this out.

CHARLES LEROY MACKERT, '21

Haines, '96, Gives For Defense

When this country went to war, Mahlon N. Haines, '96, asked, "What can I do now to help my country?" His reply, "I can and will, help my country by giving to the Red Cross and buying Defense Bonds." He then led the Red Cross drive for York County, Pa., by making six different contributions to the Red Cross totaling over $1200. Then he gave an order for a $100 Defense Bond to be ready for him at his bank every Wednesday in the year 1942.

"I can, and will, support my President and my Government and do all within my power to cheer the people at home and will not forget the boys carrying arms for the defense of our country. This is to help put Japan back on her island where she belongs and clear the world of dictators," said Haines.

FELLOW ALUMNI

(Continued from page 3) I wish to say more about the Grand Reunion on May 29. Even though the war is on and many are up to their necks in war efforts, we can at least take one afternoon off and spend it with our old friends. We also plan to make an extra effort to get all the boys who are in cantonments nearby to get back for the day so we can show them our interest in what they are doing. Now is the time when we need to show our combined efforts for a more unified organization. Our University needs us, our State needs us and our Country needs us. Make up your minds now to join your fellow Alumni in pushing things forward for a greater Association.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05, President.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

By W. H. ("Bill") HOTTEL

Basketers Fare Poorly Through Bad Shooting

Maryland's basket ball team was completing its season when this was written and for the second year in a row the Terps were falling far below their standard.

With V. M. I. as the final foe, the team had won only 6 games in 21, the only time the Terps had been on the wrong side of the ledger in two years in a row since Burton Shipley took the helm in the 1923-24 campaign.

Ernie Travis, who went beyond the 300 mark in points to average about 15 per game and Tommy Mont, who averaged 8 per contest, were the only Terps who could find the basket with any consistency. Both Travis and Mont are sophs.

It was lack of shooters which held the team back, as the tossers played a fine floor game, showed plenty of grit and always were in fine fettle physically.

A good example was given in the North Carolina game, which was lost, 30-34. Maryland, by the count of the Tar Heel scorer, had 87 shots to 61 for victors. That is about typical of most of the contests.

The Terps really were hot in their shooting just one night and then they handed Georgetown a 51 to 42 beating in Washington to score one of the biggest upsets of the season in this section.

It was the second straight time the tossers failed in a bid to the Conference tourney, the only times they have "flunked" in the 19 years the event has been held. They didn't go in 1935, although they qualified, as they had to stay home to meet schedule obligations that conflicted with the title affair.

DEELEY COACHING B. A. C.

Haskin (Hack) Deeley, former Terp lacrosse goalie, is coaching the Baltimore A. C. squad this season, and he also expects to see much action. He tutored the Baltimore Poly stickmen for three seasons.

Tom Corwin, '35, At 27, Is Captain In Army

Tom Corwin, now officially Capt. Thos. P. Corwin of the U. S. Army, has risen rapidly since he took his degree from Maryland in 1935. He managed the baseball team that season and was active in other campus affairs. He came to Maryland from Tech High in Washington at the age of 16 and now is only 27. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Royal E. Corwin of the Capital City.

While at Maryland he held the rank of senior major in the R. O. T. C. and was commissioned a first lieutenant in the Army in June, 1939, after three years of extension work as a Reserve officer. He will finish a course in law this year at Georgetown and already is a member of the District bar. His wife also is a member of the bar.

Captain Corwin, in active service since last March, was teller in Riggs National Bank in Washington before his induction.

may be shelved from an injured hand suffered in the match with the Tar Heels.

Judson Lincoln, a shorty, who has won four bouts, drew one and lost two, and Jack Gilmore, hard-luck guy of the team, will fill the 127 and 165-pound berths. Lincoln is consistent and Gilmore is capable of being the big upsetter.

Maryland's record for the season:

Maryland, 4; South Carolina, 4
Maryland, 3; U. S. Coast Guard Acad., 5
Maryland, 6; Western Maryland, 2
Maryland, 3½; Virginia, 4½
Maryland, 5; Catholic U., 3
Maryland, 6; Virginia Tech, 2
Maryland, 5; North Carolina, 3.

Alexander Makes Last Bid In Title Meet

Three letter men and a pair of sophs carried the main hopes of the Maryland trackmen in the Southern Conference meet at Chapel Hill, February 28.

Duke Alexander, the versatile soph, who goes into the Marine Corps on March 4, was in the high jump, in which he has done 6 feet 2 indoors this winter and in which he has a record of 6 feet 4¼ in the low hurdles and broad jump.

Letter men Bob Condon and Randall Cronin in the half-mile and Bob Montgomery in the 440, and Stirling Kehoe, soph brother of the famous Jim, in the mile, were other outstanding entrants. The first three named also were to run on the relay team.

Rookies Pat Carolan and Howard Gugel were in the 60-yard dash. Gugel is a Terp soph while Carolan came to Maryland last fall from Harrison-Stone-Jackson Junior College of Mississippi.

Maryland is losing, temporarily at least, one of its finest athletes in Alexander. He played end on the football team last fall and was voted the best soph lineman in the State in an Associated Press poll.

As a freshman trackman, he competed in 23 events in six dual meets, winning 19 firsts, 2 seconds and 2 thirds. He swept the high jump and low hurdles and got most of the points in the broad jump and javelin throw. Although the javelin really was a side issue, he reached 180 feet 2 inches. He also won the Conference freshman high jump crown.

Lombardo Recreation Head For Marines

Lieut. Mike Lombardo, former Maryland boxing star and later assistant coach and head coach in 1941, now is chief recreation officer for the Marine Corps base at Quantico.

He was graduated in 1937.

Boxing Team, Which Enjoys Successful Campaign, To Compete In Eastern Intercollegiate Tourney

Maryland's boxing team, which finished the season with four triumphs, a tie and two defeats when it scored over North Carolina, 5-3, February 21, is keeping tuned for the Eastern Intercollegiate tourney at Charlottesville March 6 and 7.

The Terps have a well-balanced team but will rank below Virginia, the host; Syracuse and the Coast Guard. Maryland's only losses were to the Cavaliers, 3½ to 4½, and to the Coast Guard, 3 to 5, and these two, with the Orange, appear to be the tops in the East.

Maryland will present three title threats in Tom Jones and Hotsy Alperstein, unbeaten in the 135 and 145-pound classes, respectively, and Herb Gunther, 175-pound Southern Conference champion, who regained his old form after a non-too-impressive start.

Joe Cicala, the greenest sort of a rookie at the start of the season, also was flashy in taking his last two bouts and may make trouble. Len Rodman, heavyweight, who hasn't fully lived up to expectations, is another who showed much improvement in his last pair of scraps.

Maryland appears jinxed in the 155-pound class. Pat Quinn, who was doing a fine job, was put out for the season by an injury in the Catholic U. fight February 7 and now Alex Bobenko, his successor, after two gratifying showings in losing bouts,

Mat Team Is Entered In Title Tournament

Maryland is sending a full wrestling team to the Southern Conference championships at Greensboro, N. C., March 5-7, but as the squad has won only two of its eight matches with one remaining, does not figure as a real contender.

Bob Searls, 135-pounder, who won six of eight contests, and Luther (Boots) Conrad, heavyweight, seeing his first year of action, appear as the Terps' best bets.

Conrad, all-State football end, won four of the six tests he found time to indulge in. He lost his first match on a fall, later dropped a 7-5 decision and made quick work of his four other foes. He disposed of one opponent in 45 seconds and threw two others in less than five minutes each.

COVER PICTURE

The Library steps in the Springtime. This is probably the most popular spot on the campus. Centrally located and facing the East for the morning sun and in the Summer-time the afternoon shade makes it an inviting spot. All students who have attended the College Park schools in the past ten years need not be told about the location of this building. Those Alumni who were at College Park prior to 1931 can picture the Library just in front of the grove of oak trees on top of the Hill and in front of Morrill Hall and where the old Dining Hall used to stand. The Library seems to be the hub of the campus, as everything usually turns from there.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

It is with deepest regret we note the passing of one of our most valuable Alumni and a member of the Faculty for a number of years, Charles Leroy Mackert, '21. "Mac", known to a large number of graduates, typified all that was good in a man, and his going will leave a void that will be hard to fill. The Alumni extend our sympathy to his family in their bereavement, and, at the same time, congratulate them upon the intimate sharing of a life of such grand proportions as that exhibited by "Mac". His memory and example will live long with his friends at Maryland.

"M" Club To Hold Spring Party On The Campus, May 8th

It has been announced by James W. Stevens, '19, president of the "M" Club, that the annual Spring Party for all "M" men and prospective students will be held on Friday, May 8, in the University Dining Hall. A buffet supper will be served at 7 P. M., followed by a few short talks and an entertaining program. In the afternoon the baseball team have a game with William and Mary at 4 P. M., to which all are invited to attend.

As the newly appointed Director of Health and Physical Recreation Department, Mr. Clark Shaughnessy, will be on the campus, it is expected that he will be among the speakers. At the time this was written Mr. Shaughnessy had not been contacted but we feel sure he will be around.

Jimmy Stevens says every "M" Club member should get busy now and look up the real prospects in Maryland High Schools and bring them as their guests to the party. Watch the next issue of the News for a more detailed program. Save the date now and plan to be present.

Mause, '39, With R. A. F.

John David Mause, '39, a member of Alpha Lambda Tau, now is with the Royal Air Force. Mause was previously turned down by the United States Army Air Force, after which he tried the R. A. F., was accepted and assigned to training in America. He completed his training last Fall after having had quite an episode during that period. While on flight maneuvers near San Diego, California, he scared the ducks on Clark Gable's private game reserve for which he was grounded four days.

Since the United States has entered the war Mause will very likely be transferred to the United States Army Air Corps with the rank of Captain. His home is in Myersville, Md.

Spicknall, '33, In Germany

Dr. Charles G. Spicknall, '33, special medical attaché to the American Embassy in Germany, is reported safe in Bad Nauheim on Lake Constance at the German-Swiss border awaiting arrangements for an exchange of diplomatic staffs. Spicknall, a resident of Hyattsville, was the recipient of The James Goddard Memorial Medal while in college for outstanding scholastic achievement.

Gen. Silvester, '11, Heads Seventh Armored Division

From Camp Polk, Louisiana, word arrives that Major General Lindsay Silvester, '11, former football star for the Old Liners and former president of the "M" Club, heads the Seventh Armored Division. This is part of the Armored Corps which is under the command of Major General Alvan C. Gillem, former P. M. S. & T. at the University. General Silvester is a veteran of the last World War in which he received the Distinguished Service Cross and the Silver Star. He is a graduate of the Army War College, the Command and General Staff School.

Another Alumnus is at Camp Polk, Captain Clarence E. Geiger, '27, of the Headquarters Staff of the Third Armored Division. Captain Geiger is a lawyer by profession, but has been in the Army for the past two years. He has had various assignments from command of a field artillery to his present position in the Armored Division.

Dr. Robinson, '14, Receives Award

Alpha Omega Dental Fraternity confers annually an award of merit upon that member of the dental profession whose leadership, service and contributions have been judged to be outstanding for the year in character and influence. On the evening of December 30, 1941, Dean J. Ben Robinson of our Dental School was honored by having conferred upon him the 1941 Achievement Award in the form of a beautiful specially designed bronze medallion. Alpha Omega Fraternity was founded in the School of Dentistry, University of Maryland in 1907, and now has active chapters in thirty-two of the thirty-nine dental schools. Dr. M. S. Aisenberg, '26, Professor of Oral Pathology, Dental School, University of Maryland, presented the award.

Marries At Honolulu

Miss Ann Ames, '41, and Capt. Joseph Russell Grove of the U. S. Army were married December 22 in the Methodist Church, Honolulu. Ann was at Schofield Barracks with her sister when the attack was made on Pearl Harbor. Two bombs intended for general headquarters just missed the house in which she was staying. Even machine gun bullets spattered about the house from Japanese planes flying low.

Married—Miss Virginia Lombard Brown and Mr. Leo A. Jackowski, Jr., were married last month. The newlyweds will reside in Ann Arbor, Michigan, where both will do graduate study at the University of Michigan.

Puget Sound Navy Yard

Word floats in that Marion P. Sutton, '35, now is assistant cashier of the Kitsap County Bank at Port Orchard, Washington. Port Orchard is just across a small bay from the Puget Sound Navy Yard.

Soon after war broke out large contingents of the Army moved in. Among the officers was Lieut. Norwood Sothoron, '34. A Maryland meeting resulted.

Prior to going to Kitsap, Sutton was in the Pacific National Bank in Seattle; here he met Red Graham, U. S. A., now on duty at San Francisco, where it is understood Smoky Wood is also located.

Richard Sutton, '36, is in another part of the world. He now is an extension agent at Christonstad, St. Croix, Virgin Islands. Dick had previously been in Venezuela, where he met the present Mrs. Sutton.

The Sutton family, I would say, is quite well separated.

Oldest Druggist Retires

As Dr. J. Louis Krick, '87, Ph.G., locked the door at his store at 1742 Pennsylvania avenue, N.W., Washington, D. C., and entered retirement, he closed one of the city's oldest drug firms. For 64 years Dr. Krick had carried on his drug business here. He began his career in drugs before entering the U. of Md. College of Pharmacy, and upon graduation settled in Washington.

The nearness of his store to the White House brought him much business from there in his early days. He had Theodore Roosevelt, Benjamin Harrison, and many others on his books.

Dr. Krick says drug stores used to be drug stores, but now they are sandwich shops and cheap merchandise peddlers.

He remembers the horse-drawn street cars. His plans call for traveling in his retirement by land, sea or air.

Annual Card Party And Dance April 10 By Women's Board

On April 10, at the Alcazar in Baltimore, the Women's Auxiliary Board of the University Hospital will hold their Annual Card Party and Dance for the benefit of the Free Wards and Clinics in the University Hospital.

The members of this philanthropic organization have performed great work for the hospital and the general public. More than $5,000 has been raised by the organization and given to the hospital for various things needed for the Free Wards. Every Alumnus should feel it a pleasure to contribute something to this worthy cause. All contributions will be gladly received by the Alumni office and conveyed to the Women's Board.

Just Returned From China

When Dr. E. N. Cory, '09, was in California attending a national Entomology Convention he came across F. W. Fritchie, '34, who had just returned from the Far East. Dr. Cory was standing at the telegraph desk in San Francisco and, when asking for information about a telegram to the University of Maryland was interrupted by a man who said he was from the University, thus a conversation and the following narrative.

Fritchie had been in the Far East as construction engineer for the Pacific Naval Air Base Construction Co., building air bases for China. He left China on the day war broke out and by accident successfully came through. The boat on which he was traveling was scheduled to make a stop but instead changed their course and made a get away. However, the boat was machine gunned but no casualties. They landed in San Francisco on January 2. His address is 2669 Edgevale Road, Cleveland, Ohio.

BIRTH

Mr. and Mrs. Albert B. Heagy announce the arrival of Albert, Jr., on March 18, another Terp gridiron star, like Dad, in about 20 years. Mrs. Heagy was the former Miss Elizabeth Gover of Hyattsville, Md. "Pop" is none other than "Al" Heagy, president of the Class of 1930 and former gridiron star. Now he is in the Inspection and Regulatory Service for the University and assists in athletic coaching. The Heagys reside in University Park.

Jim Kehoe And Billy Cole Enter Officers School

Jim Kehoe, '41, the former Terp cinder track star, now is attending officers' school at Fort Benning, Ga. Billy Cole, '41, one of the best lacrosse centers to ever have worn the Black and Gold, goes to Fort Knox, Ky. Both were inducted into the service at Camp Meade and served their enlistment period there with the 29th Division.

While at Fort Meade, Kehoe served as an assistant to his former track coach, Major Geary Eppley, '18, who was morale officer and director of athletics. Now Major Eppley has been transferred to Washington and is located at the Army War College with the ground force department.

Billy Cole is the son of Congressman Wm. P. Cole, Jr., '10, Maryland's senior Congressman in Washington.

John B. Gunter, Jr., '41, from Johnstown, Pa., and a member of the 116th Infantry Headquarters Company, has been sent to the Quartermaster Corps Officers' Training School.

The above notes were taken from the Chin Strap, a 29th Division publication.

FELLOW ALUMNI

(Continued from page 3) mencement has been advanced, and will be held on May 30th. Commencement Day—May 30th and Alumni Day—May 29th.

The changes in these dates have been made necessary due to the stepping up of the curriculum, and there may be other changes of dates in the months to come as a result of the same cause. Keep tuned in on the News for information. Also make a special effort to be present on Alumni Day—May 29th. Start now with your plans to attend the Golden Anniversary of the Alumni Association.

Since there are a large number of our boys in the service, scattered over the whole world, let's all let the editor of the News have any items concerning them that may come to your attention. It will be most interesting to them to know of each other's activities, as well as being a material help to our editor.

Here is a chance for all who are interested in Maryland teams to show just how material is their interest. Due to the stepping up of the schedule, with classes going on during the summer, there are a number of our athletes who are going to need immediate financial aid. In other years they worked during the Summer and were able to carry their own loads. That privilege now is denied them and the opportunity to help is ours. The need is immediate. Let our action be the same, and here is my suggestion:

Let every Alumnus make a donation toward an Athletic Scholarship Fund to be used in helping out our worthy students who, because of today's unusual conditions, will either have to be given aid or be forced to discontinue their educational endeavor.

Let us call it a Mackert Memorial Scholarship Fund for worthy students to help bolster our athletic program. Send in your donations at once, and come on Alumni Day, for the Annual Meeting, to help arrange for the handling and perpetuation of the same. Donations from five thousand graduates would make a splendid nucleus. The sky is the limit—give what you feel you can, and send it to our Secretary, Mr. G. F. Pollock, University of Maryland, College Park, Maryland. No amount is too small to be appreciated and helpful, and any amount will be accepted and useful.

We have heard a lot about unpreparedness. Let us take a lesson from it, and start now with an annual donation to the Mackert Memorial Scholarship Fund so that when times are again normal, you may expect to see the Maryland name and teams in their proper position at the head of the van.

Send your check now. Bring yourself and ideas on May 29th. Golden Anniversary Alumni Meeting.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,

President.

Clark Shaughnessy Heads Md. Athletics

Clark Shaughnessy, who gave Stanford an undefeated football season and a Rose Bowl triumph over Nebraska in his first year there in 1940, is coming to Maryland to be Director of Physical Education, Athletic Director and head football coach. He'll be at College Park early in April and doubtless will hold Spring football practice.

Shaughnessy, landed for Maryland through the persuasive powers of President H. C. (Curley) Byrd, is about the biggest name in football at present and surely is among the three best mentors in the country. However, he is an educator and physical fitness man first. That he can do both jobs goes without question and Terp grid fortunes should rise speedily along with the advance of the program for more rugged men.

Shaughnessy leaped to fame with the famous "T" formation but his football education includes all types of grid play, backed by the ability to make the system fit the men available.

He is a product of Minnesota, where he starred as a fullback and in track and basket ball, although he had not taken part in sports before going to college.

He was graduated from Minnesota in 1914 and coached there a year before going to Tulane. He also coached at Loyola of the South and Chicago before going to Stanford. He was a standout mentor at all save Chicago, where football was on its way out when he went there. He is 50 years old and has a wife, a son and two daughters, with all of the children being in college on the Pacific coast.

While Shaughnessy has been given the authority to pick his own aides it seems certain that all those now leaders in Terp athletics will be taken care of in the new set-up, which will bring a compulsory physical education program for all students.

Former Asst., P. M. S. & T., Shines In The Philippines

A former member of the University's Military Staff is mentioned for gallantry in directing and leading his battalion in a successful attack on the Japanese in Bataan. The man is Lieutenant Colonel Edward Bowes. A note from a California paper said that Colonel Bowes, taking direct command, led his battalion inch by inch to gain a new objective and eliminate several machine gun placements.

Colonel Bowes was at the University in the late twenties, was quite a popular officer and was well liked in the community. In addition to his teaching he served as coach of the rifle team which came into national limelight.

Also in the Philippines is Lieutenant Ed. Lloyd, former Terp gridiron star. It is possible that Colonel Bowes and Lieutenant Lloyd have met before this.

Old Line Athletic Contributions

Spring Athletic Squads Appear To Be Powerful Enough To Hold Their Own With Majority Of Their Rivals

Having toiled for about three weeks, Maryland's Spring sports teams in baseball, lacrosse, track and tennis were about on edge for actual competition and in good trim to make it interesting for the opposition.

All of the teams have some problems, of course, but apparently are strong enough to rate about a 50-50 chance, or better, against most of their rivals.

Veterans who form the nucleus of the nine are Pitchers Max Hunt, Bob Smith, and Lefty Bill Fulton, Catcher Kenny Bransdorf, infielders Mearle DuVall, Roscoe Whipp, Jim Wharton, and Joe Hoopengardner, who also has slab aspirations, and outfielder Dan Boothe.

Leading newcomers in the squad of about 25 are Jack Brenner, catcher; Ernie Travis, Clark Hudak and Jim Kinsman, infielders; Harold Evans, outfielder, and Hartley Crist, pitcher, who also is a capable outfielder and hitter.

Travis had to undergo a knee operation from an injury suffered in basket ball and will miss half the games at least. His loss was a severe blow.

Many Ace Stickmen Lost

Although lacrosse lost heavily by graduation and to the service, there is a strong backbone for a good team among the 28 aspirants. Jim Forbes, goalie, and Bob Feters, cover point, are the only 1941 defense regulars on hand, but the attack is better set with Ray Grolecki, Milt Vandenberg, Landis Hill and Bill McGregor, who was shelved most of last season from a bad leg.

Main hopefuls up from last year's frosh are Barnett Broughton, goalie; Bill Taylor, Jack Dittmar, Warren Eierman, and Elwood Armacost, defense, and Bill Tarbert and John Hogert, midfielders. However, a stickman who is aiding neatly is Bob Stockbridge, a midfielder, who transferred from Washington College and had to wait a year to become eligible.

Track, Net Squads Fair

Ace track leftovers are Louis Chacos, sprinter; Bob Montgomery, 220 and 440; Randall Cronin, 440 and 880; Bob Condon, half mile; Stanley Kihn, two-miler; Jack Gilmore, Southern Conference outdoor high jump champion; Luther Conrad, shot and discus, and Bill Tilley, broad jumper.

Rookies who doubtless will give the team a tremendous lift include Tiny Horn, shot and discus; Bob James, hurdles and javelin; Carlos Englar, pole vaulter, and Howard Gugel and Pat Carolan, sprinters. Horn has tossed the discus in competition over 148 feet and has done 164 in practice.

Doyle Royal, Harry Baugher, Hyman Berg, Elwood Bates, and Slater Clarke are left from last year's tennis team. Some good talent will come from the 1941 frosh, and DeWitt Smith, an able racketeer, who was out of school for a time, is back.

All of the teams, except baseball, were on the right side of the ledger last Spring. The stickmen won 8 of 11 games, the racketers took 10 of 13 matches, the tracksters captured 4 of 7 dual meets, but the diamonders could grab only 7 of 25 contests.

TOO FEW GOOD SCORERS ON BASKET BALL TEAM

A look at the statistics is all that is needed to explain why Maryland's basket ball team won only seven of 22 games during the past season.

Ernie Travis counted 327 points, Tom Mont, 180, and the four other leaders gathered only 202 among them.

Of the 802 points scored by the entire squad, Travis and Mont made 507, the former accounting for 41 per cent of the total. Five of the six tossers were sophs.

Champion Boxing Squad Has Only One Senior

Hotsy Alperstein, 145-pounder, will be the only boxer lost by graduation from the Maryland team — invited to fill in — which won the Eastern Intercollegiate tourney title at Charlottesville March 6 and 7.

The Terps took only 10 of 18 actual bouts in their triumph. They won 5 out of 6 in the first round, which, with two byes, advanced seven men. They then annexed 5 of 7 semifinals to have all their boys lose out in the finals.

Boxers Who Scored

In addition to Alperstein, the scorers were Joe Cicala, 120; Judson Lincoln, 127; Jack Gilmore, 165; and Herb Gunther, 175. Josh Hughes, 155, was put out in the first round, and Tom Jones, 135, and Len Rodman, heavy, went out in the semis.

This gave Maryland 15 points and enough to nose out the title-defender, Syracuse, which scored 13 with two champs and a runner-up.

Alperstein was the leader for the season, including the tourney, winning 9 of 10 battles; Jones was next with 7 wins, one loss and a draw, with Lincoln standing 6—3—1, Gunther 6—3—0, and Cicala 5—5—0. They were the only ones with .500 or better.

In dual meets, Maryland won 4, lost 2 and drew one, so altogether it was a great season for Bobby Goldstein, former Virginia ring star, in his first year as coach.

Is Homemade Team

Maryland, too, can take unusual pride in its team, as it is strictly home-developed talent. Cicala, Lincoln, Jones and Gilmore are from the District of Columbia, while Alperstein, Hughes, Gunther and Rodman are Baltimoreans, and all of the other boxers used during the regular season are from one of these places.

48 Contests Are Listed For Varsity Outfits

Forty-eight contests, 25 of them at home and several others with nearby foes, have been listed for the Maryland varsity teams in Spring sports — baseball, lacrosse, track and tennis.

Baseball, as usual, tops in the number of games, with 10 at home and as many abroad; lacrosse has its normal number of battles, but for the first time in years more will be played away than at College Park, with six of the ten tilts on foreign fields; four of the six dual track meets will be in Byrd Stadium, but the Terps also will travel for the Penn Relays and the Southern Conference title games, while the tennis team will be host in seven of its 12 matches.

Limited freshman schedules will have most of the events at College Park.

A number of varsity contests with Northern and Southern teams were lost on account of transportation problems and the early closing of some of the schools.

Action was to start on April 2 with the lacrosse team entertaining Harvard, and the baseball squad starting a Dixie trip for six games by playing at Richmond U.

Lucy Trundle Annexes Rich Bowling Prize

Lucy Trundle, '39, a graduate of the College of Education, won the first woman's prize — a $500 defense bond — in the Washington Star's Defense Bond bowling tourney, recently completed. She rolled at the Silver Spring, Md., drives.

Lucy is teaching and running physical education at Rockville High School. She was prominent in girls' athletics and other activities while at College Park. Her home is in Ashton, Md.

NINE IS WELL OFFICERED

Maryland's ball team is well officered this Spring. Two of the four lieutenant-colonels of the Reserve Officers' Training Corps Unit are on the roster and should be standouts. They are Pitcher Bob Smith and Jim (Pop) Wharton, who plays either the infield or outfield.

SPRING SCHEDULES

BASEBALL

April 2—at Richmond U.; 3 and 4—at North Carolina; 6—at Duke (double header); 7—at Virginia; 10—at V. M. I.; 11—at Washington and Lee; 16—Michigan; 17—West Va.; 22—Navy at Annapolis; 24—North Carolina; 29—Army at West Point.

May 1—Richmond U.; 2—Washington College; 4—Virginia Tech; 8—Washington and Lee; 9—Georgetown; 15—Randolph-Macon; 20—Georgetown at Washington.

LACROSSE

April 2—Harvard; 4—Loyola; 11—Baltimore A. C.; 18—Army at West Point; 25—Mt. Washington at Baltimore; 29—Penn State at State College.

May 2—Princeton; 6—Duke at Durham; 9—Rutgers at New Brunswick; 20—Hopkins at Baltimore.

TRACK

April 4—Virginia Tech at Blacksburg; 11—V. M. I.; 18—William and Mary at Williamsburg; 24 and 25—Penn Relays.

May 2—Duke; 4—Virginia; 9—Army; 16—Southern Conference at Durham.

TENNIS

April 6—at Richmond U.; 8—Navy at Annapolis; 9—St. John's of Brooklyn; 17—Richmond U.; 18—Catholic U.; 29—Georgetown; 30—Duke.

May 2—North Carolina; 4—Hopkins; 8—George Washington at Washington; 14—Va. at Charlottesville; 16—Georgetown at Washington.

Fetters Is Well Versed In Defensive Tactics

Bob Fetters, Maryland junior athlete, should be well versed in defense by this time. He held down a defense job on the lacrosse team last Spring and is due to repeat this season; he played goalie on the unbeaten soccer squad last Fall and had only two points scored against him, and was a guard on the basket ball quint in the campaign recently ended. He never took part in sports at Baltimore Poly, where he prepped.

Fetters is also a sergeant in the R. O. T. C., the highest rating obtainable by a junior.

STICK ACE HONOR STUDENT

Ray Grelecki, who figures to be one of the leaders in Maryland's lacrosse attack this Spring, is an honor student in the College of Education. He is a junior and went to Maryland from City College of Baltimore. He scored 12 goals last season.

GRIDDERS ARE YOUTHFUL

Fifteen of the 28 members of the 1941 Maryland freshman football squad will be only 19 years old or less by next Fall. Five will be only 18 then.

Frosh Five Does Well With Limited Assets

Corky Al Heagy's Maryland freshman basketballers, with a very limited amount of material, ended their campaign with nine wins in 15 starts.

John Lookabangh, the top scorer, and Paul Flick, tall, 200 pounder, and Jack Hufman and Bob Cullen, 6 footers with out so much heft, should help the cause of the varsity next year.

Others on the squad of right to go through the season were Morton Benesch, Phil Camponeschi, Erwin Engelbert and Bob Keene. Keene, a little fellow, was a flashy floor player.

Capable Boxing Talent On Freshman Squad

The Terp freshman boxing team, which tied the Virginia yearlings at 4-1, and defeated the Western Maryland Cubs, 5½ to 2½, displayed some clever talent. Leaders were Basil Kambouris, 127; Angel Correa, 165, and Walter Nechey, heavyweight.

Nechey, who attended Charlotte Hall, will enter the army as a second lieutenant.

Here is the complete squad:

120—Charley Knight, Capitol Heights, Md.
127—Basil Kambouris, Baltimore.
135—Tom Snider, Hyattsville; Leon Goldberg, Baltimore, and Warren Byrd, Beltsville.
145—Hugo Di Michele, New York City.
155—Bill Gruber, Halethorpe, Md.
165—Angel Correa, Washington.
175—Howard White, Washington, and John Lobell, Baltimore.
Heavy—Walter Nechey (185), Baltimore.

TERPS HAVE DOUBLE GRIP ON TWO LOOP EVENTS

Maryland boasts the Southern Conference track champions, both indoors and outdoors, in the half mile and high jump but two of the titleholders are in the service. Gene Ochsenreiter won the 880 last Spring and Bob Condon followed suit last month, while in the high jump Jack Gilmore carried off honors last May and Duke Alexander turned the trick in February.

Ochsenreiter went into the Army Air Corps last December and Alexander became a Marine March 4, just four days after winning his crown. Condon is a senior and Gilmore is a junior.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

Another month and another scholastic year will be almost on us. No long (?) three months' vacation this year.

Lots of things are to happen, however, between now and the beginning of the next school year and among those happening on the Hill will be the Annual Track and Field Meet on May 2nd. At this time many of the outstanding high school athletes of the State are present and make their acquaintance with Maryland.

It is sincerely hoped that Maryland men over the State will see to it that promising students and athletes make the trip to this annual affair.

You have, I mean the Alumni, another opportunity, if you have any particularly desirable young man in mind, of presenting him to Maryland and some of her heroes of the diamond, gridiron, track and field when the "M" Club put on their Spring party on May 8th. Get in touch with either Cory, Secretary of the "M" Club, or Rosy Pollock, Secretary of the Alumni Association,

The Old Timers

Big Alumni Reunion, Friday, May 29

Just a half-century ago your Alumni Association began under the leadership of the late Hon. Melvin C. Hazen, '87. At the time of his death Mr. Hazen was chairman of the District of Columbia Board of Commissioners.

One of the outstanding classes of the association, 1892, will also celebrate their fiftieth anniversary. Fred Besley, Ed. Johnson, Frank Chew, and George Calvert, eighty per cent, of the surviving members, promise to be on hand to raise their flag in honor of the anniversary.

Dr. A. A. Parker, '05, will be the presiding mogul on this particular day, with the following program arranged. Registration, beginning at 10 A. M. in the lobby of the Administration Building; Flag Raising by the boys of 1892 at 12:30; Annual Alumni Luncheon and Election of Officers; Presentation of Portrait of the late Dean Emeritus Thomas H. Spence, by Messrs. James W. Stevens, '19, and James M. Swartz, '19; Remarks by Preston L. Peach, '03, recently returned from the Federated Malaya States, who kept one step ahead of the Japs.

At 4 P. M. military commissions will be presented to those graduating in R. O. T. C. The ceremony will be held at the Flag Pole in front of the Library with Col. Robert E. Wysor, Jr., P. M. S. T. C., presiding. This is a colorful exercise and Alumni are invited to attend.

Shaughnessy To Speak

In the evening the annual Alumni Dinner will be held in the University Dining Hall, with Mr. Clark Shaughnessy as the principal speaker, to be followed by a floor show. All who have attended the Dinner are invited to attend the Commencement Ball in the Gym Armory as guests of the University.

Ladies desiring to make changes of dress for the dance may be accommodated at either of the Girls' Dormitories. The men will find accommodations available at the Men's Dormitories.

Automobile parking will be convenient at the Dairy Building, near the Ritchie Coliseum, and in the rear of either Dormitory.

Write all of your classmates to be on hand, as fellowship makes the reunion, and this is where you can do your part.

Friday, May 29, is the day!

Questions of Concern to Students on the Three-Year Plan

What is the new "three-year" plan, and when does it go into effect?

Answer: On June 19, 1942, the University of Maryland will begin to operate on a completely year-around basis. Three full semesters of University work will be offered each calendar year, instead of but two as heretofore.

Why was the new plan adopted? Will it help win the war?

Answer: Yes, the new plan was adopted to help win the war. In order to win the war, America needs all the trained minds she can get in many different kinds of work. Our country must be supplied with these skilled services as quickly as possible. Consequently, the total facilities of the University must at all times be fully utilized in preparing young citizens to make their needed contributions in the national war effort. College students who are preparing themselves for needed types of services are definitely enlisted in the service of their country.

How long will it take to complete the usual four-year course for the B.A. or B.S. degree under the new "three-year" plan?

Answer: Although it is called the "three-year" plan, the new program actually makes it possible for students to earn their diploma in 2 years and 8 months. Thus a student who entered the University not later than 4 months after his 17th birthday would graduate from college just prior to age 20.

If a young man takes the new three-year course, will he be exempted from the draft until he graduates from college?

Answer: Paradoxically, the answer is both "no" and "yes" so long as the present draft law remains unchanged. The answer is "no" in that all young men must register for the draft at age 20 regardless of whether they be in college, factory, office, or unemployed. The answer is "yes" in the case of those college men who are pursuing certain professions which draft boards regard as grounds for deferment. In quite another sense, the answer is also "yes" for all who begin the new three-year course not later than a few months following the 17th birthday. These men would graduate within a few months following age 20, just prior to the time they could be taken by the draft. The policy of the University is to grant degrees to men who are drafted in the second semester of the senior year. For further information address the Director of Admission, University of Maryland, College Park, Md.

Mr. Shaughnessy Will Speak At "M" Club Spring Party

When the "M" Club boys and some prospective students get together on May 8 at College Park, they will hear Mr. Clark Shaughnessy talk on the Athletic and Physical Education Program. In addition, moving pictures of the campus activities, athletic games and outstanding football plays will be shown.

The gathering will start with a buffet supper in the University Dining Hall at 6:30 o'clock at a cost of $1.25 per person. Reservations in advance will greatly help the committee on arrangements. Write Dr. E. W. Cory.

NEW ARMORY UNDER WAY

Work has started on the New Armory which is to be located just in the rear of the Administration Building facing the boulevard. The rapidly expanding R. O. T. C. training program drastically needs the building. Present plans call for completion by the Fall of this year so as not to impede the winter training schedule.

George F. (Rosy) Pollock, business assistant in athletics, freshman baseball coach and Alumni secretary at Maryland, is entering the Army as a first lieutenant. He earned his R. O. T. C. commission back in the '20's when he was starring in baseball and football for the Terps. Recently he had been serving as captain in the home guards.

—o—

Maryland's ball team has rescheduled the trip to Lexington, Va., that was rained out earlier this month, listing V. M. I. May 11 and Washington and Lee the next day.

—o—

Jack Wright, Maryland soph pitcher, who broke Maryland's losing streak last Friday by easily beating West Virginia, really has just begun to develop. All he had last year as frosh was willingness and a powerful but uncontrollable right arm. In one game as a yearling he gave six bases on balls in a row. He's an exceptional fielder any place he is used. Wright was all-State full-back last fall.

FELLOW ALUMNI:

and tell them of your prospects and your attendance at this meeting.

The highlight of all will be the fiftieth anniversary of the founding of the Alumni Association on May 29th and the week of Graduation. Embrace every opportunity to attend these Maryland functions and revive the old Maryland Spirit. This year's meeting, the Golden Anniversary, is the meeting of a lifetime. None of us ever have more than one Golden Anniversary—so let none of us miss it.

We extend welcome greetings to our new member of the faculty and football coach, Clark Shaughnessy. Welcome to Maryland and may your work and friendships here be both long and lasting. He wants to know as many of us as possible and surely we all want to welcome him—hence another incentive to come back in large numbers at one or more of the three meetings mentioned above.

We all hope and feel that this fiftieth anniversary is to be the beginning of a new era for Maryland. Our good friend and energetic President—Curley—has, by his untiring efforts, given us a plant and faculty of which we may all be proud and it behooves every Maryland Alumnus to see to it we do our share in selling Maryland to the young people of our whole country. We have something here for them—as good as can be had anywhere else—so let us not be slow to tell and show them of the opportunities presented at University of Maryland, that so, when the students and Alumni gather for that second fiftieth year the brilliance of the accomplishments of the Alumni of Maryland will not be shadowed by that of any institutions.

Sincerely yours,

A. A. PARKER, '05,
President.

Ray Grelecki, outhome, and Milt VandenBerg, first attack, are setting the scoring pace for the Maryland lacrosse team with 14 goals each in five games. Both played for City College of Baltimore in their high school days.

All of Maryland's ace grid ends will shift from track to Spring football practice. They are Bob James and Luther Conrad, 1941 regulars, and Jack Gilmore, who was going great guns when he was put out early in the season through an injury in the Duke game. James is a hurdler and javelin thrower; Conrad tosses the discus and shot, and Gilmore is Southern Conference high jump champ. James was a double winner against William and Mary last week and the three of them totalled 18 points.

A FORMER MAY DAY QUEEN

Annual May Day on May 4

On Monday, May 4, at 4 P. M., weather permitting, the annual crowning of the Queen of the May will be held on the campus green. This is one of the most colorful Spring events and always draws quite a throng. Above is a picture of a few years ago.

Stewardess For Air Lines

Mr. Donald Magarrel, director of passenger service for United Air Lines, announces waiving of registered nurse requirements for the duration:

"Study hard, girls—especially such subjects as speech, English, hygiene, physiology, sociology and home economics. We'll require at least two years of college or university training, but we're making no change as to physical specifications which call for applicants to be between 5 feet 2 and 5 feet 5 inches tall, not over 120 pounds in weight, and between 21 and 25 years of age."

Program For Field Day Unusually Attractive

An unusually attractive program has been arranged for Maryland's annual Field Day, Saturday, May 2. It will be the twenty-fifth meet, although the affair was inaugurated in 1911. The only lapse in recent years was in 1929 when the steel stands on the East side of Byrd Stadium were being built.

As usual, the feature of the affair is the interscholastic meet, with 13 open events and seven closed to the county high schools of the State, but these competitions are supported by four luring varsity events, as follows:

Noon—Track: Maryland vs. Duke, with the interscholastics being run concurrently.

2:30—Baseball: Maryland vs. Washington College.

3:00—Tennis: Maryland vs. North Carolina.

4:00—Lacrosse: Maryland vs. Princeton.

The Terp teams will have their hands full and an even break would be quite a feat. North Carolina and Duke will be hot favorites in the tennis and track meets and Maryland will rate no better than 50-50 in the lacrosse and baseball games.

Last year Princeton was beaten, 6—5, in overtime, and Washington College was nosed out, 12—11.

North Carolina, year in and year out, has about the best college tennis team in the country and the Duke track squad has unusual strength this season.

BASEBALL SQUAD LIKELY TO HOLD DRESS PARADE

Maryland's diamond squad hardly knows whether to play ball or go on dress parade this season.

It has three of the five lieutenant colonels of the R. O. T. C. on the roster in Bob Smith, pitcher; Louis Tierney, catcher, and Jim Wharton, second sacker.

SHAUGHNESSY STARTS WORK

Clark Shaughnessy, new physical fitness boss, athletic director and football coach, has begun "T" time at Maryland with close to 100 grid aspirants toiling in Spring drills. He has made a fine impression on everyone.

Grid Aces Big Factors On Spring Outfits

Eleven football players who are expected to be conspicuous for Maryland next Fall under Clark Shaughnessy are important cogs on varsity Spring sports teams.

Baseball has Jack Wright and Joe Hoopengardner, pitchers, and Jack Brenner, catcher. All are football backs.

Lacrosse is bolstered greatly by Jack Dittmar, defense man, and Bill Taylor, midfielder. Dittmar shone as a grid tackle last Fall and Taylor was a reserve center. Tom Mont, a football back, also is developing rapidly as a stickman.

Track probably is aided most of all by gridmen. Among them are Jack Gilmore, Southern Conference high jump champion; Luther Conrad, shot and discus; Louis Chacos, 440; Bob James, hurdler and javelin thrower, and Jack Mier, shot putter and broad jumper. Gilmore, Conrad, and James all are outstanding ends on the gridiron and Chacos and Mier are capable backs.

Lacrosse Dependables Start From Scratch

Bob Fettes and Ralph Burlin, regular defense men; Landis Hill, John Hoyert and Bernie Ulman, midfielders, and Barnett Broughton, reserve goalie, important members of the Maryland lacrosse squad, learned all their stick skill at College Park. All are Marylanders, except Hill, Ulman and Fettes being from Baltimore.

Ulman is a senior playing his first season and Broughton and Hoyert are sophs, the last named being a second-stringer for the frosh last year. Ulman and Hoyert divide the second defense post. Hill is a senior lettemann.

Tom Mont, from Cumberland, developing rapidly as a midfielder, is another to whom the game was Greek until last season with the yearlings.

Four Vets, Three Rooks Carry Tennis Burden

Four lettermen and three newcomers to the varsity squad are carrying Maryland's tennis hopes this season.

Doyle Royal and Griff Baugher, seniors, and Elwood Bates and Slater Clarke, juniors, are the lettermen. Julian Kerpen, a junior who did not come out last year after playing for the 1940 frosh, and Leon Strauss and Eli Gottlieb, sophs, complete the squad.

Two hard blows hit the team with the best freshman player at Maryland in years not returning for scholastic reasons and another strong performer, who is in school, being ineligible on a like count.

ENGLAR, OF TRACK TEAM, VERSATILE PERFORMER

Carlos Englar, Maryland soph pole vaulter and high jumper, won the indoor decathlon held by the Physical Education Department.

Bob Fetters, basket ball, lacrosse and soccer player, was second and Jack Mier, football halfback and track man, was third. Events in the test are shot put, rope climb, standing broad jump, standing high jump, hop, skip and jump, jump and touch, climbing, 40-yard dash, basket ball foul shooting and baskets per minute.

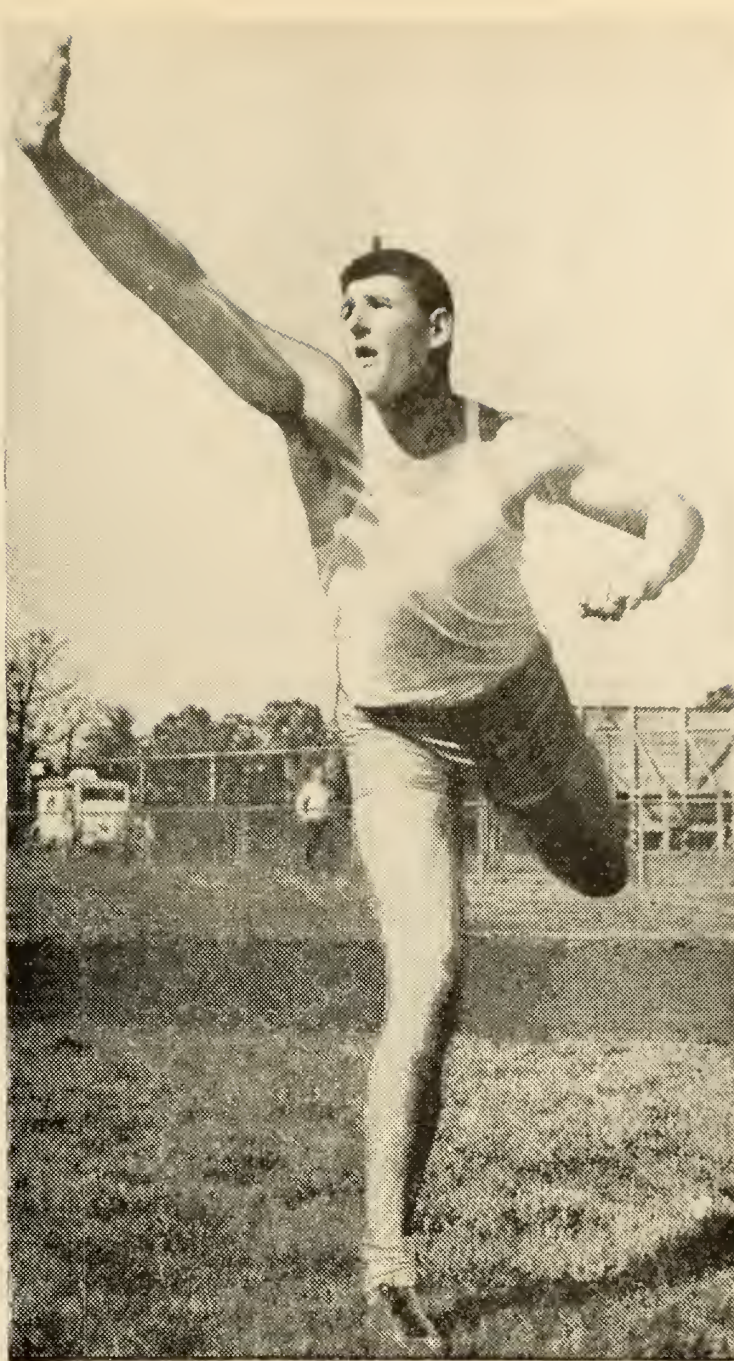

Englar and Fetters are Baltimoreans.

EIGHT ON DIAMOND SQUAD NOT OUT LAST SEASON

There is an unusual angle to the Maryland baseball squad in that eight of its members are players who were in school last year but did not perform either as frosh or varsity candidates.

Among them are Clark Hudak, regular shortstop; Hartley Crist, one of the leading pitchers, and Dick Cleveland, starting right fielder. Others who are reserves are Bob Webster and Merrell Grafton, pitchers; Louis Tierney, catcher, and Jim Kinsman and Bill Ellett, infielders or outfielders.

Tierney and Kinsman are strong bidders for regular jobs.

CHARLES HECKERT HORN

Sophomore discus tosser who has tilted the Maryland record to 150 feet, 7 1/2 inches and who doubtless will add many feet before long. He also is a shot putter of marked ability. He's 6 feet, 3 inches and scales 220 pounds. He won his letter at basket ball this past season.

SHOULD PLAY AT 4 P. M.

When Clark Shaughnessy takes his Maryland football team to Charlottesville next Fall to play Frank Murray's Virginia eleven, action should be started at 4 o'clock, as both will serve "T."

GRELECKI IS POLITICIAN

Ray Grelecki of Baltimore, one of the ace stickmen in Maryland's flashy lacrosse attack, has been elected president of the Student Government Association. He's an honor student, too.

COVER PICTURE

One of the most attractive and inviting places on the campus is the recently restored Rossborough Inn which, history tells us, housed many of the Nation's great in the early days of the Republic. Alumni will find this a cool and restful spot to meet old friends and view the colorful pageant of Commencement.

The view on the front cover was taken by David Johnson, '41, whose artistic and outstanding photography was largely responsible for the fact that the University student annual, the Terrapin, was awarded All-American honors last year. This view shows the garden wall from the East.

Pollock, In Army, Sadly Missed At University

George Findlay (Rosey) Pollock, '23, Alumni secretary, assistant in athletics, freshman baseball coach, and popular and efficient "jack of all trades," is being sadly missed on the campus.

Rosey has gone into the Army with the rank of first lieutenant and certainly will do an excellent job for Uncle Sam as he has done for his Alma Mater. He will be hard to replace at the University, as when there was something extra to be done, particularly of a trying nature, it always was "let Rosy do it."

Rosey was a real athlete in his day, although he weighed only 153 pounds when he was starring at center on the football team and at first base and in the outfield in baseball. In fact, he had and still has "what it takes."

Mrs. Pollock and their three children will continue to reside in College Heights, near the University. — W. H. H.

Alumni Reunion Changed To May 30

WILL INCLUDE DANCE, MEETING, COMMENCEMENT AND FOOTBALL GAME

Unavoidable circumstances apparently necessitate a change in the Alumni program for Commencement Week, and Alumni Day will be held on Saturday, May 30, instead of May 29, as had been previously announced, according to Dr. H. C. Byrd, President of the University.

Rosey In Army

The change in program was largely made necessary by the fact that Rosey Pollock, Secretary of the Alumni Association, has been called into active duty as an administrative officer of one of the base hospital units provided by the University of Maryland Medical School, and because it would be difficult to have a large reunion with so many of the Alumni on Government and military service missions of one kind or another.

In addition, Dr. A. A. Parker, President of the Alumni Association, has been compelled to take a long rest due to a heart condition and it will very likely be impossible for him to be present on Alumni Day. President Byrd talked with Dr. Parker recently on three occasions and learned that he is coming around in great shape and expects to be back handling his practice again in the near future.

Reunion Postponed

After discussing the situation with several prominent Alumni, including President Parker and Vice-President Watkins, University officials have decided to postpone plans for a large anniversary reunion and to change the general schedule of events.

The new plans for Alumni Day include an invitation to the Commencement Ball which will be held in the Gymnasium-Armory on Friday night from 9 P. M. to 1 A. M. The Alumni should obtain tickets for the Commencement Ball from Mr. Frank K. Haszard, Secretary to President Byrd. Either write Mr. Haszard for the tickets or see him in person on May 29th.

Registration will take place on Saturday morning at 9 o'clock in the new Administration Building and the annual meeting will begin at 9:30 A. M. Following the meeting the Alumni are invited to attend graduation exercises in the Coliseum at 11 o'clock. More than 800 graduates will receive their diplomas this year and it is felt Alumni will enjoy seeing this thrilling and colorful event.

Football Game

At 3 o'clock a football game will be held between two picked squads which have been coached this Spring by Clark Shaughnessy, the new Director of Athletics and football coach at the University. This will be the first time that Alumni have had an opportunity to meet Mr. Shaughnessy and to see the new system to be employed by Maryland football teams. An admission fee of 50 cents will be charged for the game — all receipts from which will be used for the purchase of athletic equipment to help carry on the training program for the R. O. T. C. Regiment at the University.

University officials feel that under present conditions such a program as this will provide a much more practical and satisfactory day for returning Alumni than if an attempt had been made to carry out the original Friday program.

Bombing Of Singapore Described By Preston L. Peach, '03

When the big bombs dropped in Raffles Square, Singapore, in the still morning hours of December 8, and the Japanese gave warning that war was on, I was in the city and went through all the initial experiences of the opening of the war of the Southwest Pacific. Now, I am writing this at Mitchellville, amid the peaceful beauty of a glorious Spring day in Maryland, but as I travel back in time to that day in December I find myself in a bad dream—a nightmare. Then I read the daily newspaper and listen to the radio and I find it is true, only too true.

Saved By Smoke Pall

Until the very day before we left Singapore with twenty other American missionaries and forty-five American business and professional men and women, we did not believe that fortress would fall. But when, two days later, on January 30, we actually left the harbor amid burning warehouses, rubber and coal and exploding bombs, we began to feel that the city would fall. Our ship was saved by a great pall of black smoke which was over the entire harbor.

As deck passengers on that American freighter we crossed the Java Sea to the north coast of Java. We wore life belts continually and had a blackout every night.

On they came and Singapore surrendered. Java and Sumatra went into the fight at once. We left Java from the south coast on February 22. Up to that time we had

Shaughnessy And "T" Football Make Tremendous Hit As New Grid Style Dominates Toil At College Park

Athletics are being run pretty much on "T-time" at College Park now. In fact, Spring football practice, which dominates the situation, starts each day at 4 o'clock. Different varieties of "T" are served but none of it is "pink."

Clark Shaughnessy, the new athletic boss and grid coach, who has made a fine impression on everyone as a man as well as a mentor, and his assistants keep the boys moving at a fast gait despite the fact that there are close to 100 on the field. This is double the number usually out for Spring work and bespeaks the enthusiasm that Shaughnessy has stirred up on the campus. All get the same minute attention.

Will Carry All Aspirants

Of course, this does not mean that the new coach has a greatly increased amount of real football material and the Terps who made up the varsity and frosh squads last season doubtless will do most of the playing next Fall. Several, however, may come out of the enthused newcomers and all will get the benefit that football brings. Shaughnessy does not intend to cut a single man from the squad.

In addition to Jack Faber, Al Heagy and Al Woods, who made up Maryland's football coaching staff for the past two years, Bob Snyder and Sid Luckman, quarterbacks, and Joe Stydhar, tackle, of the professional champion Chicago (T) Bears, have been on the job. Snyder and Stydhar will serve through the entire Spring session but Luckman helped only one week-end.

Practice was started on April 20 and will end with an intra-squad game May 30.

All Of Squads Contribute

Usually, of course, Spring football practice is over before the regular season in sports begins; but this year, owing to the coaching change, lacrosse, baseball and track all had to suffer by giving some of their best men over to the grid drills. In lacrosse it also meant the loss of Faber for nearly two weeks and Heagy for the rest of the season after April 20. Trackmen and stickmen were made available for their contests but, naturally, were not fully tuned for their tasks.

Maryland's gridders, old and new, are sold on the "T," find that it does not entail drudgery of the hard-blocking type of game, are stirred by its offensive possibilities and are getting real fun out of the practice sessions.

Testing Stage Is Reached

When this was written, Shaughnessy was getting his big crew to the point where battles between the various teams were to be the order. He equipped six elevens for such action.

So far Duke Alexander, soph end, and Harold Berry, junior guard, both of whom have gone into the Marines, have been the only letter men to be lost. Several of the 1941 yearlings are gone for one reason or another but it appears now as if close to 45 from these last two year's squads would be around in the Fall.

At any rate, even if some others are lost, Shaughnessy will not cry over his material, and it is a safe bet that he'll have an outfit that will be hard for any foe to lick.

Boothe Highly Praised For All-Around Skill

Dan Boothe, Maryland centerfielder, is rated the best gardener he ever has coached by Burt Shipley for his ground covering, throwing and base running ability.

Boothe, who is a junior, also is doing his bit with the bat, hitting over .300.

GRAHAM GOOD MENTOR

Bill Graham, varsity defense man in 1941 and two preceding years, did a fine job of coaching the Terp frosh lacrosse men.

Spring Athletic Outfits Having 50-50 Season

Maryland's varsity Spring sports team were having a 50-50 season with competition nearing a close.

The lacrosse team had lost only one game, a 12-10 thriller to Princeton, but that apparently cost the national title; the track squad was in the red, the ball club was in a position where it couldn't break even on the season, and the tennis outfit was sure to be on the right side of the ledger.

The big affairs left on the schedule are the lacrosse game with Hopkins on Homewood Field in Baltimore at 5:00 P. M. on May 20 and the ball game with Georgetown in Washington that afternoon.

Maryland can assure itself at least a runner-up position in the lacrosse race by beating the Blue Jays.

Champion Terp Boxers Also Good Students

Maryland's Eastern Intercollegiate boxing tourney champions are proving they can "hit the books" as well as their ring rivals.

Scholastic figures on the College Park squad, not including Len Rodman, heavy, who is a Pharmacy School student in Baltimore, shows the team members have an average of 2.581 out of a possible four points. This is considerably above the general average of the student body.

Judson Lincoln, Hotsy Alperstein and Jack Gilmore, three of the regulars, boasted three point averages or better for the past semester.

BROUGHTON IS LEADER

Barnett Broughton, reserve goalie on the varsity lacrosse team, has been elected president of the next Junior Class. He served as frosh prexy and now is completing his term as head of the sophs.

Annual Military Day Provides Thrills For Visitors

As an unexpected highlight to the annual Military Day exercises this year, the Military Department at the University announced that Luther Conrad, of Hollidaysburg, Pa., had been chosen as Colonel of the Maryland Regiment for the coming two semesters.

This announcement came just after the regimental competition and was a complete surprise, as the colonel is normally appointed at the beginning of the new school year. Young Conrad, a junior in Education, football and track star, and a member of Alpha Tau Omega social fraternity, did not know of his appointment until just prior to the announcement. His parents had been notified, however, and were present to congratulate him on his new honor.

Company K Wins

Company K, captained by Ted Vial, of Hyattsville, captured the company competition, winning by a close margin over Companies M and I. Incidentally, Company I, commanded by Captain Jerry Prentice, of University Park, had led in the competition throughout the year, although it was nosed out by Company K through its superior drill.

Lieutenant Robert Condon, of Baltimore, carried his third platoon of Company L to victory in the platoon competition.

Thirty-six candidates faced the blistering sun in the individual competition for the best drilled soldier. A freshman daydodger, James LaCroix, Jr., of Washington, won this contest, but was closely trailed by sophomores Douglas Hope, of St. Michael, and W. C. Pennington, of Chevy Chase.

Dr. Byrd Presents Awards

President Byrd presented the awards to the winners. Members of the University Rifle Team were awarded the second and third prizes in the William Randolph Hearst National R. O. T. C. Rifle Matches, and the Pershing Rifles Platoon, commanded by Robert Rivello, of Washington, received an award as the highest scoring P. R. Team in the country. This platoon also received an award for winning the drill team competition staged in New York late in April.

Ulrich Geller, of Chevy Chase, and Stephen Early, Jr., son of President Roosevelt's secretary, received high scoring awards for the varsity and freshman rifle teams.

Judges for the day included three Maryland Alumni: Major Geary Eppley, '18, chief of the judges; Captain W. J. McWilliams, '38; and Lieutenant P. A. Pfeiffer, '37.

High ranking military officers witnessed the exercises and a squad of military police gave demonstrations of riot control and Judo, the Americanized name for the Far Eastern Ju-Jitsu. Officers from the Civilian Defense Air Warden School, meeting on the campus at the time, gave a demonstration of control of incendiary bombs.

Bringing the exercises to a spectacular conclusion, juniors and members of Pershing Rifles staged a sham battle which included trench mortars, land mines, a smoke screen, blank cartridges, grenades, and two dive-bombing Fairchild training planes which dropped harmless flour bombs to give a realistic appearance to the games.

Air-Raid Wardens—Predecessor and successor as Air-Raid Warden for Prince George County was and is an Alumnus. Robert Forrest, '17, State Delegate to the Legislature, was formerly Chief Air-Raid Warden for Prince George County and because of duties taking him out of the county, had to resign. His successor is none other than Emanuel Zalesak, '25, former president of the Alumni Association and now business man of College Park.

Ruth Lee Thompson Named Maryland May Queen

Under sunny skies and with a crowd of more than 1,000 parents and students in attendance, Miss Ruth Lee Thompson, of Cumberland, was named May Queen for this year at exercises held on the campus on May 4. Five outstanding women members of the Junior Class were also tapped by Mortar Board during the ceremony.

Miss Thompson has been extremely popular and active at the University, and this year was Women's Editor of the Terrapin, secretary of her class, vice-president of her sorority, and a member of Mortar Board, and of Phi Kappa Phi.

Miss Thompson's court was composed of Kay Barker, Ruth Dashiell, Esther Handler, Edwina Hambleton, Jane Howard, Caroline McGill, Caroline Meng, Mary Frances Ryon, Elma Staley, Audrey Stewart, Bette Stone, and Louise Teller.

BOMBING OF SINGAPORE

been in over 100 raids in Knafo Lumpur, Singapore, Batavia. In passing let me say that aerial warfare and bombing is a terrifying thing in its first stages. Let no one take it lightly.

We journeyed from Java to Australia again under blackout and with life belts on and arrived in Melbourne March 5. March 6 was our wedding anniversary, but we forgot all about it. Do you blame us? We felt much at home among the Australians, and especially when we saw our American soldiers. I wanted to shake hands with everyone I met. They are a wonderful group. They have found a great place in Australia's heart.

16,000-Mile Journey

We left in a U. S. transport on March 15, and by a devious route over the great Pacific, we landed in San Francisco on April 5. Then we went by train across the Nation to Washington where we ended a 16,000-mile journey. We are safe at home and among friends, but we live yet in the land of our adoption, Malaya, with its beauty, its opportunities of service to humanity, and its resources.

It cannot, it must not remain for long in the hands of invaders and despoilers. It must be redeemed. It shall be.
